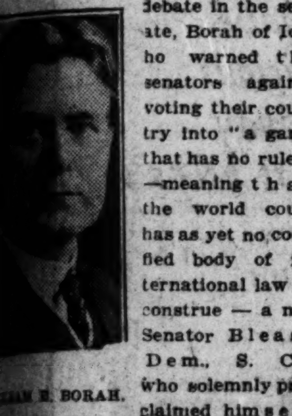
SHUN GAME THAT HAS NO RULES: BORAH ON COURT

Blease Asks, "Why Want to Go In?"

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—In this afternoon's world court debate in the senate, Borah of Idaho warned the senators against voting their country into "a game that has no rules"—meaning that the world court has as yet no codified body of international law to construe—and Senator Blease [Dem., S. C.], who solemnly proclaimed himself the only senator from the south who is against the world court"—responded with questions that also were [illegible].



WILLIAM E. BORAH.

"That," he asked, "do you want to [illegible] the world court at all for? Who are you skeered of? What are you afraid of? What do you expect? Ex[illegible]ing, senators, from such en[illegible]s. They never have brought [illegible]ing. They never will. When [illegible] into the world war I said then that we would get out of it would [illegible] women, orphaned children, [illegible] graves, and debts. And [illegible] all we have got out of it."

Reed Adds Admonition.

Senator Reed [Dem., Mo.] directed [illegible] admonition toward the south[illegible] senators by assuring them that [illegible] not inclined to laugh away as [illegible] fantastic the suggestion of a [illegible] England newspaper that if the United States went into the world [illegible] England might bring before [illegible] court claims of its citizens who [illegible] millions of dollars' worth of [illegible] issued by the southern confederacy.

Other senators made haste to point to the fact that Senator Overman [Dem., N. C.] has already offered a reservation to the world court proposal which would prevent the court from considering without the consent of the United States any domestic questions, such as immigration, territorial integrity of the states, and alleged foreign obligations of any of them.

"That," Senator Reed replied, "[illegible] to me like a vote of a lack of confidence in the court."

Some Borah Base Hits.

Here are some of the resounding sentences in Senator Borah's plea that the United States keep out of the game that has no rules until it has rules:

"Of course, it will take time to codify a sound code of international law as distinguished from a body of legal supposition resting on broken pieces of habit and custom and practice and on the opinion of scholars.

"But just so sure as you fail to establish a code of international law, your world court will have no more to do than the present court at The Hague has. The rules governing the court being absent, the nations will not submit themselves to the chances of that kind of adjudication. In order to have a real court to which the nations will go, you must have the laws which that court is to construe.

Law Slow in Building.

"If we are going to substitute law and order for lawlessness and violence in international disputes, it must be by the slow, silent building up of a code of international law.

"What you now have to offer a war weary world is a court without any body of law and a court to which no nation can take a wrong doing nation without the wrong doing nation's consent.

An Easy Court of Appeals.

Senator Shipstead [F. L., Minn.] here interjected:

"Would it not be convenient for an autocracy to appeal to a court which has no body of law to construe, the ideals and opinions of autocracy thus becoming the law?"

Senator Borah: "At the very least convenience."

"In dealing with these great powers let us keep in our hands the cards which belong to us. Let us retain the advantages which are ours. And let us not underestimate the intelligence of the American people."

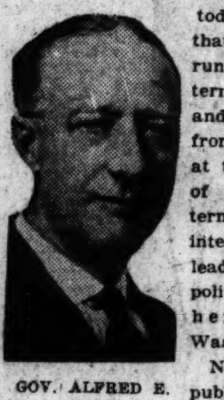
SMITH SAYS HE'S OUT; OTHERS SEE NATIONAL MOVE

Al Claims He Quits at End of Term.

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Announcement by Gov. Alfred E. Smith today at Albany that he would not run for a fourth term as governor and would retire from political life at the expiration of his present term excited great interest among leaders of both political parties here and in Washington.



GOV. ALFRED E. SMITH.
[Marceau Photo.]

New York Republicans were frankly skeptical about the matter. Democrats here, however, insist that the governor has a strong desire to retire and go into business when his third term ends next January. They assert that the governor meant what he said when he forecast his retirement while campaigning for the constitutional amendments last fall.

Won't Run for U. S. Senate.

The governor's statement at Albany, in which he also took pains to announce that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator against Wadsworth this year, provoked a storm of comment among Republicans and Democrats in the national capital.

In Washington's New York colony belief was expressed that Al would have a difficult time in warding off another gubernatorial nomination in view of the conviction of Democrats that he was the party's best bet, and the unwillingness of Democratic office holders to take a chance with some one else in a state normally Republican.

Among Republicans there was special interest in Gov. Smith's declaration that he would not enter primaries for the senatorial nomination. They had felt that even if Mr. Smith eliminated himself from consideration for the state office he would undoubtedly enter the lists for the senatorship.

Improves White House Chances.

It was the belief among Democrats that Smith's chance of getting the Democratic nomination for President in 1928 would be improved rather than hurt by his relinquishing the governorship, assuming that he would be reëlected if he were a candidate. Some of his friends, it was learned, have advised him that he would be in a much stronger position in 1928 if he should leave himself free to accept invitations to speak outside New York state, particularly in the west, than if he continued as governor and his activities were confined mostly to this state.

Although fear of possible defeat was declared to constitute no factor in the governor's decision, it was pointed out that his candidacy for reëlection would undoubtedly bring about an attempt by friends of former Mayor Hylan and followers of William Randolph Hearst to defeat him.

PONZI'S BOSTON AGENT ARRESTED BY BLUE SKY LAW

Boston, Mass., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Caledonio Alviti, Boston representative of Charles Ponzi in his new Florida real estate project, was arrested here today on a charge of violating the blue sky law. Alviti was arraigned and required to furnish $1,000 bail. His case will be heard next week.

Investigation by Attorney General Benton of the Charpon Land syndicate, operated by Ponzi, brought charges that Alviti was selling securities to Kenneth B. Backman of Cambridge, who is associated with the Boston better business commission, which made the complaint.

—Ponzi's syndicate offers lots near Jacksonville. "Certificates of indebtedness" at $10 each are issued to purchasers.

38 Trapped by Mine Blast in West Virginia

Fairmont, W. Va., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The fate of thirty-eight miners in the Jamieson Coal and Coke company No. 8 mine at Farmington, near here, in which an explosion occurred shortly before midnight, will probably not be known for several hours.

The rescue workers are making slow progress, it was said, because of the density of the smoke and piles of debris that are blocking the passageways about 2,800 feet from the foot of the hoist shaft.

Twelve or more men were brought out of the mine immediately following the explosion, they having been at work near the bottom of the hoist shaft.

Rescue cars and crews from several nearby mines are on the scene, and a detachment of state police is maintaining order.

Hunt Oklahoma Dead.

Wilburton, Okla., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Rescue work at the wrecked mine of the Degnan-McConnel company, near here, tonight had resolved into the dreary task of removing the bodies of the 91 victims.

The bodies of 57 men have been taken from the mine, which was damaged by a gas explosion yesterday. Hope went up yearly today when Cecil McKinney, a young white miner, staggered from the air shaft, 23 hours after the explosion. A Negro miner was found alive in the fourteenth level.

Early today a passageway was cleared throughout the mine and bodies of the victims were brought to the surface at intervals until about four o'clock.

At that time work slowed down and bodies were being brought to the top more slowly.

FORMER SUITOR SLASHES GIRL IN ROW OVER COAT

Miss Edith Langford, 24 years old, 1039 North La Salle street, was slashed on the face and possibly permanently disfigured last night at Maple and Clark streets by a former suitor who objected to her being on the street with another man while she was wearing a coat he had given her.

According to the girl, the disgruntled lover is Harry Roberts, 1131 North State street. Roberts fled as the screams of the girl attracted the attention of passers-by, who rushed to her aid. Harry Pierce, 638 York place, who was with Miss Langford, attempted to protect her from the other man and was cut on the hand.

Miss Langford and Pierce were taken to the Henrotin Memorial hospital. The girl said she met Roberts in Clay City, Ind., and that later both lived at the same rooming house at 58 East Schiller street. There he gave her the coat. Last night, when they met, Roberts demanded that she give him the coat.

MISSING ELGIN BROKER PAYS DEBTS BY MAIL

Creditors of Clark Van Housen, 60 years old, for 35 years a well known real estate dealer of Elgin, Ill., who was reported missing, yesterday asked an investigation of his accounts. There were reports that some of Van Housen's creditors had received checks yesterday, settling their accounts in full, while several others had not.

The aged realtor had bought a 25 ride ticket to Chicago, used one ride and mailed the ticket to the broker with $1 for the ride used. In yesterday's mail, also, there was a quitclaim deed for his home at 353 North Spring avenue, sent to the county recorder to be registered. It was in favor of his five children and relinquished his one-third interest in the home left by his wife when she died intestate two years ago.

Harold Van Housen, a son of the missing man, said there were no financial difficulties which would cause his father to flee. He said a dozen or so residents of Elgin had received checks yesterday in the full amounts of what Van Housen owed them.

Vincent Astor Buys Cosden Estate, Tryst of Social Elect

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The estate of Joshua C. Cosden, oil magnate, at Port Washington, L. In announcing the purchase today Mr. Astor said the price was "more than $1,000,000."

Moron Chases, Hits Girl with Heavy Wrench

Margaret Milliken, 14 years old, who lives at 6346 Sheridan road with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Milliken, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Scown, was attacked last night by a moron who chased her for several blocks, striking at her with a heavy wrench or tire tool. Mr. Scown is a well known contractor and Mr. Milliken is a department manager for Armour & Co.

The girl suffered cuts and bruises about the head before she ran, screaming, to her home. The attacker fled in an automobile.

Man at Parked Automobile.

Miss Milliken had been to a beauty parlor at the Sovereign hotel a few blocks from her home early in the evening. As she was returning along Rosemont avenue, approaching Sheridan road, she saw a limousine parked nearby and a man apparently working on the engine.

The girl passed by the automobile, paying no attention to the man beside it. After she had walked a number of yards she suddenly heard the soft patter of footsteps behind her.

She turned. The man was almost on top of her with the blunt instrument—she thought it looked in the darkness like a monkey wrench—raised high.

The girl screamed and threw up her arm and the descending blow glanced off. She started to run and the man followed.

He struck at her again and again. She kept on running almost falling each time from the force of the blows aimed at her skull and falling just short, grazing her back.

The girl kept on running until she reached her front door around the corner on Sheridan road. As she pounded, screaming, on the door the pursuing man turned and ran back around the corner.

Mr. Scown ran at once out on the street looking for the mysterious assailant, but when he reached the spot where the automobile had been parked it was gone.

Police Hunt Attacker.

Summerdale police were combing the north side for the mysterious attacker within an hour after the attack. It is believed the child was intended for the victim of a kidnaping.

Neither the girl, her parents, nor her grandparents could give any reason why any one should want to either attack or kidnap her.

Barbara La Marr, Screen Actress, Suffers Relapse

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—[U.P.]—The condition of Barbara La Marr, noted screen star, suffered a relapse today after she was believed to be on the road to recovery. Miss La Marr was confined to her bed two months ago with a complete physical breakdown.

Two Butchers Almost Kill Armed Robber

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Weibel, manslaughter, one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge George F. Rush.

August Mirabella, robbery, 3 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Leonardi Russo, Frank Monica and Anthony Russo, robbery, 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary, by Judge John P. McGoorty.

Two battling butchers, armed with a knife and a cleaver, fought it out early last night in a shop at 1007 Center street with a thief armed with two revolvers.

When the police answered a woman's call, the robber, wounded many times, was lying over the chopping block. He probably would have been killed.

It was quiet when the stranger entered. Henry Keller, the proprietor, was busying himself about the cash register. James Neumeyer, his assistant, was trimming a steak.

Butchers Prove Mutinous.

They were ordered to hold up their hands and the command was enforced by two large revolvers pointed at them. They obeyed. The robber commanded them to march to the ice box. Keller demurred. The robber cursed as he helped himself to $317 in the cash register. Then, stuffing the bills into a pocket, while still holding both guns, he repeated his order.

The reply was that as long as he had guns he could get away with almost anything. Keller protested again against the ice box imprisonment.

Without wasting any more words the stickup man pointed the revolver at the market owner's chest and pulled the trigger.

Cartridge Fails to Fire.

The cartridge was a dud. Mr. Keller tells the next events:

"I thought the gun was phony; wouldn't go off. So I grabbed him. So did Neumeyer. Then he pulled the trigger again. This one was all right, but the bullet went under my arm. I grabbed a knife and Neumeyer got a cleaver. Say, if those cops hadn't come in that guy would have been sausage."

Mrs. Margaret Quinn, 1918 Maude avenue, came in for a steak while the struggle was in progress. She screamed, left the market, and screamed again. Policemen O'Brien, Barnes, Best, and Specht, flivvering about the neighborhood, heard. They saved the life of the robber.

At the Bridewell hospital, where his condition was said to be serious, the man gave his name as James Smith, 22.

Slayer of Butcher Identified.

The affray was the third staged in Chicago meat markets in twenty-four hours. Everett Lee, ex-convict, who escaped from the Ohio penitentiary, killed William Fuchs in his shop at 3535 North Racine avenue, during a holdup. Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Savage, after an indictment had been returned, said Lee would be brought to trial in thirty days. Lee admitted being in more than a dozen robberies.

A colored burglar, shot and killed while he was looting a meat market at 345 East 29th street, was identified as Algie Brown, 3319 Calumet avenue. He and Alfred Cook, also colored, attacked Policeman Louis Angus with a cleaver and a knife and Angus shot both. Cook was wounded.

BRENNAN, CROWE PLEDGE FORCES FOR HOME RULE

All Candidates to War for City.

FOR LOCAL RULE

Three new movements were launched toward a general home rule fight in Chicago yesterday. They were:

1. The determination of the Cook County Democracy to base its coming campaign on an attack to preserve and redeem all rights of local government.
2. Action by the Crowe-Barrett wing of the Republican party including home rule in its platform, requiring all candidates to subscribe to the fight on downstate domination.
3. The formation of the Chicago Association for Criminal Justice, with a report which inveighs against the use of the parole power to destroy Chicago's endeavor to punish repeatedly convicted criminals. (This story will be found on page 2.)

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Two powerful political machines of Cook county demanded of their legislative candidates yesterday a strict pledge to fight to regain home rule for Chicago.

Addressing the Democratic county committee in session at the Hotel Sherman, George E. Brennan, big chief of the party, said Chicago has reached the limit of its endurance of unwarranted encroachment by the state and that no candidates who do not pledge themselves to restoration of home rule will be supported by the Democratic organization.

Crowe Demands Same Plank.

In language just as firm State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe demanded a strong home rule plank in the platform of the Crowe-Barrett Republicans when the platform committee met at headquarters to begin drafting a declaration of principles for the Jan. 28 convention.

The Democrats decided yesterday to hold a county and legislative nominating and platform convention at West Side Carmen's hall on Feb. 7. There, along with formal presentation of the home rule declaration, planks declaring for modification of the prohibition laws and for impeachment of Gov. Len Small will be written into the platform.

Home Rule Chicago Has Lost.

Home rule, as these leaders interpret it, is broad and far reaching. Mr. Brennan mentioned these things as examples of what Chicago has lost:

Control of its own transportation and its tax matters.

The right to go ahead with the Calumet harbor project which Gov. Small's son as a state official has blocked.

Equitable representation in the legislature.

"I protest against such unwarranted invasion of our rights," Mr. Brennan said. "Are we infants in arms that we need the paternalistic care of a bureaucracy at Springfield? The situation has become serious for Chicago. The Democrats must not fail in this crisis."

Platform Crowe's Building.

To the home rule losses enumerated by the Democratic chief State's Attorney Crowe added a few others.

"The people of Chicago should have control of all matters that affect them alone," he said. "Each political subdivision of the state should have its home rule rights in matters peculiar to it. Chicago, too, should have its full voice in matters that affect the state as a whole.

"I believe the parks of Chicago should be run by people of Chicago who foot the bills. That goes for utilities and all the other things that affect the life of the city and its people.

A Word on Paroles, Too.

"I believe, too, that we should have a little home rule in the matter of paroling convicts from the penitentiary. The state's attorney and trial judge should be consulted on parole matters.

"And I'm for home rule for the United States and not for ruling America by any league of nations or world court. We're capable of running our own affairs. Let's keep our flag above all others."

The Crowe-Barrett platform will include an anti-world court plank.

All Candidates Must Pledge.

The pledge to regain home rule for Chicago will not be confined to legislative candidates, the leaders said, but will be exacted of all candidates for all offices.

It is through a downstate controlled legislature, however, it was pointed out, that Chicago's right to govern itself gradually has been taken away and lodged in state commissions and bureaus under the governor's control.

Down through the years legislation enacted at Springfield has curbed and strangled Chicago's power of self-government, the leaders said. Some of the more glaring examples have been impressed on the public recently. The Calumet harbor incident is one instance.

With the city ready to proceed, with federal government approval, on the project to convert the Calumet marsh into a great industrial harbor, Gov. Small's son, Leslie, director of purchases and construction for the state, stepped in to block the project under authority obtained through legislation last year.

The Nickel Plate railroad has entered into an agreement with the city on the harbor project, contributing to the work in return for switch track concessions in the industrial section. Leslie Small has refused to approve the agreement. The governor's son, under legislation enacted last year, also has demanded the right to approve leases of sanitary district lands.

Regulation of the Chicago transportation systems has been lodged with the Illinois commerce commission, leaving the city little to say in the matter of service and fares.

State's Fingers in Tax Pie.

Taxation is controlled largely by the Illinois tax commission. Gov. Small and Fred Lundin in 1921 attempted to extend state control of local tax matters even further and were blocked only after a bitter fight. The Lundin tax program would strip the board of review and the board of assessors of all authority.

Small and Lundin abandoned a new drive for their tax bill at the last minute only during the last session of the legislature. It is on their 1927 program.

Mr. Brennan discussed the tax matter yesterday.

"We may not like things the board of review and the assessors do sometimes," he said, "but we at least have an opportunity to change the boards. What chance would we have in trying to change an appointee of the governor?"

Lincoln park and the system of parks on Chicago's west side are ruled from Springfield. Mr. Crowe would localize the control, perhaps placing it in the Circuit court, like the south park system.

Deneen Leaders Sympathetic.

Deneen leaders were less specific in their attitude on the home rule proposition, but declared that they supported the home rule principle. Deneen Republicans aided in defeating the Lundin tax program in 1921 and Roy O. West, lieutenant commander of the Deneen forces, yesterday characterized state controlled traction as an outrage.

The Deneen leaders said they have not carried their home rule cause to the point of demanding pledges from their legislative candidates.

Along with their home rule pledge legislative candidates of the Democratic organization must sever some of the unwholesome connections some legislators have made in the past, Mr. Brennan declared.

Bar Alliances With Small.

"We are going to demand that no Democrat go to Springfield with any kind of an alliance with the man who has discredited the state," he said as he took up Gov. Small's challenge for control of the next legislature.

"It is the governor's privilege to make that defiance and appeal to the people against the Supreme court decision but we will meet it."

During his militant speech Mr. Brennan called on South Park Commissioner M. L. Igoe, former Democratic leader of the Illinois house, to return to Springfield as leader again.

NAME CANDIDATE HOPES

Ward leaders at the Democratic committee meeting were asked to submit their recommendations on candidates for the regular organization slate which will be nominated at the Feb. 7 convention. Most of the recommendations were for the county board, sanitary district board, and Municipal court bench.

To expedite matters, Mr. Brennan suggested that the committee on candidates consider all Democratic incumbents in all offices as candidates for renomination. The 13th ward proposed County Treasurer P. J. Carr for sheriff and the 29th ward offered Martin J. O'Brien, chairman of the managing committee and city controller, as candidate for county treasurer.

Other candidates and the wards recommending them were:

PREDICTS HARBOR O. K.

Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], in a speech before 400 real estate men at the Hotel Morrison last night, predicted that the state of Illinois will grant a permit for the Calumet harbor project despite the action of Gov. Small's son, Leslie, refusing approval of the project at this time.

"That the state of Illinois is to be committed by any official against this huge improvement in which the entire state and nation are interested is ridiculous," he said. "It is my prediction that Illinois will officially grant the permit."

Civic Leaders Seek $500,000 Yearly War Chest to Reduce Chicago's $60,000,000 Annual Crime Bill, Lessen Murders

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Twenty-seven of the leading civic and business organizations in Chicago, composing the President's council, moved solidly against the organized crime front yesterday, adopting a program of federation of anti-crime activities, and coöperation with officials, which calls for the expenditure of $500,000 a year to lower our $60,000,000 a year crime bill.

Recommendations of a special committee on the crime situation, headed by Joseph T. Ryerson, were adopted at a meeting of the presidents at the University club presided over by William R. Dawes.

The report calls for immediate organization of a corporation, "The Chicago Association for Criminal Justice," as "fighting unit," coöperating at all times in the investigation, prosecution and punishment of criminals.

Favors Double Legal Inquiry.

One of the first activities of the association, it is stated, will be a detailed investigation into the civil as well as the criminal courts. It is proposed to keep an "accurate record of the performance of public officials" to the end that "venal and crafty men holding office be not permitted to serve selfish ends as against the interests of the whole people." A clear and intimate picture of official acts would be thrown onto the screen of publicity.

Some of the projects to be given immediate consideration are:

1. A city-wide conference on crime conditions, probably in the form of a massmeeting of citizens representing various organizations, to be addressed by speakers of national reputation, including a representative of the national crime commission.

2. General publicity program to be inaugurated immediately.

3. Coöperation of the Illinois and Chicago Bar associations to be invited.

4. The coöperation of all residents of Chicago and all newspapers should be sought.

5. Jury service by all qualified citizens should be made a subject of special concern.

6. The coöperation of the Chicago crime commission should be sought and its activities encouraged.

7. The Committee of Fifteen and the Juvenile Protective association likewise should be asked to coöperate.

8. Administration of justice in the local courts in every phase of judicial activity should be a matter of primary interest.

9. The association will have a special interest in the work of the Legislative Voters' league and the Municipal Voters' league, with both of which it will hope actively to coöperate.

For Unified Financing.

The financing of all agencies taken over by the new association will be consolidated into one task.

While the report states the "law breaker is found in all levels of society," no effort is made to trace the social ramifications of crime, as was done in the Roscoe Pound report on Cleveland. There is no discussion of fundamental causes, the report dealing with more practical and obvious effects.

1922	228	1925	352

"Robbery," it is stated, "is increasing not only in the number of offenses committed but also in values involved. The frequency and subtlety with which this crime is committed and the large losses sustained through it tend to support the assertion that it is the work of highly organized specialists.

"Jewelry losses by robbery in Chicago for eleven months of 1925 exceeded $2,000,000.

"But while crime has increased the punishment of crime has diminished, and this in turn adds to its volume.

"Difficult as it is to secure conviction of offenders, the public has come to believe that the operation of the machinery by which convictions are obtained is often counteracted and its results nullified by such administrative agencies as the board of pardons."

Figuring Human Equation.

The report speaks of the extent to which "human frailty" enters into the acts of officialdom, the ease with which crime is committed, the protection afforded the criminal by the "ramifications of modern civilization," and then charges that one great contributing cause to the increase of crime is the apathy of the citizen toward the character of men elected to office.

The nation-wide prevalence of crime is discussed and attention called to the recent organization in New York of the national crime commission and a similar concentration of roused public sentiment in several other states.

"The proposed association in the exercise of its functions will not attempt to replace public authority, but the spirit and citizenship of its members will act as an auxiliary and stimulant to those in public office. It will conceive one of its primary purposes to awaken public opinion, and it will make available facts on which intelligent and assured conclusions can be accepted and decisive action undertaken. It will not theorize.

Would Stop Law Breaking.

"It will ascertain the facts and, acting thereon, will put into effect such affirmative measures as may be necessary to put a stop to law breaking, the disturbance of the peace, the flouting of public order, and particularly those forms of criminality which threaten with violence the safety of persons and property. It will utilize existing agencies for the purpose of assisting in the detection and investigation of crimes and criminals and the enforcement of the law against wrongdoers.

"The great insurance campanies dealing with the subject of the direct annual loss caused by crime estimate it at about three billion dollars for the entire country. Chicago, having more than one-fiftieth of the country's population, would therefore share in this loss to the extent of more than sixty million dollars per annum. The committee is confident that this city can be depended on to meet a budget of $500,000 a year for the purpose of minimizing this financial loss, protecting the person of the individual citizen, waging perpetual war upon crime and making a better Chicago."

Those on Subcommittee.

Members of the subcommittee with Mr. Ryerson are Trevor Arnett, Sewell L. Avery, Andrew A. Bruce, Rush C. Butler, Henry P. Crowell, Abel Davis, David R. Forgan, Elwood G. Godman, Harry Eugene Kelly, John R. Montgomery, George E. Scott, and Edward M. Skinner.

Edward E. Gore, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, was elected president of the Chicago Crime commission yesterday. Vice presidents elected were Frank J. Loesch, Sewell L. Avery, A. W. Sproehnle. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, who remains as operating director, ascribed the nation-wide interest in the campaign for law enforcement and the reduction of crime to the creation of a public opinion started in Chicago by the crime commission.

Charles R. Holden, retiring president, submitted a report in which he emphasized the necessity of following every criminal case to a conclusion as a means of obtaining strict justice in the aggregate. Mr. Gore, as chairman of the committee on the revision of the Illinois statutes, said this activity would be one of the chief interests of the commission during the year.

OUT OF HARD COAL, BUT CHICAGO KEEPS WARM WITH SUBSTITUTES

The hard coal strike has not inconvenienced Chicago fuel burners to any great extent, according to Marshall E. Keig, executive vice president of the Consumers company, 111 West Washington street, dealers in fuel, ice, and building materials, last night, when questioned about prospects of a coal famine in the city.

Reported threats of suffering if the strike continues are greatly exaggerated, he said. Chicago has had no anthracite for the last two months, but consumers have turned to coke, soft coal, oil, and in some cases to gas to supply their heat.

At the opening of the strike the city fuel companies were well stocked with hard coal. That was exhausted within about six weeks. Since that time we have turned to the anthracite substitutes with excellent results.

Fire Destroys Old Wing of Chateau Frontenac

Quebec, Que., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The old wing of the Château Frontenac hotel, constructed in the French baronial style, was destroyed by fire tonight. The damage is estimated at $2,000,000. The fire started in the old tower facing on Dufferin terrace and the St. Lawrence river and spread to other parts of the structure. The upper part of the rotunda was totally demolished, while the roof of the old wing fell in. The entire fire fighting force of the city battled the flames before they were brought under control.

FARM CO-OPS IN DEADLOCK OVER WHAT'S NEEDED

Can't Agree on Plan to Present to Congress.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—The national conference of farm coöperative marketing organizations is deadlocked tonight on the problem of agricultural relief. All the farmer delegates are convinced that agriculture is in a bad way and that something must be done about it, but they can't agree on the remedy.

There are the followers of former Gov. Frank Lowden of Illinois who want congress to pass the Dickinson bill to enhance the domestic market price of farm products by segregating the export surplus. There are the supporters of R. W. Bingham of Louisville, Ky., chairman of the National Council of Coöperatives, who oppose any such legislation and contend that the farmer is not the victim of his crop surpluses.

Proposals of All Kinds.

Then there are the advocates of the export bounty proposal which the Illinois legislature memorialized congress to adopt, proponents of export corporation schemes, export debenture plans, government buying and selling and price fixing, directly and indirectly, acreage limitation, tariff revision, and a multitude of other projects.

The legislative committee was unable to agree on a policy tonight and the whole question will go before the conference at its final session tomorrow. Mr. Lowden departed after counseling the leaders to sidetrack the whole surplus problem, fearing, some said, that the row it would precipitate might wreck the coöperative marketing organization.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine addressed the conference, but steered clear of the vexed question of the export surplus. He advocated passage of the administration coöperative marketing bill, asserting that the most important problems of the farm can be met by organization of the producers.

Jardine Sees Three Problems.

"There are, as I see it, three problems that must be met by organization," said Mr. Jardine. "First, the adjustment of production to market needs; second, the improvement of marketing conditions, and, third, the improvement of the bargaining power of the producers.

"For example, the wheat grower's prospects are influenced by the decisions of three million other farmers producing the same crop and unorganized he must make his plans without any certainty as to what they propose to do. Such situations in industry, on a lesser scale, have led to organizations and consolidations as the one practical and effective means of meeting the problem. The intelligent guidance of production calls for organization of the farmers.

"The farmers must organize also to improve marketing technique. It is the producer who pays the costs of marketing services and who loses through their ineffectiveness. Marketing is his business. Furthermore, the farmer must organize to secure the bargaining power that will enable him to deal effectively with other groups.

How U. S. Can Aid Farmers.

"The department of agriculture plans to continue and expand its services to the coöperative organizations. In doing this we believe that we shall be serving effectively the interests of the American farmers.

"There are certain definite services which the department can perform for coöperatives. The research work which it carries on can aid in the development of better operating and merchandising methods. It is in a position to supply the most reliable world crop and market information. It can aid greatly in the dissemination of a knowledge of the principles of coöperation, study, from a national scope, problems of membership relations, financing, costs, distribution, and so forth, and collect and analyze the experience of active coöperatives."

Aaron Sapiro of Chicago, coöperative marketing expert, argued in favor of the coöperative marketing bill at a hearing before the house committee on agriculture. Representative Doyle [Dem., Ill.] asked the witness if the coöperatives were not being given privileges to agree on prices which are denied by the trust laws to other industries.

"It must be understood," Mr. Sapiro responded, "that agriculture has been accorded an unlimited right to organize which is denied other industries. But there is a natural, automatic check on any excesses committed by agricultural organizations."

Every State Represented at Traffic Club Dinner

The nineteenth annual dinner of the Traffic Club of Chicago, held last night in the Hotel La Salle, drew representatives from practically every state in the Union among the 800 guests. E. S. Buckmaster, president of the club, presided. Dr. Louis Mann of the Chicago Sinai congregation was the principal speaker.

The object of the Traffic club is to promote a better understanding of transportation problems and to bring shippers and public carriers into closer relationship.

MAYOR, ALBERT BATTLE TO TUNE OF 'YELLOW DOG'

Hot Words Fly Over Traction Stand.

"I said to Ald. Albert: 'Nobody but a yellow dog would talk to the mayor like that.' And he said: 'I am not a yellow dog and I will prove it to you.'"

Another part would read substantially as follows:

"'You have been doing a lot of talking around the city hall,' I told the alderman, 'and I am going to put a stop to it. You are a stupid little fool. Get out of my office and stay out.'"

Went to Urge Appropriation.

Ald. Albert [43d] went into the office of the city's chief executive with Augustus S. Peabody and Shelby M. Singleton of the Citizens' association to urge a $10,000 appropriation for revision of pension laws.

The mayor wasted no time over the matter at hand. He asserted that the alderman had told the transportation committee that he, the mayor, was waiting for his orders about traction.

Ald. Albert retorted that he couldn't be threatened, was not subject to the dictation of the mayor and would continue to express such opinions as he saw fit.

Talking All That Is Done.

"You drag in the traction matter," Albert stormed. "Let me tell you the committee is functioning now for the first time without your dictation. You don't like it and you say all they are doing is talking. That is all you have ever done."

And then the mayor applied his epithet and the interview ended.

"FREE PUBLICITY," M'ANDREW SAYS OF "76" PROMOTERS

"I am thinking of starting a news syndicate," Superintendent William McAndrew said yesterday, "to sell all the free publicity I get to some one who wants it, but cannot get it."

That was his reply to mail carrying further protests against his recent article in which he expressed pleasure at the fact that few pictures of battles or of generals were to be found in the schools, while "The Spirit of '76," once a favorite, was scarce.

"I admire greatness in any country," he said in reply to rumors that he had favored the names of two British queens for schools, in a list more than a week ago.

"The names," he added, "include a Frenchman, a Greek, even a Chinaman. Some of them I admire so much, I regret that the principals, not I, selected the names."

Those who added their censure on McAndrew's war art views yesterday included the Lawndale-Crawford Post, American Legion, and the Combat Medal Men's association.

MERCIER SAYS ONLY MIRACLE CAN SAVE HIM

BRUSSELS, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Cardinal Mercier continues to remain very feeble. Late this evening the cardinal's physicians announced that his condition was "not so good" today, but that a slight improvement was observed tonight. His pulse remains normal. There appears to be no doubt about the gravity of the case, but it is said there is no immediate danger.

The cardinal sleeps most of the day. He has no illusion regarding his condition, repeating that only a miracle can save him.

Despite this, he has received several visitors, including the minister of the colonies. The newspaper Libre Belgique exhorts all to redouble their prayers for the cardinal's recovery.

PHYSICS TEACHER KILLS HIMSELF IN CLASSROOM

Edward L. Hendrick, 45, instructor in physics at the Lindblom High school, committed suicide by inhaling gas in his classroom early yesterday morning. He had suffered from diabetes for six months.

Teachers broke in the room and found Hendrick lying on a table. His head was covered by an overcoat under which a rubber hose conveyed gas.

At the family home, 3339 West 66th place, Mrs. Hendrick said he had left at the usual time and apparently was in good spirits. Their son Robert, 17 years old, is a student at Lindblom and was in another classroom when his father's body was discovered. Hendrick had been a public school teacher for ten years. He formerly was at the Austin and the Senn High schools.

COUNTESS SALM DESERTS HAVEN IN PALM BEACH

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Countess Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten has folded her tent and departed, leaving only mystery. Vainly the comely countess was hunted as Palm Beach society attended the première of Ziegfeld's Palm Beach Nights. Her name appeared on the guest lists, but she did not appear.

Waikiki cottage, home of the countess and her small son, Peter, stared blankly at searchers. Her furniture and retinue of detectives are gone. Reports are current that she is at the home of a friend, spending a few days prior to her departure for New York.

Wednesday she was in conference with her attorney, who, it is understood, advised her to appear in New York by Jan. 26, when she must file answer to her husband's suit for separation and custody of the child.

SUMMER TIME PROTEST LEANS TOWARD FALL

Majority in Favor of Daylight Saving.

Supporters of daylight saving, who appeared yesterday before the council committee on judiciary to protest repeal of the present ordinance, were in a marked majority at the end of the session at which opponents of "summer time" were also heard.

The committee started public hearings yesterday before considering the repeal of the ordinance which was passed after the public had approved of the law Nov. 2, 1920, by a vote of 353,145 to 291,994. Repeal of the ordinance has been asked by Ald. William R. O'Toole [14th].

Organized Labor Objects.

Business organizations, clubs, athletic groups, commercial institutions, and individuals appeared in behalf of the measure, while the only real opposition came from organized labor, and one labor group announced themselves in favor of continuing the present law.

Cornelius Lynd, representing the Association of Commerce, told the committee that the executive committee of his association was overwhelmingly in favor of daylight saving. A poll of eleven large manufacturers in Chicago, he said, showed a decided majority for the measure.

"The excuse is offered that this measure was a wartime proposition," Mr. Lynd said. "It was done at that time for economy, and if it was good then it is good now."

Ald. Thomas J. Bowler [41st] supported the law. "Last summer every Thursday night baseball teams played to a crowd of 10,000 people in twilight games," he said. "Daylight saving is

"Law Steals Sleep."

Ald. Sheldon W. Govier spoke for repeal of the law, declaring it was a sleep stealing ordinance that worked hardship on the mothers and children.

"Our organization is bitterly opposed to daylight saving," he said. "If employers are so concerned about health and economics let them cut down the working hours. I ask that this measure be submitted to the people again."

Opposed to Mr. Nockel's views were those of Miss Mary McInerny, representing the bindery women, who supported the extra hour of daylight in the summer time.

"Live by the Clock."

"We live by the clock," she said. "I know something about conditions in the stockyards district and in the mills in South Chicago, and that extra hour of sunshine means more to those working people than any one else."

Repeal of the ordinance was supported by Charles D. Duffy, representing 3,500 letter carriers, and E. H. Burris, representing 2,500 employés of the American Railway Express company.

EVAN FONTAINE WINS AGAINST CALIFORNIA, SO KISSES HER LAWYER

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday denied the government's petition to remove Evan Burrows Fontaine, dancer, to California to answer charges of contempt of court growing out of her series of legal battles with Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney. For this victory the dancer kissed her lawyer, Michael Igoe.

A suit for $1,000,000 for breach of promise was filed against Whitney some time ago by Miss Fontaine after an injunction had been issued by a California court restraining her. United States Commissioner James R. Glass of this federal district recently ordered the dancer held for removal.

Judge Wilkerson held the California federal judge had no jurisdiction over Miss Fontaine and that in addition she was not subject to removal, because the case involves civil and not criminal litigation.

SPINGOLA BURIED AS A PATRIOT; HUNDREDS MOURN

Soldiers Bear Body to Grave in Holy Ground.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Henry Spingola may have died a bootlegger, but he was buried a lawyer, a patriot and a defender of the faith of his childhood.

His funeral services, conducted yesterday morning from the home of his father, "Major" Joseph Spingola, 417 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, lacked some of the giddy superlatives which have caused gangsters' last rites to set records in these post-Volstead days. But balanced over against this was the real grief of hundreds of Henry's friends, judges and attorneys, men in public life and old time Italian neighbors from Taylor and Halsted street days; American Legion comrades, Knights of Columbus delegates, and scores of others.

Flag Swings Above Casket.

Even the cool expensiveness of the $5,000 silver and aluminum casket seemed to get a bit of warmth from the folds of the American flag, which swung above it. The tuxedo coat, with the American Legion button in its lapel, hid the bullet marks. And the soldiers who came out of respect for their dead comrade, outnumbered the police who were sent to see that gang warfare didn't flare up amid the flowers and the music and the funeral cars.

The Rev. Francis X. Breen, S. J., a teacher at St. Ignatius High school and chaplain of St. Xavier council of the Knights of Columbus, of which Spingola was a charter member, read the service. Talking to the crowds that packed themselves into the house, but for the bewildered father and mother, who were in a state of semi-collapse, the priest explained that Henry was being buried with all the blessings of the church save the actual privilege of a service in a church.

Prayer Book Goes to Grave.

"Santa Maria! Santa Maria!" Mrs. Caroline Spingola cried as she stooped over the casket and fondled the small white prayer book which she had given Henry when he made his first communion. It went with him to the grave.

Soldiers stood at attention about the casket. They served as pallbearers. Delegations from the Forty and Eight society and from the Knights of Columbus also stood near by. A forty piece band, under the direction of Michael Monella, played "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Lucille Spingola Genna, who married Angelo Genna several months before he was murdered last May, sank into a chair, and her two younger brothers, Salvatore and Joe, tried to comfort her.

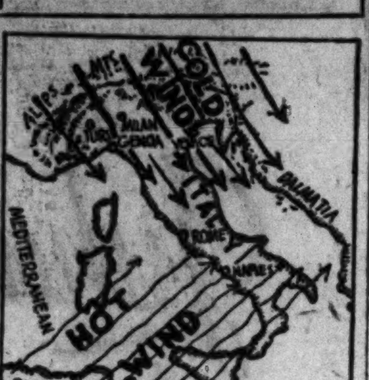
The service over, the soldiers, under the command of Sergt. Walter Morasky, carried out the casket. Then came the flowers, scores of pieces, which were piled into nine motor cars. And then the family, now numbed with grief, now hysterical. And after them a long funeral cortége with a police escort.

Buried in Consecrated Ground.

Symbolically the funeral procession went its solemn way through the village of Oak Park, where the Spingolas had recently moved, back to the old Nineteenth ward and down past 750 Taylor street, Chicago, where the major had owned the first brick building on the street.

Then the cortége doubled back west and made its way to Mount Carmel cemetery. There Henry Spingola was buried in consecrated ground.

FICKLE WEATHER



ROME, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Winds from the ice capped Alps and from the sun baked Sahara fought a drawn battle over Italy today. Rome sweltered under a hot sirocco, blown across the Mediterranean, while Venice was swept by such frigid blasts that a large section of its lagoons and canals were frozen solid, cutting off the city's milk and meat supply.

Tuscany, including Florence, was covered with snow and held in the grip of a cold wind from the northern mountains, but Rome, only a few miles away, was experiencing a sticky heat.

All of north Italy has been hard hit by snow and freezing weather, which continues at Milan, Genoa, Trieste, and Turin. A number of deaths from the severe conditions and scores of minor injuries are reported.

HINDUS FRENZIED WITH TERROR OF SUN'S ECLIPSE

U. S. Savants' Observation Hindered by Clouds.

BY A. ELLINGS.
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 14.—India was stricken with religious frenzy by today's solar eclipse. Cloudless weather made the observation of the phenomenon perfect.

Hundreds of thousands of Hindus from Calcutta congregated on the banks of the Ganges, "the sacred river," where they are bathing and praying for protection from the demon they believed to be swallowing the sun. Their superstitions tell them the sun is too hot for the demon to retain and that the latter is struggling to disgorge his fiery prey.

The Hindus believe their lives are profoundly affected by this demon unless they bathe in "the sacred river." Business and household activities are at a standstill during the eclipse. Earthenware and cooking utensils are being broken and sleep and travel are suspended.

Clouds Hamper U. S. Savants.

BENCOOLEN, Sumatra, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The American expedition of the United States Naval observatory, which was stationed near Tebing Tinggi, in southeastern Sumatra, for observation of the solar eclipse was greatly handicapped by cloudy weather. It was able to carry out only one-third of its program, with doubtful results. This expedition is headed by Dr. Frank B. Littell, assisted by Dr. John August Anderson of the Mount Wilson observatory in California.

All O. K., Britons Report.

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Prof. Stratton of Cambridge university, one of the leaders of the expedition sent by the Royal Society of London for observation of the solar eclipse, reports that the scientists' program was carried out as scheduled at Bencoolen. Everything was well arranged and the weather was excellent. Dr. Voute, director of the Bosscha observatory at Lembang, also secured an excellent and unobstructed view of the phenomenon.

Fears Experiment Has Failed.

Swarthmore, Pa., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Reporting on his observation in Sumatra of the solar eclipse, Dr. John A. Miller, head of the Swarthmore college expedition, in a cablegram from Bencoolen, Sumatra, received today by Frank D. Aydelotte, president of the college, was apprehensive that the plates exposed in a twin camera for the Einstein effect were damaged. He said that if this is true, the Einstein experiment will have failed.

"Shape of corona was of maximum type," the telegram said. "Numerous spots on the solar surface on days before the eclipse, hence we expect very much interest and detail in the corona. Thin clouds floated over region of the sun during the time of the eclipse."

Work "Partly Successful."

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Thin clouds interfered with the efforts of Harvard scientists in Sumatra to observe the eclipse of the sun yesterday, but their efforts were partly successful.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 14.—The French minister, M. Clinquant, returned to Budapest today to request, in the name of the French government, that the aide de camp of Hungary's regent, Admiral Horthy, be brought to court to clear up the mystery of the 30,000,000,000 French franc forgery. The French envoy submitted enough evidence to force the regent to investigate the activities of his aide de camp, M. Magashazy, as well as other chiefs of his chancellory.

Count Bethlen, the Hungarian prime minister, refused to consider that the regent had been compromised. In an interview with the TRIBUNE correspondent today he sought to clear the name of the government by explaining that the embittered political atmosphere in Hungary made it possible for many Hungarians to be involved.

POLICE SUMMON ARCHDUKE.

VIENNA, Jan. 14.—[U. N.]—Former Archduke Albrecht, a contender for the Hungarian throne, has been summoned by the police to appear tomorrow in connection with the 30,000,000,000 French franc Hungarian counterfeiting plot, according to dispatches from Budapest.

FARMERS URGE SMALL TO RENEW TESTS OF HERDS

Dever Backs Bundesen Pure Milk Fight.

Farmers, owning tested herds, are circulating copies of a petition among the dairymen of Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan, asking that Gov. Small order resumption of payment from the $2,000,000 state fund for the indemnifying of owners whose cows are killed as diseased.

The petition, backed by the Pure Milk association, is addressed to Gov. Small and argues that it was illegal to stop the payments, as he did, on the plea that the federal funds for the same purpose were exhausted. The law, the petition states, provides that when the federal funds are not available the state shall take the whole burden.

Bundensen Still in Control.

While the petition was in circulation yesterday, Mayor Dever repeated that the Chicago action in the milk situation was and would continue to be under the direction of Health Commissioner Herman Bundesen. Thus Dr. Bundesen continues his plans to have all the milk, to be delivered to Chicagoans after April 1, come from healthy cows.

Supporting this view, the mayor pointed to the recently enacted ordinance by which Dr. Bundesen was given the necessary power. That authority is curbed in no way, the mayor pointed out, by the creation of the board of health created on Wednesday.

Farmers' Appeal to Small.

The farmers' petition complains that "the entire program of tuberculosis eradication has now been stopped and those dairymen whose herds are tested and those who have more recently signed agreements to have their herds tested are unable to plan for the future; and all are fast becoming discouraged over the outlook for the dairy industry in Illinois."

Of the $2,000,000 fund, the petition recites, "something near $1,750,000 is being withheld by state officials.

"Therefore," the petitioners add, "we urge you immediately to make state funds available for the payments of indemnities for reacting cattle, as provided by law, in order that the coöperative plan of tuberculosis eradication, as it was being carried on before said funds were cut off, may be at once resumed."

COLLINS TO MAKE STEGE ASSISTANT DETECTIVE CHIEF

Erection of 5 New Police Stations Recommended.

Capt. John Stege, now in charge of squads at the detective bureau, will be promoted to assistant chief of detectives shortly, Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins announced last night The post will be a new one.

In addition, Chief Collins will create two new posts at the bureau for police captains, who will supervise squads. In the past Stege has been the only captain assigned to this duty.

Capt. Stege's Rise Rapid.

Capt. Stege came to the detective bureau a year ago as a sergeant. He was immediately raised to the rank of lieutenant and was promoted to a captaincy in the police examinations about four months ago.

The reorganization of the bureau follows the chief's request for eight new captains.

Their appointment is provided in the 1926 budget. One captain will be placed in charge of all police flivvers, one will be assigned to the motor vehicle division, one to the efficiency division, one to South Chicago and one to the Cottage Grove station.

Urge 5 New Police Stations.

Erection of five new police stations was recommended yesterday by the police committee. The stations, each to cost approximately $75,000, will be erected from an unexpended bond fund of $400,000, kept for that purpose. Their locations follow:

Bryn Mawr and Ashland avenues, to replace Summerdale station; Crawford and Lawrence avenues; Jefferson park, near Lawrence and Milwaukee avenues, to replace present station; Deering district, near 35th and Morgan streets, to replace present station; Englewood, 62d and Green streets, to replace old Englewood station.

All the new stations will be erected on city owned property. If approved by the council, they will be ready this summer.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Senator Henry Victor Berenger, the new French ambassador, arrived in Washington today ready to begin his task of arranging a settlement of the French war debt.

He spoke in English, much to the surprise of his callers, who had recently read in cable dispatches that the new ambassador had but recently begun the study of our language.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Overloading of the school courses is one cause of the overcrowding of Chicago's public schools. Subjects have been piled on until the list of activities taken on by the educational system now fills five pages of the printed annual report.

One-tenth of the work in the schools is a failure and has to be done over, says the latest survey, issued last night by the Principals' club.

Frills have been getting attention at the expense of the fundamentals, and the result is not only a cluttering of the minds of the school children but also a clogging of the school system itself. For years the stock criticism has been that the output of the school plant has been weak on fundamentals.

It all finds its reflection in what Supt. McAndrew has been proposing for two years—"Fewer things, better done," with emphasis on the three "r's," reading, writing, and arithmetic, and on spelling, civics, and citizenship training.

Cities Revising Courses.

Some 202 cities are now working to revise their courses of study; San Francisco has reduced its requirements from thirty-five to ten or a dozen; Denver is calling experts together to junk the nonessentials; a resolution is before the Chicago board of education for a commission of talent from the teaching force to study revision of the courses, and it is regarded as one of the most important things in many years to the schools.

The plethora of subjects, too, has a direct bearing on lack of facilities. This is disputed by many eminent schoolmen, who urge simplifying of courses; but say pupils will still require a theoretical five hours a day of teaching. It will mean more time on fewer subjects and will not cut down the demand for seats and reduce the seating shortage.

The reverse, however, seems quite demonstrable. The overloading of courses and the diffusion of activity has meant a lowered efficiency for the schools.

More than 17 per cent of the high school service was a failure in the semester ended last June—10,580 pupils flunked. So the McAndrews report shows. Thus, more than one-sixth of the high school plant, teachers, classrooms, equipment, seats, operating expense, and the rest, is used in rectifying defective output. It must do work already performed. And this at the top of the system, where costs are highest.

"Complacency Is Disconcerting."

As Supt. McAndrew says in his report, "the complacency with which high school service faces such a record of low efficiency while considerable numbers of its workers petition to close the schools eight times a year for the teachers to hold their councils is disconcerting."

If the failure rate were even cut in half, it would mean quite a tidy relief in the matter of seating accommodations.

In the elementary schools, the record is better. But all told, the failures are running about 35,000 a year. The cost of reteaching is more than $2,000,000 a year, and it employs the equivalent of twenty-five school buildings and the time of 800 teachers.

Failures Cause Crowding.

This lag of 35,000 failures in the elementary schools obviously is a drain on seating capacity. If it could be cut in half, it would be a material help in bringing up school accommodations.

Nearly one-tenth of all work done in the public schools from first grade to twelfth is a failure, a survey made public last night by Don C. Rogers, secretary of the Chicago Principals' club, reveals.

In high schools, the rate of subject failures is 12.4 per cent. The difference between the McAndrew and the Rogers figures is due to the fact that they cover different semesters.

Arithmetic, the survey shows, is the greatest stumbling block in the elementary grades. So, too, in high school mathematics is a subject of great difficulty. It has a four year average of 17 per cent of failures. It runs second to Latin as a cause of flunking. History and practical arts, such as cooking and manual training, are shown to be the easiest subjects in high school.

Most failures occur in the first grade, where 22.6 per cent of the pupils did not pass last year. It decreases to the eighth grade, where only 3.4 per cent failed. The high failure rate in the lower grades is attributed to the presence of foreign born children, beginning school, many of whom do not finish a semester once begun. In high school, likewise, the first years are the hardest.

The seating shortage for the first time since 1919 is being reduced under the program of President Edward B. Ellicott. Last year the growth in school accommodations equaled the increase in membership.

Accommodate 36,000 More.

Under construction at present are schools with a capacity of 34,600 seats, to be completed by September. This will accommodate next year's increase in school attendance and, in addition, yield new seats for more than 18,000 pupils now on part time or in portables.

It will still leave a shortage estimated at 50,000 to 60,000 seats, which gives all the more point to the move to simplify the courses, place emphasis on the fundamentals, increase the thoroughness of the education imparted, and reduce the failure and flunk load on the system, which itself means more seats.

SOME ONE NEAR WALL ST. HAS CONSCIENCE; SENDS $200 TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Somebody near the Wall street postoffice in New York today sent Secretary Mellon $200 "because of a more or less selfish act during the world war in placing my interests ahead of my country's." There was no signature to the accompanying letter, and the money was placed in the treasury's "conscience fund."

SUBURBS JOIN TO RAISE TAXES FOR SCHOOL FUNDS

A united campaign to increase taxation for the relief of school seat shortages due to crippled finances has been organized by school boards of thirteen Chicago suburbs.

The organization, formed last week, is known as the Association of School Boards of Township 39. Chief among the towns represented are Forest Park Riverside, Brookfield, Melrose Park, Maywood, River Forest, and a part of La Grange.

The first action of the association was to solicit the aid of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. Mr. Crowe has been asked to appoint a special assistant to aid the towns in their fight.

"The purpose of this drive might be misconstrued," says Frank C. Souhrada, attorney for the Forest Park board, "but we are really protecting the small property owner. We are after large land owners whose property is considerably undertaxed."

Skinny, Scrawny, Underweight Men and Women Quickly Gain Needed Weight The New Modern Way

Gain strength also—and hollows in neck and cheeks fill out in just a few weeks.

YOUR GREAT CHANCE.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now, for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask Owl Drug Company or any druggist.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9—gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

ERSHING'S FIRM STAND FOR RIGHT CONQUERS CHILE

Report Exposed Reign of Terror in Arica.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 14.—Chile's sudden assumption of a more conciliatory attitude on the Tacna-Arica question is the subject of varied comment in political circles here. It is believed Gen. Pershing's report to the state department has forced the change in attitude.

Points by Pershing.

La Nacion's Arica correspondent asserts that Gen. Pershing's report, which at the latter's request will be withheld from publication until his return to the United States, contains the following uncompromising statements:

Chile has maintained a "reign of terror" in Tacna-Arica in order to intimidate the Peruvian residents and to insure Chile's success in the plebiscite.

During 1925 between 500 and 1,000 known deportations were enforced, with the presumption that others also occurred.

The Peruvians insist that the night preceding Gen. Pershing's arrival eighty-five Peruvians were forcibly embarked and sent to Iquique.

Reduced to Slavery.

Among the cases investigated and proved is one in which Chilean police kidnapped a number of Peruvians and sent them to work in the Chilean nitrate mines under semi-slave conditions.

Investigation proves that for years past Chile has threatened and maltreated the Peruvian residents.

When the plebiscitary commission insisted on the removal of certain Chilean officials, these were replaced by others who observed the same line of conduct.

While the Chilean press comments received here do not recognize any change in Chile's attitude, such change is sufficiently marked to make some political observers connect it with the recall of Dr. Betran Mathieu, former Chilean ambassador to the United States, to Santiago.

CHILE COMES CLEAN

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ARICA, Chile, Jan. 14.—The reversal of Chile's policy received a new impetus this afternoon when Agustin Edwards issued a statement intimating that the Chilean government strongly disapproved of the recent happenings in Tacna and further intimating that the responsible parties would be punished through the decision of Chilean courts. This statement covered ground similar to that of Senor Edwards' commission speech on Tuesday and has been received with general approval especially among the Americans and Peruvians.

Chile Balks Peruvians.

In any case, the situation is better today than it has been for many months. Chile's admission of responsibility for the Tacna-Arieans' recent trouble has bowled over the Peruvian attack, taken the wind out of the Peruvians' sails and practically left the field clear for progressive action in the plebiscitary commission.

There still remains a band of Chilean roughnecks alleged to be in the pay of the Chilean government who have been preying on defenseless Peruvian natives, and these will be removed.

Chile's finance minister recently announced a deficit of $30,000,000. To relieve the situation, the new government is planning to cut expenses in all directions, including the reduction of government employés' salaries 30 per cent.

Alessandri Is Finished.

Señor Don Arturo Alessandri is finished politically, although he was recently sent to the senate by Tarapaca by a big majority, but he did not figure in the recent inauguration.

Gen. Pershing's teeth are still giving him considerable trouble. He was not looking any too well this afternoon. The announcement of Gen. Lassiter's appointment is creating small notice. He is due Jan. 20.

Gen. Pershing announced this evening that the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission meeting will be held tomorrow to discuss election regulations. According to Gen. Pershing's chief legal adviser, Mr. Dennis, this means full speed ahead for a free and fair plebiscite.

PREMIER KING OF CANADA UPHELD BY THREE VOTES

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—By a vote of 123 to 120, Premier King's government was sustained on the first test vote in the fifteenth Canadian parliament. The division came at 1 o'clock this morning after one of the most thrilling debates in Canadian history and was followed by a tumultuous and the Liberals.

Whereas it requires eight adverse Progressive party votes to overthrew the administration, only five were cast in support of the want of confidence amendment of Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Meighen's Progressive supporters were Lucas and Boutillier from Alberta, and Campbell, Carmichael, and Fancher from Saskatchewan. All the rest, including the independents and Laborites, voted against it. Only one member out of 245 was absent.

Announcement of the vote was followed by a jubilant demonstration by the liberals, who banged and thumped their desks, hurled books and paper into the air, sang, and cheered. While the members were being called in, the French-Canadians on the liberal benches struck up old familiar Quebec songs, "Allouette" as usual being the favorite. They sang with vigor, and finally the English members joined in.

The house adjourned until Monday, when it will proceed with the debate on the address of the governor general.

The battle was bitter until the end. Hope grew in the government ranks when Alfred Speakman, Progressive, announced that he, together with "some others," would vote against the Meighen amendment. Their decision, he said, was made on the strength of the administration's announcement that it would not regard the defeat of the want of confidence amendment as a vote of confidence in itself.

The best the government can get out of the decision is temporary relief from the harassing pursuit of a determined opposition.

ESTATE SHRINKS; FRANTZIUS HEIRS BLAME MARCUSE

Charges that Ben Marcuse, former head of Marcuse & Co., bankrupt brokerage firm, helped administrators of the estate of Frederick A. Von Frantzius to dissipate a $2,500,000 estate were outlined to Circuit Judge Kickham Scanlan yesterday.

Attorney John A. Brown, representing the son and daughter of Von Frantzius, broker and art collector, appealed to Judge Scanlan from an order of Probate Judge Henry Horner closing the estate. He asked that the administrators, Gustave F. Fischer and Samuel Frankland, be removed.

Von Frantzius died nine years ago. His heirs were Peter Von Frantzius, 30, a son, and Mrs. Annemarie Nachtigall, 28, a daughter.

Tangles in the Von Frantzius firm's operations were discovered with the broker's death. Long litigation followed.

When an accounting was filed by the administrators a year after the broker's death, the estate, estimated at first to have totaled $2,500,000, was declared to be $200,000 in debt.

Attorney Brown told Judge Scanlan that he will show that Marcuse and the administrators dissipated the estate.

"Stock would be sold to Marcuse for a price far below its market value," he declared. Brown said he will present evidence of numerous stock deals of that sort in which Marcuse benefited.

If the heirs' appeal is successful, recovery of nearly $2,000,000 on the bonds of the administrators will be attempted, it was said.

Marcuse was a partner of Von Frantzius, but claimed to have relinquished his partnership before the broker's death. He probably will be called to the witness stand today to answer the charges.

Charles H. Schweppe New Head of St. Luke's Board

Charles H. Schweppe was chosen president of the board of trustees of St. Luke's hospital at the annual meeting yesterday, succeeding John A. Spoor, who becomes chairman of the board. All the present directors were reëlected. Louis R. Curtis, operating head of the hospital, announced that on Wednesday the hospital had registered 417 patients, the largest number in its history.

HOW MANY MORE STRAWS WILL CHICAGO'S BACK SUPPORT?

First, Chicago had William F. Mulvihill, appointed by Gov. Small as superintendent of waterways, to contend with in the Calumet harbor project. After months of labor by the city council, an agreement was reached with the Nickel Plate road by which the harbor development could go ahead. Then, Mr. Mulvihill came forward and threw a quite unnecessary monkey wrench into the proceedings. Just how much damage he has done remains to be seen.

Now appears Leslie Small, who enjoys the distinction of being the governor's son and the emoluments pertaining to the office of head of the state department of purchases and construction at one and the same time. Full veto power over the sale or lease of an important part of the lands belonging to the Chicago sanitary district lies, it has been discovered, in the hands of this filial appointee.

This is downstate gubernatorial interference in purely Chicago affairs. The lands in question, over which Small, Fils, has control were bought and paid for by the taxpayers of the sanitary district, ninety per cent of whom are residents of Chicago. We cannot see that it affects the state of Illinois in any manner if the sanitary trustees want to lease one or one hundred acres of this land to truck gardeners or business men.

The affair is but another instance of the misuse of the power that results from the downstate legislators' failure to live up to their oaths and redistrict the state. They amended the sanitary district act at Gov. Small's request, robbed the trustees of their rightful authority, and Chicago's representatives had not numbers enough to make their protests heard.

There has been much well founded talk in late years of the usurpation of states' rights by the federal government. As a matter of fact, there is as dangerous a movement toward centralization—as dangerous to the citizens of Chicago—right here in Illinois.

How cleverly the amendment is aimed is learned on inspecting it. It does not give the governor's son power over all lands owned by the sanitary district, but only over lands strategically located along the Calumet-Sag channel and the main north channels of the canal. Important street or railroad intersections are favorites. And any person wishing to lease or buy such land must first get Mr. Small's son's permission. Truck farmers who want to rent an acre or two at $10 a year must get the official O. K. So must the business people who wish to lease a site, and the public utilities if they desire to lay a gas main or string a power line.

Mr. Small's son's father made him head of the state department of purchases and construction. The job of being a purchasing or construction agent is traditionally a pleasant one to fill. But that was not enough. Politics as it has been played by the Small crowd always has been a struggle for the sort of power which requires the citizen to run to the Small appointee in office for permission to do something. Preferably, it is the Chicagoan who has to do the running. Invariably, it is the downstater who is the appointee.

We believe there are others in Illinois, especially in view of the Supreme court decision on the interest suit, who will agree that this latest disclosure—giving Mr. Small's son power to dictate in a local Chicago matter—is near being the last straw.

WEST SIDE BOULEVARDS.

Engineers of the Chicago Plan commission are reported to be in favor of a boulevard 250 feet wide, running from Michigan avenue to the city limits along the line of Harrison or Congress street. The commission is expected to bring a recommendation calling for such a roadway to the city council. It should be received by the aldermen, passed, and financed, and work begun as soon as possible.

We agree with the plan commission's engineers that a west side boulevard at that point is of more immediate importance than boulevards at Chicago avenue or 22d street, though those must come soon. What is an objectionable feature to us, in the plan commission's proposed recommendation, is that one of the streets they have selected—Harrison street—carries a street car line clear out to Central avenue. It is the same objection that we find in the Chicago avenue and 22d street projects.

Street car lines and boulevards do not mix. You can construct a broad, well paved street, but it will not be a boulevard as long as street cars occupy a part of it. A boulevard is more than a traffic artery. It should possess the added function of being a show street. Handsome buildings do not come to a street car street, even though "boulevard" appears after the street name on the sign posts. Real estate values increase the whole length of a boulevard; on a street car street they are enhanced only through the increased business pull at transfer points. It should be Congress rather than Harrison street.

One more street which should be boulevarded is Randolph street. It is already splendidly wide west of the river. For a time it was thought South Water street merchants might move to Randolph street, but they chose the 15th street market instead. It should not be costly to find another home for the merchants who now occupy the street; it ought not to be difficult to remove the street car tracks. A Randolph street boulevard would be the much needed link between the widened South Water street and the near west side.

A SIDE ACTION CRAB AND A MOON OF GREEN CHEESE.

The city council approaching traction has the motion of a crab backing up with its legs all on one side. It doesn't go straight even backwards. The aldermen as nearly as we can perceive have agreed that Chicago has elevated lines and surface lines and busses and no subway. They seem about to conclude that having elevated and surface lines and busses and no subway it might be well to put the elevated and surface lines under unified management, whereupon the city would have as it has now elevated and surface lines, busses, and no subway.

At this point the council, being about ten feet back of where it started, is exhausted and is willing to rest while Mr. Busby, Mr. Blair, and Mr. Insull tell the aldermen all the things the council would not permit them to do even if they were advantageous to the city.

Thus we keep in the pleasant speculative mood of wondering whether if the moon were made of green cheese it would be good to eat if there were any way of getting it.

PUTS AND CALLS.

The Supreme court has legalized trading in "puts and calls" on the board of trade. Justice McReynolds, who delivered the court's opinion, said the tax on this type of trading as fixed in the grain futures act is not a true tax but a subterfuge for abolishing puts and calls. Accordingly, that section of the act was declared void, and the board of trade, which had once voluntarily given up dealing in puts and calls, promptly resumed activity along the old lines.

We expect a great cry to arise from some of the farm leaders as a result of the court's decision. After years of agitation, the future trading bill was passed. It was intended to curb the grain gamblers who were supposed to be gouging the farmers. Before it was passed it was hailed as a sure thing for the farmer.

Since the grain futures act became law the farmers have not grown prosperous. Some of them, notably the farmers of the corn belt, have suffered severe reverses. Puts and calls did not cause their difficulties and neither did any of the other speculative practices of the boards of trade. In the long run the tendency of speculation is probably to increase rather than decrease prices.

In any event, the road to farm prosperity does not lie in hampering the process of marketing, thereby increasing the costs of selling the farmer's grain. The more the farmer has to pay to sell his wheat and corn, the less he gets for himself.

HOW DO YOU DO IT, DOCTOR?

Dairy farmers enjoined Commissioner of Health Herman N. Bundesen from requiring that all milk for Chicago consumption must come from tuberculin tested cows. Dr. Bundesen has defied the injunction and steadfastly insists that he will bar tuberculous milk from the city, beginning April 1. So far, the health commissioner has remained immune from judicial citation for contempt. Some legal experts say that it is doubtful whether a contempt charge would lie in this case.

Other victims of injunction will do well to study this case. The Chicago milk case may conceivably be the beginning of a new era. The Bundesen injunction together with the Volstead act may prove to be the high tides of judicial usurpation. We may be on the road back to constitutional judicial procedure.

POLICE PAY.

Representatives of the Chicago police have renewed their request of the city council for more pay. They are fortified by the fact that New York and Detroit pay more and Detroit pays part of the uniform equipment. Chicago police get $2,200 a year and buy their uniforms. The pay is not much. A policeman who does his work has no snap. Hazard is a part of his job. It is a part of the job of another underpaid department, the fire department.

The city usually is trying to make ends meet, and although political management is wasteful management city employés generally are held down in their pay. A more liberal pay system would be good city policy, particularly where it affects essential city service. The city depends upon the police, firemen, etc., for its continuance. Failure in these services would have immediate consequences. They are services of exposure, danger and hardship, and we know it generally to be the case that if a man dies in the performance of his duty his family will be found to be in immediate need of help. That is something which ought to concern the city. These men in various ways, one of which is increased pay, should be given a better protection against the hazards of their work.

MOVE AN ACADEMY.

[Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.]

Much debate is indulged in as to the advisability of holding the annual Army-Navy football game in Chicago next fall. Officials of both army and navy are willing, and so is President Coolidge. The chief difficulty is the long trip for the students of Annapolis and West Point, taking them away from their studies for too long a period.

We have a solution for that difficulty: Move the military academy to some point in the middle west. Both the naval and army training schools were established at a time when the United States consisted only of a fringe of states along the Atlantic seaboard. Now it is a vast continental nation. Yet both army and navy training schools are located at the eastern edge of the country. Why should not the army military academy be located at some interior point. Then there would be no difficulty of having the big game in Chicago—or Bloomington?

HIDDEN DANGERS IN MILK.

Although the people in cities are now drinking pasteurized milk and are therefore protected against milk borne tuberculosis, those who live in the country, in villages, towns, and smaller cities are still in danger of this particular kind of infection.

The best protection which they can get is tuberculin testing of the cows, but unfortunately the dairy farmers in many sections oppose that procedure. I presume one way in which these resisting dairymen salve their consciences for feeding tuberculosis to their own children and the children of their friends in town is by thinking that milk borne tuberculosis does not affect any part of the body except the bones and joints and glands, and that human bone, joint and gland tuberculosis is not very important.

If they are of that opinion they will be made unhappy if they will read the opinion of Dr. A. H. Freiberg of Cincinnati. Dr. Freiberg says that four hundred years before the birth of Christ Hippocrates wrote "the hunchback was due to tubercle within and without the lungs." For more than two thousand years it has been known that "the end of many a patient with tuberculous bone and joint disease, who seemed at first to be relieved by purely local treatment, was determined by the development of pulmonary consumption."

A tubercular abscess in a bone or in a joint is apt to result in tuberculosis elsewhere in the body. In fact, Dr. Freiberg says the probability is that other areas in the body are already infected at the time the bone or joint tuberculosis is acting up. When a physician finds an obvious disease in some joint or bone he is apt to stop his search. Were he to continue his examination until all the organs had been explored, he would probably find tuberculosis in more than one place in the body.

Based on his opinion that bone tuberculosis is usually only one part of the picture, Dr. Freiberg does not limit his treatments to the obvious bone trouble. He has his patients carry out the rest-open air-feeding treatment that is given consumptives. Heliotherapy, that is, the use of sunlight and other lights, is carried out. He says: "Heliotherapy will bring most cases of surgical tuberculosis to an end. The combination of heliotherapy with proper methods of local, mechanical control represents the best of our day in the treatment of surgical tuberculosis."

A PRECOCIOUS CHILD.

Mrs. E. C. S. writes: I was interested to read the letter from Mrs. A. F. and would like to have her know of a case similar to her child's.

My daughter (now 26 years old and married, with two healthy babies), did not cut her own first tooth until 23 months of age and the molars were the first teeth to appear. The doctors called it a case of delayed dentition. If she had rickets, I did not know it. She walked when 13 months old and when two years old could easily take a two mile walk.

She was bottle fed after the first month. Perhaps in her case a diet containing more vegetables, orange juice, etc., would have helped, but such feeding was not so generally stressed twenty-five years ago.

HOT AIR HEAT.

W. B. L. writes: I am living temporarily in a house heated by a hot air furnace which has a water pan at the top connected to a ball float valve maintaining a constant water level. It did not humidify the house sufficiently, so I tried having the cellar, which has a cement floor, thoroughly wet down morning and evening when the furnace tender comes. The cement floor is rather badly laid and I imagine when he gets through there are numerous pools of water at least an inch deep. The result is that the humidity runs about 50 throughout the day.

REPLY.

Your experience is similar to that of others. A humidity of 50 is sufficient moisture for the conservation of health.

HEREDITY.

J. A. D. writes: I would like to have your version on heredity. Where two people of blood relation are married, and their children prove to be more or less deformed, is it possible or likely that these children's children will inherit this affliction?

REPLY.

You should have stated the kind of deformity. The inheritance laws of various deformities are not the same. As a rule, I should say the liklihood would not be great, assuming that the children married into families where there was no tendency towards the deformity.

Outmatings tend to wipe out tendencies to inherit deformities.

TO ADOPT HIS NIECE.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—[Friend of the People.]—I have a niece in Italy who is past twenty-one years of age. I should like to adopt her as my daughter. Can she enter the United States and not be counted in the quota? Can I adopt her while she is in Italy? H. S.

I know of no way in which you can adopt your niece, a resident of Italy, while she is in Italy. If you should so adopt her she would not be admissible to the United States exempt from the quota, as she is past 21 years of age. The law provides that children of American citizens under 18 years of age are exempt from the quota; adopted children are not exempt from the quota unless the adoption took place prior to Jan. 1, 1924. HOWARD D. EBEY,
District Director of Immigration.

NOT C. O. D.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—We own a house on a corner lot. Last fall the street in front was paved, but the street along the side is still unpaved, although this improvement was included in the original contract.

They tell us at the city hall that our first payment on the entire improvement—both streets—is due July 1 of this year. Can the city issue bills and collect on improvements not yet in? I can see where the bill for the paving of the street in front would naturally come through this spring, but it seems to me the balance of the assessment would have to follow the usual procedure after the paving is in—which would mean we could not possibly get a bill on it before next spring, even if the paving went in this summer. R. S. I.

Yes, they can collect on the assessment.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BURNING WASTE PAPER.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—I have been informed there is a city ordinance which prohibits the burning of paper in the alleys of this city. If so, where is a tenant in an apartment building supposed to burn paper?

I have been burning paper in the alleys of this city for many years without any cage or paper burner to put the paper in. Is this against the law? H. L. L.

There is no objection to the burning of paper in an alley provided precautions are taken by burning same in a regular paper burner and where there can be no objection raised because of the smoke.

There is no law compelling a property owner to collect and burn waste papers other than the fact that this is almost universally the common practice of owners of apartment buildings.
THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 15, 1861.

SPRINGFIELD.—The house and senate met in joint session and Gov. Yates and Lieut. Gov. Hoffman took their oaths of office, which were administered by Chief Justice Caton. Gov. Yates' message went deeply into the crisis in national affairs. He said: "Whether the trouble be attributable to the aggressions of slavery, the ravings of fanaticism, or to other provoking causes, are questions the discussion of which would only tend to increase and aggravate party differences." After taking up the various claims of the south and South Carolina's stand, he said: "The foot of the traitor has never yet blasted the greensward of Illinois. All the running waters of the northwest are waters of freedom and union and, come what may, as they glide to the great gulf, they will ever, by the ordinance of '87 and by the higher ordinance of Almighty God, bear only free men and free trade upon their bosoms, or their channels will be filled with the commingled blood of traitors, cowards, and slaves."

CHICAGO.—At a massmeeting in Metropolitan hall the Union sentiment of Chicago was poured out to the full. Hon. George Manierre presided and made a ringing speech. The resolutions adopted concluded: "Resolved, That we will maintain the flag of our country, that it shall remain the flag of our whole country, and that not a star shall be torn from it either by secession, rebellion, or aggression."

RICHMOND.—The house passed the bill providing for a state convention with an amendment to refer the action relative to secession back to the people.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 15, 1901.

SPRINGFIELD. — Richard Yates was sworn in as governor by Judge Elbridge Hanecy of the Cook County Circuit court, one of his opponents for the nomination. Yates is the first chief executive of the state who was born in Illinois. Just 40 years ago, a little before the outbreak of the civil war, his father took the same oath.

CHICAGO. — County Commissioner Rollin B. Organ offered a resolution in the county board meeting to abolish the office of county agent and distribute relief for the poor through charitable organizations.

CHICAGO.—M. J. McGrath, superintendent of city delivery in the Chicago postoffice, was appointed to succeed J. A. Montgomery as superintendent of mails.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—It is conceded that when the legislature ballots for United States senator tomorrow Matthew Stanley Quay, long the object of a bitter fight in his own party as well as by Democrats, will have five votes more than he needs for election.

CAPE TOWN.—It is stated that the Boers have arrived at Clanwilliam, 85 miles north of Cape Town. The British who are pursuing them are three hours behind. A battle is expected shortly.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 15, 1916.

CHICAGO.—More than 1,000 persons sought to adopt smiling Vivian Burke, the 11 month old baby whose picture was printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, and whose mother is unable to keep her. Mrs. Charles J. Brogan, 2023 Cleveland avenue, who employs Vivian's mother, will decide today who will get the baby.

CHICAGO. — Seventy-five guests, many of them in night clothing, were forced to flee or were rescued by firemen when fire practically destroyed Hotel Reed, a landmark at Lake and Clark streets.

WASHINGTON.—Renewed charges that President Wilson's Mexican policy is one of procrastination, and demands that it end were made by Senators Gallinger of New Hampshire, Lodge of Massachusetts, Fall of New Mexico, Works of California, all Republicans, and Lewis of Illinois, Democrat.

LONDON.—A series of sensational disclosures is contained in a dossier furnished the American embassy by British authorities, consisting of bank books, check stubs, and letters taken from Capt. Franz von Papen, the recalled German military attaché at Washington, when he arrived at Falmouth on Jan. 2. The papers reveal that Von Papen, through the firm of G. Amsinck & Co., of New York, paid Werner Horne, who blew up the Canadian Pacific bridge at St. Croix, Me., $700 a few days before the outrage. The day before the payment Von Papen's bank account was augmented by $2,000 from the German embassy. It is also shown that whenever an outrage was committed in the United States, Von Papen made extensive payments to the particular locality in which it occurred. The letters teem with insults for the American President.

CHYAM HIRSCH HE TELLS IT OF THAT THE STREET CAR.

Mister: I take it on, that like other people, you ride sometimes on a street car. When so then you know how it goes to with the seats. It is a wonder when you get any kind from a seat. That you should get a seat by a window that is a God's wonder. When now you get a seat not by the window you don't sit right, the feet get stepped on and the elbows get gepushed by every one which passes. So what do you make? You make like every one makes. You look all the time around, and when a seat by a window gets empty, hurry up quick you spring and take it before another one it takes. So makes it the world, so you make it, and so I make it, too.

Now, you should know, that by me in the work, it comes sometimes vor that it gets one o'clock in the night before I can lay myself sleeping; and by five in the morning I must again stand up. Then the next night I come home, for a change, early; and comes me my Rosie, we should go on the north side out by the tante. We go, we stay late over late, and come home on a car. We get a seat together, Gott sei dank, and sit like it asks itself, my Rosie inside by the window and I outside by the way.

The car is warm, it rocks itself like a cradle, I ain't slept out good, and my eyes fall shut. Understand, please, I don't sleep in, I just make shut the eyes. What goes on I see. When a women which sits on the seat in front, gets up, I know it. And when maybe a mile farther, the man which also sat in that seat reading already tomorrow's paper, rolls together that paper, my eyes make themself wide open. When he looks in the pocket for his transfer, I catch hold from the brass handle on the back from the seat; when he steps out in the way I spring quick like a cat, and one, two, three. I sit in the good seat by the window.

And then I feel a hand on my shoulder.

What have I more to say? You, too, are a family man, so you can think yourself, what I must now listen on. With respects, CHYAM HIRSCH.

Then we went back to the art store and got another bottle. Then we wrote in white ink on the black cover. Then we let it dry. Then we took a right angled blowpipe (got that at the art store, too), and we put one end of the pipe in the fixative and blew through the other end, and a nice, thin spray of shellac solution spread over the signature and nailed it down to the cover. Now, come on with your Linebooks, we love to play with our little blowgun.

McANDREW'S JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The plight of the Chicago Normal school graduates, as pictured by R. L. Robinson, is indeed deplorable. The heart's wrung with anguish at the thought of these poor dears.

I don't know, of course, but I've been under the impression that Mr. McAndrew was picked for the job he holds because he knew something about running schools. It is just possible that he has found greater competency among those who have had a year or more experience in the country schools than he has among the normal school graduates with no experience except a bit of cadet work.

It seems to me if I were a seriously minded young woman who yearned to educate the masses, and at the same time had to depend on such work for my own support, that I would get up enough gumption to sally forth into the sticks for a year and thus become more eligible than those who have only a high school education as preliminary training.

PAUL DONNELL PARCELLS.

LEAVE IT TO INSULL.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—The people of Chicago will await with keen anxiety the decision of the council in regard to the subway, hoping against hope that the old, old game of "dog in the manger," which is chiefly responsible for the fact that this great city is so far behind other cities, will now be replaced with a less reprehensible policy.

Chicago can now have its long needed subway. Mr. Insull is not a man to promise what he cannot perform; nor is there any need for Chicagoans to fear his having a free hand, for those who know him best know that he is always swayed by the most generous instincts, that the best interests of the city have the first place in his thoughts, however wisely he may, as a business man, have regard for the financial interests.

IN THE CAUSE OF GOOD ROADS.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—I wish to express appreciation in behalf of the American Road Builders' association for the very excellent stand THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has taken during the last year in the support of good roads in the United States.

Newspaper contact of the road builders with the people who are to use the highways is one of the most important channels through which the promotion of good roads is brought about.

We enter into convention here during Good Roads week with the assurance that our meeting will be a great success both for the future development of roads and for the welfare of this association. A great deal of our success may be attributed to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

MARILYN'S RED BIRD IDENTIFIED.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Marilyn can consider herself lucky on seeing a robin at this time of year. Probably the individual she saw was one of the more hardy birds that stay throughout the winter with us.

Personally, I have not seen a robin, probably because I do not live far enough out from the city; but I have observed a number of herring gulls, a few crows, a downy woodpecker or two, and several flocks of juncos. It would be a fine idea for the people living out from the city as Marilyn does to follow her example and erect feeding stations for the birds that do stay with us.

The red bird Marilyn saw was undoubtedly a cardinal, or redbird, as it is sometimes called. The cardinal has the crest of the bluejay and is about the same size. J. F. D.

IF THE MIDWEST GETS MAD.

Mount Pleasant, Ia., Jan. 9.—A year or so ago I was more or less irritated at an editorial in your paper which indicated a very dull perception of the midwest mind. I wrote you a letter in which I spoke of your inability to absorb what was being done to the midwest farmer. I knew I could not wake you up, but I merely asked you to "stop, look and listen."

After about two years I see you began to take notice soon after the Farm Bureau federation met in Chicago and listened to President Coolidge's speech, which is to go down in history as "The Great Mistake."

If the midwest gets mad enough it is possible Chicago might get attention enough to secure the Army-Navy game.

If we should lay aside our inferiority complex and snarl a little at that dominating group, Chicago might get the use of a little Lake Michigan water and we here in Iowa might have the benefit of a little Mississippi improvement.

If the Iowa farmer ever develops his intelligence he will have the whole world howling at his gate for corn products as we are now howling for British rubber.

I am glad to see you sit up and take notice. F. S. [illegible]

IT'S A LIFE SENTENCE.

Oakland, Ill., Jan. 8.—There was finally a provision made for a nation to get out of the league of nations, in case it desired to do so. Is there any such provision made for a nation to get out of the world court after it has become a member, or is it a life sentence, for better or worse? I can find no mention of the matter in the court constitution. READER.

AN IDEA IN FARM RESEARCH.

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 8.—I notice in THE TRIBUNE this morning announcement of the organization of "The Tribune Farm Research." Why not carry this a little farther, come down into central Illinois, rent a hundred and sixty acre farm, equip it and farm it as a farm should be, strictly as a business proposition, with accounts and costs of every detail of operation, costs, labor and net results, with what it has given the operating family for living expenses. I would suggest that you issue weekly through your paper just what was done on the farm the week past and what you plan to do the coming week, include a weekly labor and financial exhibit. Let this farm have the benefit of any suggestion that the Tribune Farm Research board may choose to make, and publish this weekly as made.

I would also suggest that if you do this, that you permit at all times representatives of farming to visit this farm for purposes of observation and examination of records and accounts with privilege of publication of what they may see or find.

An undertaking of this kind should be no expense to THE TRIBUNE. It ought to pay its own way and show a reasonable profit on operation and interest on the land, unless there is something radically wrong in farming conditions. But a demonstration farm should show up any weakness in farm practices and methods and its possibilities under efficient, intelligent management, would be of inestimable value to agriculture. A. W. ANDERSON.

CONSISTENCY.

6 YEARS OF DRY LAW A SUCCESS? M'BRIDE SAYS SO

Claims Enforcement Is, Too—Where Tried.

BY SIDNEY SUTHERLAND.

The federal prohibition law went into effect six years ago tomorrow. What do the drys think—officially and honestly—has been the effect of this legislation; and what do they plan to do about it in the future?

On the eve of the sixth anniversary of this law the official opinion was voiced by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who came to Chicago yesterday. Last night he addressed members of the Illinois league at a banquet.

The reason for the banquet was threefold; to bid farewell to Maj. Frank B. Ebbert, head of the Illinois branch, who is going into the organization's national propaganda field; to welcome his successor, Dr. George B. Safford, who comes from Minnesota; and to map out the dry campaign at the forthcoming primaries and election in Illinois.

Dry Crusaders at Banquet.

About 350 men and women attended the banquet. Bishop Edwin H. Hughes was toastmaster, and he voiced a determination to yield not an ell to beer and light wines. Other speakers were Mr. McBride, State Senator James J. Barbour, State Representative Howard Castle [7th], Maj. Ebbert, and Dr. Safford.

Mr. McBride speaks as the voice of the anti-liquor movement. He showed no reluctance in answering questions in an interview before the banquet.

"Has prohibition been a success?" he was asked.

"Yes—and no. It has made more progress in six years than any similar reform movement has ever made. It took a century to enforce Magna Charta, a date of equal importance in mankind's story.

Battle Rule of Liquor.

"But prohibition has fought a strongly entrenched adversary. Before January, 1920, there were 25,000,000 drinkers in America. Liquor ruled congress and every legislature.

"How do the national figures of 1919, the last wet year, compare with 1925, as to arrests, major crime, crowded prisons, court dockets, and the cost to taxpayers of enforcement?"

"There are far fewer arrests in every respect, except for the increase in automobile cases," McBride replied. "Prisons are emptying; crime is being [illegible]."

"Is dry law enforcement a success?"

"Absolutely—where the law is enforced. The coast guard, which has cleaned up rum row, is a shining example. Except for a few cities, prohibition is established in every section.

"One of the greatest obstacles to complete enforcement is the wet newspaper. But they, too, will have to join us, because we are right."

"Do you oppose beer and wines?"

"Absolutely. They are only the entering wedge to bring back the old saloon.

"Do you want to say where the Anti-Saloon league gets the money it spends?"

"We keep the best set of books of any similar organization in the world. They are audited quarterly and yearly. There is no secret about it. Any member of the league or its friends can see our books.

"But no wet or foe of our league can see our list of contributors, because they would steal them from us by boycott or some other form of coercion."

"If the saloon has been killed, what is the excuse for continuing your organization, especially its name—Anti-Saloon?"

"The friend of the saloon has not been killed. All that talk of beer and wine just now in Washington is a smoke screen. We have fifteen more congressmen and four more senators on our side than in the last congress.

League's Propaganda Program.

"The big fight is coming in the next congress. We are bent on a threefold program. It is this:

"FIRST—Make public sentiment. A majority is not enough, for a majority in the whole means a minority in many places. Chicago is an example. This propaganda is being conducted through churches, schools, friendly newspapers, and the rostrum.

"SECOND—Sell public sentiment—in such places as Chicago and other cities where it is not yet sold.

"THIRD—Mobilize. This means put our forces—and the voters—compactly behind the federal, state, and municipal officials who are dry and turn their attack against those who are not."

You Will Notice Early Spring Developments in These New Silk Dresses

New Fabrics, Ingenious New Flares, Pleatings—at $55 and $65

When Dresses are as charmingly designed as these for all manner of daytime affairs, it is pleasant to find a variety of fabrics such as frost crepe, crepe opaque, satin crepe and heavy georgette and the fashionable bois de rose and aquamarine green as well as navy and black. Many of the darker colors have becoming touches of lighter shades.

Neat Styles of Rayon And Striped Broadcloth

The day has definitely gone when house frocks were just makeshifts. Women now buy specially designed ones, simple, yet essentially becoming in color and line, and practical in fabric. And a whole wardrobe of them can be bought at very little expense. This group, for example, is most reasonable.

Note the Becoming Lines of These Two

ALEXANDRE GLOVES A Very Low Price for Such Up-to-date Styles, $2.95

You know, of course, what high quality of material and workmanship distinguishes every pair of Gloves made by Alexandre of France, for whom we are sole American representatives. It is not difficult to appreciate such a price as this, particularly when the Gloves are the newest types —turnover cuffs and flared cuffs with exquisitely designed patterns of applique or embroidery. The correct shades are included: brown, beaver, tan, mode, black.

These Famous Gloves Have Been Three Times Winner of Grand Prix at Paris

This significant fact substantiates our opinion of Alexandre Gloves, for the Grand Prix is the highest honor that Alexandre could achieve. In 1900, 1910 and again in the Paris Exposition of Arts and Industries of 1925 this distinction was conferred on Alexandre Gloves.

O. K. ROAD PLAN IN CHICAGO AREA AS SHOW CLOSES

Authorities Approve Double Width Highways.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Double width highways leading from Chicago to population centers within a 300 mile radius were heartily endorsed by transportation authorities of the entire country yesterday as a closing stroke of the convention and Good Roads congress held by the American Road Builders association.

William H. Connell, retiring president of the association and an international leader in the highway field, wound up the week's coöperative program in Chicago with the statement that the regional scheme for highway improvement in Chicago, like that being formulated in the Philadelphia district, is one of the vital movements in the present day public road field.

He said it should have the support of every business and commercial agency as well as government and state support. He is chairman of the Pennsylvania organization formulating the regional plan there and has followed the Chicago development closely.

Now a City Problem.

"This association is unqualifiedly behind the movement in Chicago which is organizing government, state, county, and township forces for the rebuilding and widening of main roads in this district," he said. "Today a state's road building problem is purely a city terminal road problem.

"Most of our primary roads are built. Our original pavement systems are practically completed, but traffic has outgrown the pavements we have labored so hard to finish. We must face the new highway transportation issue now and meet it by building our heavy trunk lines to double and even triple widths or to a point adequate to handle the traffic they receive.

"A highway system is no stronger than its weakest link. The weakest links in our road systems today exist in the great terminals where congested highways cost every road user inestimable amounts in the loss of time, operating money and human life."

Oppose Numbering Scheme.

Strong opposition to the government's plan of designating and numbering "United States highways" by linking up the present improved state trunk lines also developed at the close of the convention. It appeared when the executive committee of the National Association of State Highway Officials met in the Congress hotel to consider changes in the first draft of the new United States road map.

Col. W. G. Edens of Chicago, executive of the Illinois Improvement association and director of the Dixie highway, told the committee that the government numbering system as submitted does not meet with the approval of the Dixie Highway association in that the government's numbering does not follow the original trail through the south.

Many Officials Join Protest.

State highway officials from Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Mexico, and other states also appeared before the committee with protests against the designation of these United States numbered highways and requested that the designation be changed, the numbers be shifted to conform better with state marking systems, and scores of other suggestions.

Eastern states want more United States roads awarded them. Illinois wants slight changes in the routing to conform with the Illinois state routes. Wisconsin wants United States No. 10 designated as the through route number on the road running from Detroit through Chicago, Madison, and Eau Claire to Minneapolis changed to No. 12 to conform with its original numbered highway.

Resolutions calling upon the government to build highway bridges across the Panama canal in order to link up international highways on the American continent, and indorsing the continued building of interstate highways through federal aid, were passed by the association late yesterday.

H. G. Shirley of Richmond, Va., was formally elected president of the association. W. R. Smith of Meridian, S. T. Henry of North Carolina, S. F. Beatty of Chicago, and Samuel Hill of Seattle were elected vice presidents and James M. MacDonald of Connecticut, association veteran, was renamed treasurer.

Seize Man with Bundle; Hold Him for an Inquiry

Suspicious of a man carrying a bundle, whom they saw entering a house at 1077 Frank street, Policemen Murphy, Shields, and Carroll of the Maxwell Street station followed and arrested him. In the bundle women's clothing and jewelry were found. The man, who gave the name of Leo Golfine, is being held pending an investigation.

ASKS DEATH FOR ALLEGED KILLER IN MURDER OF 2

Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy asked a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's court yesterday to impose the death penalty on Ralph Reno, 30 years old, charged with being the slayer of the parents of his god child because of a quarrel over the return of some presents given by him to the child.

Reno is charged with the double murder of Edward Palombizio and his wife, Mary. At his first trial Reno was sentenced to hang, but Judge John P. McGoorty granted a new trial.

Reno, taking the stand in his own behalf yesterday, declared he was home in bed suffering from a cold at the time of the murders. The case will go to the jury tonight.

FAKE PHONE COLLECTORS ROB WOMAN.

Mrs. Anna Cohn, 3436 Seminary avenue, was robbed of $70 and a pair of diamond earrings valued at $200 yesterday by two men who gained entrance to her home by posing as telephone collectors.

GERMANY BALKS AT LEAGUE UNTIL RHINE ARMY CUT

Locarno Pact Periled by German Demand.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Europe's Locarno treaty of pacification is in danger, Foreign Minister Stresemann admitted at a secret session of the foreign affairs committee in the reichstag today.

The allies promised to cut down the occupation forces in the Rhineland to 45,000 men before Jan. 31. Instead, it is learned, they plan to quarter 75,000 men in the second and third zones of occupation.

Germany considers this an infringement of the Versailles treaty and Locarno agreement. The final seal cannot be affixed to the agreement until Germany enters the league of nations. The foreign affairs committee decided that Germany should refuse to apply for membership in the league until the occupation question has been settled.

The Cologne zone has been evacuated, but the British troops simply moved on to the second zone of occupation. It is impossible to house both the British and French forces in this overcrowded district, which is bombarding the government with complaints.

Through the Locarno treaty 2,000,000 Germans in Cologne were relieved of the burden of occupation, but 5,000,000 people in the Rhineland were loaded down with heavier burdens than in the days of the Ruhr war, when the second and third zones were controlled by 55,000 men, 20,000 less than now.

The German ambassadors have been instructed to inquire whether the French and British governments intend to cut down the occupation forces to 45,000 men, as promised.

Falls Asleep in Phone Booth; 'Habit'; Dismissed

Robert Drake, 2719 North Hamlin avenue, was arrested early Wednesday morning when employés of a drug store at 5050 Armitage avenue found him asleep in a telephone booth. Yesterday he explained to Judge Alfar Eberhardt that he couldn't help going to sleep; that he nearly always fell into slumber when he sat down. He was dismissed.

SCIENTIFIC WAR ON WAR LAUDED BY JANE ADDAMS

A new approach to the world court and other international problems was suggested by Miss Jane Addams in an address yesterday before the Women's Roosevelt Republican club at the Palmer house.

After tracing the growth of the new international viewpoint from the days of the American Peace society and the first Hague tribunal, she referred to the Borah and the Pepper positions today and then came to what she regards as the most hopeful work now going on for the eventual peace of the world.

"This is the new school at Johns Hopkins university in memory of Walter Hines Page," she said. "Owen D. Young refers to this as the 'beginning of a laboratory attack on war as a social disease.' It would train a group of technicians. Facts don't move people much. They act from purpose, impulse, conviction, in all major interests. They have to be urged on.

"I believe this new approach, this new attempt to get at life, away from misconceptions, to visualize international relations with some sort of a moral standard, in time will bring a new influence to bear on this heated discussion of the entry of the United States into the world court."

The United Irish Societies of Chicago have taken action on the world court situation as follows:

"The United Irish Societies declare the self-evident fact that membership of the United States in the alleged court would be a surrender of our state sovereignty to a group of international aliens who are antagonistic to our conceptions of government, to our traditions, ideals, customs and mode of thought, and to our material welfare, and that such an act would constitue treason to the United States."

OTHER CITIES ON LAKES PROTEST CHICAGO CANAL

Claim Sewage Flow Injures Them.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Chicago's persistence in diverting 10,000 cubic feet of lake water a second, thereby lowering the level of all the Great Lakes to the detriment of shipping, was bitterly attacked by several speakers at the protest meeting of the Great Lakes Harbor association today. Other speakers called the action of Chicago "human, but illogical."

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, was the principal orator. It was he who termed Chicago's attitude understandable but wrong. He condemned the city as injuring the nation as much as it were "removing the rock ballast from a transcontinental railroad to build a cobblestone pavement for ox carts."

Sees Waste of Resources.

"We are using our natural resources at a prodigious rate," he said. "The time is not far distant when our coal will have to be conserved and a distinction made between its use in those industries that are essential and those that are considered as luxuries. Neither is the day far distant when every stream in the country that will turn a wheel will have to go to work, and the great streams of the country will be considered our principal natural assets.

"I understand that the volume of water diverted at Chicago would produce 500,000 horse power if utilized in the fall down the St. Lawrence river to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. That water is immensely more valuable going down the St. Lawrence than it would be descending the Mississippi.

"The immediate interest in the diversion of the water is its effect on the lake shipping, which is being seriously crippled."

Hoan Blisters Chicago.

Mr. Baker and Daniel Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, who followed him, praised the effective work of the United States engineers in their work in the controversy between Chicago and the states that oppose her.

The Milwaukee mayor's attack on the Illinois city was blistering. He pointed out the efficient manner in which Milwaukee has handled her sewage disposal and how within a short time that city will cease to pollute the lake from which it obtains its drinking water. He declared Chicago could follow the same system, dispose of all its sewage, and produce a valuable by-product of fertilizer at a cost of about $[illegible],000,000.

START SOON TO BUILD HANGARS ON CITY FIELD

Plans to develop 247 acres of rough prairie land in Clearing into a modern municipal airport at once were announced at the city hall yesterday.

The tract, located at Sixty-third street and Cicero avenue, was leased by the city from the board of education for 25 years at an annual rental of $1,500. Under terms of the contract it can be used only for a flying field.

Work of building hangars, runways, and beacon lights for night flyers will begin within a few weeks, it was announced. The field will be rolled out smoothly and marked. The city council has voted an appropriation of $25,000 for these improvements.

No landing charge will be made to flyers for use of the field. It will be free for commercial, city owned, or government planes, although a rental will be asked for hangar space used by commercial companies. Gasoline and other flyers' needs will be furnished at nominal prices.

DESPONDENT; TAKES POISON; DIES.

John Cargo, 39 years old, 5719 South Union avenue, swallowed poison at home yesterday and died as he was being taken to the German Deaconess hospital by the Englewood police. Mrs. Helen Cargo, the widow, said that her husband was despondent.

LETELLIER DINES VALENTINO, WHO SHOCKS BEAUTIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Rudolph Valentino was the guest of honor at a sumptuous banquet and party given by Henry Letellier last night which ended at 8 a. m. The sheik amazed the galaxy of notable guests, including numerous titled women and noted beauties of European society invited to meet and vamp him, by ignoring everybody present except Rosika Dolly, who, with her twin, is playing here.

Rudolph wandered aimlessly about during the early part of the evening, seemingly disinterested in all the charming and wealthy pillaresses of continental society who were presented to him, but grabbed off Rosika as soon as the Dolly sisters arrived after their performance.

As the night wore on the sheik went to Pearl White's house nearby, where breakfast was served and a few last Charlestons danced.

SEIZE FIVE AS ROBBER GANG.

Five colored men, two of whom confessed to taking part in sixteen robberies, were arrested by Policemen Reynolds and Donovan of the Wabash avenue station yesterday. Several laundry drivers were held up by the gang. Arthur Washington and William King are the men who confessed.

FAIL TO LOCATE SENDER OF CANDY FULL OF POISON

Why a box of poisoned candy was sent to Edwin L. Briggs, clerk living at 4058 Broadway, a few days before Christmas, remained a mystery last night. Several fellow employés of Briggs in the Chicago Fire Brick company offices at 111 West Washington street were ill after tasting the candy.

The candy contained arsenic and ground glass, according to Dr. William D. McNally. Briggs told postoffice employés whom he asked to make an investigation that he had no enemies who wished him harm.

The candy and the box in which it was sent have been turned over to the postal authorities. Inside the box was a card bearing the inscription, "To friend Ed."

Hurls Brick Into Window; Flees with $2,000 Gems

A slim youth wearing a cap and a raincoat threw a brick through the window of Loftis Bros.' jewelry store at 334 East 63d street late yesterday afternoon, reached in and grabbed a dozen diamond rings valued at $2,000, and escaped. The store manager, William Hogan, attempted a pursuit, but lost sight of the robber. He notified the Woodlawn police.

TAX PUBLICITY REPEAL IS GIVEN COMMITTEE O. K.

Simmons Promises Quick Vote on Revenue Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Repeal of the publicity provision of the present revenue law was approved by the senate finance committee today, with several of the Democratic members joining with the Republicans in support of the repeal section of the house tax bill.

Senator Simmons [Dem., N. C.], ranking minority member of the committee, said he might possibly offer a substitute on the floor of the senate, but it was apparent that the Democrats have no intention of making a partisan issue of the question.

Vote to Repeal 3 Stamp Taxes.

The committee voted for the repeal of three stamp taxes which are continued in effect under the house bill. These are levies ranging from 25 cents to $1 on customs house entries, a 50 cent tax on withdrawals from customs bonded warehouses, and taxes ranging from $1 to $5 on passages on steamships between the United States and foreign countries. The house bill repeal of the stamp tax on deeds and conveyances was approved.

By a vote of six to seven, the committee rejected a proposal to restore the full amount of tax on alcohol. It approved the new tax in the house bill of one-tenth of one cent per gallon on cereal beverages.

Protests from life insurance companies against the increase in the flat tax on corporation earnings caused the committee to exempt them from the increase. This was because life insurance companies are not subject to the capital stock levy, which the finance committee proposes to repeal.

New Basis for Oil Depletion.

A new basis for depletion allowances for oil wells was approved by the committee. Insead of being based on uncertain valuations, an allowance would be made in the case of oil and gas wells equal to 25 per cent of the gross income from the property during the taxable year.

Democratic members, led by Senator Simmons, protested on the floor of the senate during the day against the inference that they have had any intention of delaying the tax bill. While not denying that Clem Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, had impressed upon him yesterday that the people want prompt tax reduction, Senator Simmons asserted that the Democrats are willing to agree on a final vote not later than Feb.

Senators Harrison [Dem., Miss.], King [Dem., Utah], and Jones [Dem., N. M.] also informed the senate that they proposed to obtain proper consideration of their amendments, but that prompt passage of the bill is assured.

WOMAN HURT IN TWO STORY LEAP.

Mrs. Sadie Borgman, 25 years old, 1114 South California avenue, was seriously injured yesterday when she leaped from a second floor window at her home. She was said to have been despondent over domestic affairs. She is at the county hospital.

ITALY'S WAR DEBT FUNDING CAUSES CLASH IN HOUSE

Rathbone Assails U. S. Terms as Gift.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Two Chicago reperesentatives clashed in the house today over the Italian debt settlement. Representative Rathbone [Rep.] denounced the Italian settlement as "the tremendous cancellation, the most tremendous gift of the people's money by one nation to another in the history of the world." He urged its rejection as a means of checking the power of Mussolini.

Representative Madden [Rep.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, followed Mr. Rathbone with a defense of the settlement.

"My colleague can excite applause anywhere," said Mr. Madden in replying to Representative Rathbone, "but when you get through listening to him and to the applause what has he said that you can take away with you? He has a voice like a sweet musical instrument.

Praise and Censure.

"He has an agreeable personality. I love my colleague but I don't agree with him on a single proposition. I have never known him during his entire service in congress, to cast a vote on the right side of any question."

Representative Rathbone declared that the United States owes nothing to Italy.

"Italy entered the war of unsecreted selfishness," said Mr. Rathbone. "She wanted certain territory. She went into the war because she thought it was a good gamble. If it cost more than she anticipated it ought not to be charged to the American people."

"Italy is proposing to pay every dollar we loaned and almost $400,000,000 besides," Mr. Madden said. "America has brought order out of financial chaos everywhere. She proposes now to make a settlement with Italy on as near a commercial basis as the facts will justify."

Discusses Debt with Greeks.

The American debt commission talked over the Greek debt to the United States with the Greek commission today, but nothing tangible came of the first conference. Argument of the Greek government was renewed with respect to the advancing of the remainder of the $48,000,000 and the funding of the whole amount, but apparently made little impression on the Americans.

While the American commission was in conference with the delegation from Athens, the commission from Jugo-Slavia arrived, prepared to discuss funding of their government's debt.

LABOR CALLS ON ENGLAND TO BUY ALL COAL MINES

Vast Plan for Fuel, Power and Products.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The miners' plan for saving the coal industry was presented to the coal commission today by R. H. Tawney, famous economist, who is one of the leaders of the labor party. It is in one word, nationalization, but Mr. Tawney presented an elaborate scheme for the reorganization of the whole British power production.

The coal industry, he said, would become one unit for the production of fuel, manufacturing electrical energy, coke, smokeless fuel, gas, oils, and other by-products, and should be nationally owned.

Bonds For Purchase.

Mr. Tawney advocated the issue of coal industry bonds for the purpose of buying out the owners, and said the royalties also should be the property of the nation, but he said nothing about the method of acquiring them. The reason for this reticence on royalties was that most of the miners opposed the compensation of royalty owners, while quite willing to buy out the actual mine owners.

Mr. Tawney proposed the setting up of four bodies to manage the national industry. The first would be a power and transport commission, consisting of six experts to manage the electrical development and to supply cheap power on a big scale. The second would be a national coal and power production council, which he compared with a board of directors, consisting of twelve chosen for their expert knowledge of various branches of the business. Their duty would be to secure the most efficient methods of producing and consuming coal The third would be a consumers' council, representing all the consuming interests, to consider transport and distribution and aid in fixing wages. The fourth would be a coal export commission to handle the export trade.

Not to Give Up Strike.

Mr. Tawney in reply to questions said the men would not surrender their right to strike. He also admitted this plan was for the future, and the miners now had a plan for dealing with the immediate crisis when the subsidy expires next May.

TEST AIRPLANE BRAKE; MAKES LANDINGS ON SMALL FIELDS SAFE

Dayton, O., Jan. 14.—(AP)—First tests of an airplane brake, designed to stop the ship within a short distance after landing, were made by army air pilots at McCook field here today. One of the advantages of the invention, which operates similarly to brakes on an automobile, is that it will enable flyers to make emergency landings on small fields.

The plane must have lost nearly all of its flying speed, which settles the tail of the ship firmly on the ground, before the brake can be applied. When it is, the plane can be stopped quickly. If applied too soon, the plane will "nose over."

$750,000 Fund Raised for Lithographic Foundation

Announcement that the Lithographic Technical foundation has completed the raising of a $750,000 fund was made last night at a banquet given at the Congress hotel in honor of Joseph Deutsch, chairman of the endowment fund committee. William R. Dawes, president of the Association of Commerce, said that the foundation's idea of combining theoretical and practical work filled a great need in American education.

U.S. SENATE VOTE WORRIES ITALY IN LONDON TALK

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Italian debt mission, headed by Count Volpi, went to the treasury this morning and met Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Otto Niemeyer, permanent undersecretary of the treasury; and other British experts. The first meeting was concerned solely with arrangements for the conference which will begin tomorrow, when the Italians will set themselves to gain better terms, if possible, than those accorded them by Washington.

This matter is of deep concern to the Italians. When Count Volpi arrived last night he was handed a copy of a dispatch from Washington saying that if he granted England larger payments than he agreed to pay America, ratification by the senate of the American debt accord would almost inevitably fail. He is much surprised and worried by this information, and immediately on his arrival at his hotel he went into conference with his experts, which lasted most of the night.

From the view of the Italians, the first step necessary is to determine exactly what Italy owes. The British claim the debt is £592,000,000 ($2,960,000,000), not reckoning the interest. The Italians reply that they only received £381,000,000 ($1,905,000,000) in cash, the rest being coal, shipping, army supplies, etc. The Italian estimate totals about £610,000,000 ($3,050,000,000), including interest.

After the total figure is agreed on the method of payment and rate of interest remain to be fixed, and long negotiations are expected before an agreement is reached. The Italians want to get off almost without interest, while the British want at least to get from the Italians their proportion of the British debt to the United States, on which the British taxpayers now are paying interest and principal.

Italy also is pressing for the physical return of £20,000,000 worth of gold ($100,000,000) deposited with the Bank of England as security for early debts and which long ago was sent to America. The reason for this is that the Italian banks, from whom the gold was secured, are pressing the Italian government for its return.

Failing to secure its return, the Italians might be satisfied with a gold loan placed commercially in England and concurrently with the treasury obligations Count Volpi will consult the British bankers on the prospects of such a loan and an additional amount to be devoted to the stabilization of the lira.

FOUND DEAD OF DIABETES.

Mrs. Mary Manning, 45, was found dead in her room at 663 North Dearborn street yesterday morning. The verdict of the coroner's jury was "death due to diabetes."

VICTIMS DOUBT COAST CONVICT IS ROBERT SCOTT

First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman said yesterday he was doubtful about the real identity of a man in San Quentin, Cal., penitentiary, who gives the name of John Redding, but who is believed to be Robert Scott, brother of Russell Scott, after he had interviewed a dozen victims of the Scott brothers' robberies.

Of the dozen victims, only two said they believed a photograph of Redding is really that of Robert Scott.

Some of the victims said they could not be sure, while others said positively that Redding is not Scott. Dr. E. Thomas Brand, who was held up during the Maurer murder, was one of those who could not make an identification.

City Firemen Again Ask Pay Raise of City Council

New resolutions, calling on the city council to grant a wage increase of $300 a year were adopted yesterday by the Firemen's association. Resolutions presented to the city council some months ago have not been acted on, President William S. Johnston said. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, with which the firemen's association is affiliated, will lead the fight for the raise on the floor of the council.

RADICALS SMASH DOUMER PLAN TO RESCUE FRANCS

Socialist Regime Looms; Briand to Fight.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Jan. 14—Open warfare replaced the guerrilla fighting between the left cartel and Premier Briand's hybrid cabinet this evening when the chamber of deputies' finance committee smashed the corner stone of M. Doumer's pet fiscal project by rejecting the proposals to apply the turnover tax of 1 1-5 per sent of all sales, which the finance minister estimated would yield 3,800,000,000 francs [about $152,000,000] in 1926, enabling France to rehabilitate the franc.

Tonight's action, adopted by a vote of 18 to 6, completes the systematic destruction of Finance Minister Doumer's scheme, to which Premier Briand pledged support. As the left block majority overwhelmingly controls the chamber's committee the question of the government's fiscal policy goes on the floor of the chamber and into public debate.

Briand Expected to Fight.

Premier Briand, it was intimated tonight, may accept the left's ultimatum and insist on open debate tomorrow afternoon.

A severe cabinet shakeup is probable, regardless of the outcome of tomorrow's discussion. Even if M. Briand wins over the deputies and the Doumer project is carried over the heads of the committeemen, several ministers belonging to the left cartel parties must resign.

If M. Briand loses and the Socialists and radicals muster sufficient strength to vote down the project, then the government will be forced to resign and President Doumergue's only legal alternative will be to summon the Socialists leader to Elysees palace and intrust him with the formation of a purely Socialist cabinet.

Rumors of Dictator Again.

But menaces and threats of different sorts are freely bandied about this evenings, with rumors of coups and dictatorships. The lack of powerful party leaders renders these empty, however.

With five different finance ministers politically guillotined since April and the fate of a sixth hanging in the balance, political experts are wondering what the outcome will be.

M. Herriot's opening speech as president of the new chamber today did not reveal what the cartel proposes.

Sealed Verdict Is Returned in Bowman Libel Suit

A jury in Superior Judge John J. Sullivan's court decided last night whether it is libelous to term a man a bootlegger. It returned a sealed verdict which will be opened this morning in the $100,000 suit of B. J. Bowman, former assistant manager of the Morrison hotel, against Hill's Reports, Inc., a credit report publication. Bowman testified he had never engaged in liquor transactions as charged by the defendants.

ILLINOIS FARM RELIEF PARLEY ON HERE TODAY

Final plans for Illinois' state-wide corn surplus conference, to be attended by more than 1,000 farmers and business men, were made yesterday. The meeting will open at 1:30 oclock this afternoon in the ballroom of the Hotel La Salle. Relief measures will be considered for agriculture's surplus crops, particularly corn.

Congressmen at Washington, D. C., have their eyes on today's meeting, according to S. H. Thompson president of the American Farm Bureau federation, who has just returned from the capital.

J. F. Hedgcock, farm adviser of Will county, and J. Henneberry of Plainfield announced yesterday that farmers and business interests are planning a corn day celebration at Joliet, where 10,000 are expected to attend. The meeting will be held just before the middle west corn surplus conference in Des Moines, Ia., on Jan. 28.

Business men throughout Illinois are expected to be strongly represented at this afternoon's meeting as the result of an appeal for support sent out by John H. Camlin, president of the Illinois chamber of commerce.

Boy Trades Knife for Gun; Is Accidentally Shot

Jack Thompson, 15 years old, a freshman at McKinley High school, last night traded his pocket knife for a gun. A short while later he was taken to the county hospital to have a gunshot wound in his hand dressed. He accidentally shot himself while playing with the firearm in an alley near his home at 2049 Warren avenue.

ACUTE RUBBER SHORTAGE IN FEW YEARS FORECAST

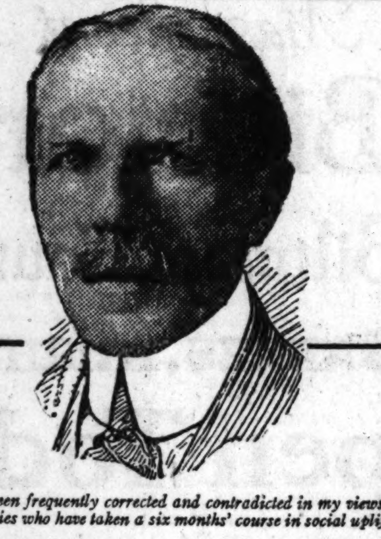
Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—A rubber shortage is in prospect during the next few years, even though there is no restriction on production in the British colonies, H. M. Whitford, who was in charge of the department of commerce investigation of crude rubber supplies, asserted today before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Mr. Whitford said that within three years there will be an actual excess of consumption over production on the basis of potential production. Meanwhile, he said, stocks of rubber will be sufficient to prevent an actual shortage. By 1931, however, he insisted the stocks will be used up and there will be an actual shortage.

P. L. Palmerton, head of the rubber division of the department of commerce, advocated the passage of the Capper bill making it possible for American rubber manufacturers to join in combinations for collective importation of rubber supplies without violating anti-trust laws.

Burdens Too Heavy; Woman Swallows Poison

Miss Emily Mathis, 27 years old, swallowed poison yesterday in her flat at 829 Galt avenue. Her niece, Jewel Hutchinson, 17 years old, called the police and Miss Mathis was taken to the Lake View hospital. There she said she was despondent over her responsibilities; that she had been left to care for the niece and her 19 year old brother by the death of their mother. It is believed she will recover.



"I have been frequently corrected and contradicted in my views by young ladies who have taken a six months' course in social uplift."

Flashes New Letters in Suit Against Her.

Three Rivers, Que., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Fred Beauvais filed a declaration today before the Superior court here in a suit against Mrs. Anne U. Stillman for $7,621.80. This, the declaration says, is "the balance of the price and value of services rendered and work done by the plaintiff for the defendant and moneys advanced to her by him at her request and for her benefit and the time and places and for the various amounts mentioned in the statement of account hereto attached."

The plaintiff's lawyer, John MacNaughton of Montreal, was ready to proceed with the case before Judge N. L. Duplessis. Philippe Bigue, Mrs. Stillman's attorney, asked postponement. He said negotiations had been on for some time between the parties in view of a settlement, and also some witnesses are from New York and that it will be necessary to have these witnesses examined in the American metropolis.

Plea for Mrs. Stillman.

The plea for Mrs. Stillman says in part: "Plaintiff, far from helping defendant in her case against her husband, was disloyal towards defendant and did seriously damage her interests by selling to agents of the defendant's husband for the sum of $15,000 letters which he claimed to have been written and addressed to him by defendant and which were forgeries."

Mrs. Stillman denies all the allegations contained in Beauvais' declaration. Judge Duplessis finally postponed the case "generally." It probably will come up next month.

Beauvais Has New Letters.

Referring to the alleged sale of letters and to the statement that these letters were forgeries:

"These forgeries are on file in the records of the New York court and were admitted by Mrs. Stillman's attorney as genuine and from Mrs. Stillman's hand," the former guide said with flashing eyes. "There were certain letters which were destroyed but later on I found certain correspondence which I had not been aware before. Here they are, and, if you know Mrs. Stillman's writing, you can judge for yourself.

In Divorce Trial?

"Strong pressure has been brought to bear to permit these letters to be introduced in the New York divorce trial. If they are, these will create a tremendous sensation. I have never been placed on the stand in any of the New York proceedings. I have been the innocent victim of undeserved criticisms, by both Mr. and Mrs. Stillman. If what may be termed persecution is persisted in, by both parties, time will come when I will play all cards on the table. The public will know all the facts of the case from beginning to end.

"Up to the present I have done everything to respect the interests of both parties to these unfortunate proceedings, but my own reputation is at stake and I have decided that whatever comes I must, at all costs, defend myself, even if it seriously affects one or the other party in the proceedings in New York."

COPS, KNIGHTS ERRANT IN ARMOR CLAD, MAY SEEK BOLD BANDITS

Chicago detectives in the future will venture forth in search of their prey as "knights of old," if Chief Collins should decide to adopt a bulletproof suit of armor that has been sent to the chief for approval by a Boston firm.

The latest device to foil Chicago banditry and gunmen is modeled after the ancient suits of armor worn by knights in battle. Every part of the body, from the head to the tip of the toes is protected by metal plate guaranteed to resist gunfire.

The headpiece is a helmet with an adjustable visor. A breastplate covers the upper portion of the body and strapped to the arms and legs are jointed plates, even covering the fingers.

Alleged Pickpockets Are Caught; Police Chase Taxi

Four alleged pickpockets, riding in a taxicab, were arrested at 13th street and Michigan avenue yesterday by Lieut. Edward Birmingham and his detective bureau squad after a chase of several blocks. They are Frank Roberts, 4518 North Racine avenue; Philip Soley, 3500 North Clark street; Robert Collins, 830 Sunnyside avenue, and Louis Pastore, 450 South Sangamon street.

TILE WORKER IDENTIFIES MEN WHO BEAT HIM

Earl McDowell, 4857 Kenmore avenue, a member of the executive board of the Tile Setters' Helpers' union, yesterday identified three men at the detective bureau as those who kidnaped and beat him on Wednesday night.

They are Anthony De Marco, 4107 Crystal street, vice president of the Paint and Putty Helpers' union; Ralph Barnett, 4309 West Harrison street, an official of the Printing Trades council, and Michael Sexton of the Union hotel, an organizer of the Flat Janitors' union. All were arrested by Lieut. Thomas Flanagan.

Charges of kidnaping and assault were made by McDowell. He said that he had gone to a meeting of his union at 180 West Washington street, where he was seized by the trio, carried to a saloon on the west side, slugged and released, but too late to attend the meeting. He intended to nominate a candidate for president, he asserted.

MONTE CARLO

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Hargrave Wendever, country gentleman and financier, calls on a famous London physician for examination. The doctor tells him he cannot live for more than six or eight months. Wendever takes the blow standing, and decides to go on with his plans for the winter as though nothing had happened. He feels, however, an urge to give a lift to some poor fellow creature. He experiments on the people he comes in contact with until he finds one who is in need of help.

This proves to be a delicate looking manicure girl, Violet Martin, who serves him regularly. He offers her and a member of her family a vacation of two months at his villa at Monte Carlo. Not having any family, Violet induces her fiancé, Robert, to pose as her brother and come with her. Their host gives them a free rein in Monte Carlo and they enjoy themselves to the fullest extent.

Wendever's London cronies, the Rev. Philip Gorse, John Marston, his financial adviser, and Lord Pellingham arrive at Monte Carlo. Wendever gives a supper party for his friends at the Carlton, and among his guests is the Princess Putralka, a great beauty, to whom he has paid marked attention. The princess is in love with Hargrave. While the party is in progress, Robert, who is not of it, creates a disturbance in another part of the café and is forcibly ejected. Wendever's party hastily breaks up, and Violet finds Robert waiting outside for her.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

VIOLET MAKES A CONFESSION.

Hargrave shook his head.

"One moment, princess, if you please."

He turned back. Violet was talking earnestly to Robert—earnestly but obviously without effect.

"If you are ready, Violet," he said firmly.

"I am taking her home myself," Robert reiterated. "We are going to walk."

"You will do nothing of the sort," was the quiet rejoinder. "You are drunk, and your behavior in the restaurant has been disgraceful."

"I don't care," he went on. "I don't understand why he took you away. You're good enough for his friends apparently, and I'm not. Had enough of it. Violet's coming home with me."

"Your sister needed protection," Hargrave said calmly.

"Sister be damned!" was the fierce retort. "Take your hand off her arm and leave her alone. She's not my sister. We're engaged to be married, and the sooner you know it the better."

The attendants had melted away; a single glance from Hargrave had sent them in other directions. He turned to Violet.

"Is this true?" he asked.

"Yes," she faltered.

"In that case," Hargrave said, with a horrible and unnatural calm, "I withdraw my interference. You had better get the commissionaire to put you into a voiture."

She cried out something—a tangle of words which stabbed at his heart through the darkness as he crossed the pavement. He took his place by the princess's side, and waved to the chauffeur to proceed.

"For once then," she murmured, as she drew aside her sables to make room for him—"you have given way."

Hargrave, as an hour later his car turned in at the winding approach to the villa, raised his eyes involuntarily to the window of Violet's room. There was no light there, no sign of that vigil to which she had confessed.

He stood without movement, paralyzed with amazement.

From a long established custom no one was permitted to sit up for him, and inside as well as out the villa was as silent as the grave. More from habit than from anything else he lingered for a few minutes in the salon, mixed himself a whisky and soda, and lit a cigaret. Afterwards he mounted the smoothly polished stairs and made his way to his own room. Even there he felt no desire for rest. He stepped out on to the balcony, only to find as it were the whole world in melancholy attune with his own sadness. The cypresses bordering the first tier of gardens pointed blackly to a lowering sky. Even the soothing placidity of the sea was disturbed by a long, restless swell.

He turned back into the room, closing the window behind him, and lingered for a moment looking into the mirror before he commenced to undress. There was a vein of humiliation oppressing him, mingled with that deeper sadness which he refused altogether to analyze. With his years and experience, to have been so easily duped; worse still; to have cherished even for a moment that absurd and yet amazing dream. The idea, immeasurably bitter yet also curiously sweet, tortured him, that in these, perhaps the closing months of his life, there should have come something which had evaded him through all the years only to mock him with its tawdry unreality.

He commenced to undress. With his coat removed and his waistcoat half drawn off, he paused suddenly. The door of his room had been softly opened. He stood without movement, paralyzed with amazement. It was Violet who had entered—Violet, in her blue dressing gown, walking as though in her sleep. She closed and locked the door, then, turning deliberately around, came towards him. His words sounded half unintelligible. His brain had refused to act. There was a look in her face, a light in her eyes, incomprehensibly beautiful.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded. "Why did you do that?"

"I came here because I wanted to talk to you," she answered, "and I locked the door because—I do not wish to be disturbed."

"You can't stay—here," he insisted, a little helplessly. "I am going to unlock the door."

She held out her hand.

"Please don't."

He was driven in those few astonishing seconds to mechanical actions, which in view of the turmoil of his senses seemed somehow ridiculous. He drew on his waistcoat again, and commenced to re-tie his tie. She sat upon the sofa at the end of his bed.

"Will you listen to me, please?" she said. "I am bitterly and miserably ashamed. The truth never seemed so terrible as now. Both Robert and I—we are horrible. But listen, please. Robert had been ill—his cough in London was dreadful—and the doctor declared he must spend some time in a warmer climate, or he might develop consumption. We used to read through the columns of the newspapers for cheap trips to the south; we used to read of the sunshine and the warm air and, after all, it was a waste of time. We had no money. I myself—every part of me—was aching to get away from those gray, miserable days, somewhere where one could be happy, if it was only for a month—where the sun shone. Those streaming window panes! You know how I hated them—and there was Robert. Then you made me that curious offer. You know that at first I did not listen. Then I was tempted—strangely and horribly tempted."

"But why did you tell me," he asked, "that Robert was your brother?"

"That is the most humiliating part of it all," she confessed, "because it was so unnecessary. I did believe in you, even then. I liked you so much. I knew you weren't like those others, and yet—if you can realize how I have suffered, what a persecution it has been sometimes, you would understand just a little. I knew in my heart that you would always behave the only way you could behave. I had no real fear of anything, and yet, in that foolish moment before we decided to tell this lie, I couldn't help thinking, after all there must be a little in you like other men. You would lose interest if you thought that there was some one like that in my life, however little you meant anything that was wrong. You had never looked at me as though you admired me very much. You always behaved like a grand seigneur, and yet, you see how vain I was—I thought, if you knew, you mightn't bring us."

It was a pathetic little story, so reasonable yet with its curious little strain of meanness, apparent because of its naturalness, hopelessly exposed. Already he felt most of the bitterness passing away. The question he asked forced itself to his lips. In view of what had happened it was almost irrelevant and yet it seemed to him the most important thing in the world.

"Are you so much in love with this young man then?"

She rose deliberately to her feet. Her hands rested upon his shoulders. He could see the quivering of her slim body a few inches away, as her eyes pleaded with him for belief.

"I was never in love with Robert," she declared. "From the very first I pitied him, and I suppose that grew. I was never in love with him. I was the stronger of the two. I felt that he must be looked after and I tried to do it. Now that is over. I have told him tonight that nothing could ever induce me to marry him. It was not a surprise. I think that he had already realized it. The little ring I have been wearing around my neck has been given back. He will probably give it to Mademoiselle Zélie; she will throw it away."

A Refurbished 'Louise' Is Sung by Miss Garden

And It Comes Close to Being Quite an Event.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Louise," with Mary Garden in the name part, came near to staging a comeback in a double sense at the Auditorium last night. It was the first time this season that the Charpentier work had been sung; the first in several years when any particular effort had been made to recapture its former spirit of youth. Its scenery had been quite a bit refurbished, its mood had been brushed up quite a bit, too.

I still believe the extirpation of the dressmaking scene was a major surgical operation, nearly a capital one. They call "Louise" a musical romance on the program, but as years go on it becomes more musical than romance. The tale is of a Paris girl who runs away from home twice, the second time for good. In spite of the fact that it is developed at considerable length, it is pretty well dated as a drama.

The music remains. In two of the scenes the music is about ten times as important as the drama, having meanwhile only an incidental bit to do with the drama. One is the scene on Montmartre, which is retained, the other is the scene just referred to, which has been removed at great loss.

Here it was that Charpentier came to his greatest. The retained scene is a piece of high power imagination. It is no trouble at all to project yourself mentally into Paris at early morning, when the night ragpickers and newspaper girls and street sweepers are still in motion, to be dispelled by coming day and its activities. And what a bit of dreamland Conductor Polacco and his forces made of it!

Miss Garden lightened up the leading part considerably, making it quite a bit more youthful and less hard boiled than it used to be. Louise, of course, is no demure ingénue: one can quite understand how her mother's palm used to itch with a not always delivered slap. But sometimes she, or Miss Garden in her guise, made one sympathize with her youth, which was quite as it should be. This was the Louise of former days, when we first made her acquaintance.

There was reason to cheer the splendid performance of Fernand Ansseau as Julien, also the vivid figures of the father and mother as done by Georges Baklanoff and Maria Claessens.

Clarence Eddy in Recital.

Clarence Eddy, famous veteran of the organ console, made one of his infrequent appearances at Kimball hall last night, playing a program that had two new numbers, a few that are standardized, and several more that are heard only infrequently. With thoroughly ripened knowledge of the organ and its resources, Mr. Eddy was at times commanding, at others persuasive, always interesting and inspiring.

In place of "Lucia di Lammermoor," announced for performance at the Auditorium tomorrow afternoon, "Faust" will be sung by Edith Mason, Irene Pavloska, Maria Claessens, Charles Hackett, Richard Bonelli, and Virgilio Lazzari. Gabriel Grovlez will conduct.

WEDS TODAY

Miss Katherine Kimball Lytton.
[N. Fabeye Photo, Paris.]

The second of two weddings within two days interesting to Chicago and taking place in New York City is to be an event of today. Miss Katherine Kimball Lytton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lytton of Highland Park, is to be married to Lieut. Giacomo Maria Benello at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel at St. Stephen's church. A wedding breakfast will be served at the Hotel Ambassador. Lieut. Benello and his bride will sail for Europe tomorrow and reside in New York City on their return.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Miss Mildred Porter, 2327 Geneva terrace, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Where Asked.

The Answers.

Miss Sarah Rodkin, 1444 South Trumbull avenue, stenographer—Not unless carried to extremes. I dance it occasionally when I am in exceptionally good mood. When dancing that it is usually an indication that one is very happy, not downhearted; with the other dances one can be in almost any mood.

Charles C. Dodge, 1913 Jackson boulevard, ink manufacturer—I could give a better answer if I could do the Charleston better. The only danger is on married men's eyes, watching the girls' nicely shaped stockings. Before Christmas I went to dances every Friday night, but a fellow with an eye for good clothes stole my outfit.

Miss Erma Ariess, 5028 North Clark street, bank clerk—No, I think it gives a lot of exercise and enjoyment. I have tried it and I consider that if it is done in moderation there will be no ill effects. I don't believe in dancing it all night nor as an endurance contest, but I would say it is all right for a short time.

Walter Andrews, 5113 North Tripp avenue, salesman—No, I don't think so. I think it is a wonderful exercise, though it is not a wonderful sight in a dance hall. I don't believe it should be danced on public dance floors. It looks more like an African war dance. In the home it is all right.

Miss Carol Standish, Sovereign hotel, home girl—No, most assuredly not. I dance it every night in the week. No, not with the same fellow, emphatically no. It is a very clever dance. I forget all about the world when I am dancing it, particularly if my partner is a good dancer.

THEATER

"Young Blood," which has been running some weeks in New-York, will be brought to the Princess the night of the 23d, with Miss Helen Hayes, Eric Dressler, Miss Florence Eldridge, and Edmond Breese in the principal characters. Mr. Breese replaces Norman Trevor, who is returning to England.

"Square Crooks" is the name of something bulletined for early production, with Russell Mack and Miss Dorothy Appleby at the head of the cast. . . . And, somehow, I feel that it is the play acted last season in the Central for a week or two under the title of "The Love-Test."

Michael Arlen is calling in Mrs. Edith Ellis to help him in making a play from the tale in "These Charming People" called "The Cavalier of the Streets." . . . One of the tales in that volume, "The Man with the Broken Nose," has since I read it fairly shrieked for George M. Cohan to be the playwright; and, although it is in a different key from "The Cavalier of the Streets," I am of the belief that the raffish hero of either is the hero of the other, also.

Hugh S. Stange, who helped to make "Seventeen" into the comedy acted here in the Playhouse by Gregory Kelly and Miss Ruth Gordon, is the author of a piece named "Glamour" which is liked by A. H. Woods. And you know the kind of plays liked by A. H. Woods.

Lew Fields, ever trying, is to try again next week in New-York with a piece named "Money-Business." He is, in this, a retired dealer in delicatessen who goes into Wall Street. . . . Persons who are believed to know say that Joe Weber is worth at least a million dollars.

"No Questions Asked" is a good title for a play it might fit. And a play of that title has been written by Mann Page and Alfred Jackson.

One of New-York's countless groups of professional amateurs, the Stagers, is turning to Louis K. Anspacher's "The Unchastened Woman," a fair success back in 1916, after making a good fight to put across "A Man's Man," by Patrick Kearney. The latter piece seems to be one of those occasional plays of exceptional merit which lack an impalpable something essential to popular success.

It is reported from rehearsal that all the players in Eugene O'Neill's "The Great God Brown" will be masked. . . . The actors in some of his plays could profitably have been muzzled.

Marion Gering, who is directing the production of "Gas" in the Goodman Memorial Theater, has made a translation into Russian of "The Beggar on Horseback,"—which, in the beginning, was a German piece. . . . The fun in "Beggar on Horseback" as we saw it was essentially American fun: that is the reason it was not a success in London.

Wolcott Blair and Mrs. Sturgis Are Wed in Simple Ceremony

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ellen Yuille Sturgis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Yuille, was married to Wolcott Blair of Chicago this afternoon in the picturesque chantry of St. Thomas' church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles K. Gilbert in the presence of relatives and a few friends.

Mrs. Sturgis was unattended. Atwood Violett was best man and several well known men served as ushers. They were J. Averell Clark, Carroll Carstairs, Henry E. Coe Jr., Henry C. Taylor of New York, and Ralph Hines, Leander J. McCormick, Charles G. Cushing, Albert B. Dewey, and William Mitchell Blair of Chicago.

A small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 14 East 69th street. Mr. and Mrs. Blair will sail on the Majestic tomorrow for a honeymoon abroad.

This was the second marriage of the bride, who has long been prominent in society. Her first husband was William J. Sturgis of Richmond, Va. She divorced him three years ago.

Mr. Blair is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Watson F. Blair of Chicago and prospective heir to a considerable fortune. He is a polo enthusiast and acted as host to the Prince of Wales when the latter visited Chicago a year ago.

Gibbons Gives Page from War Reporter's Notebook

Here is a story of adventure.

It was broadcast over the radio last week.

Many listeners to station W-G-N wrote to THE TRIBUNE requesting that it be printed. Their requests have raised interesting questions, indicating new possibilities and fields of endeavor in the combination of modern journalism and the radio.

Many of those who heard this adventure by Floyd Gibbons, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE war correspondent, traveler, and explorer, will read it again here in the printed word. THE TRIBUNE desires to combine the interests of its readers in both the radiocast and the printed word.

Is this possible?

Which is the more interesting, the radio story of adventure or the printed one?

Address your opinion to the Editor of THE TRIBUNE.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

So many members of station W-G-N's army of radio listeners have written to THE TRIBUNE requesting the publication of some of the yarns that I have been talking through the microphone for the last two weeks that I have been assigned to write the following one for publication and to present it with the request that THE TRIBUNE readers who heard it over the radio write to the editor of THE TRIBUNE, informing him which presentation they liked the best, the radiocast or the printed story.

Here goes, then, for the second telling of that wild account that carried you through the tortures I suffer in the preparation of yearly expense accounts covering the operations of a foreign correspondent with particular reference to his expenditures and difficulties in war time.

The following incident happened only four months ago, and it was a big story at the time, although it required only ten or twenty minutes of your time to read about that human struggle that took place over there on the Barbary coast—the real and original Barbary coast on the southern shores of the Mediterranean.

One night in the early days of last September I sailed out of the north African harbor of Ceuta, on board a Spanish troop ship and in company with a number of other troopships all packed above decks and below with young Spanish soldiers, fully equipped for battle and trained to the last minute for the strenuous duties before them.

We steamed eastward down the Mediterranean under the escort of the royal Spanish fleet. We knew that we were bound for an action somewhere along the Barbary coast. Our suspicion was that it would take place somewhere near Alhucemas bay, but our exact destination was unknown, even to the commander of the vessel.

Morning found us lying a mile off shore, opposite a small Riffian village of mud huts. Seaplanes, put out from a mother ship, took the air and sailed over the village, dropping bombs on it. Columns of earth and dust spouted in the air and were seen by us on the deck before the sound of the explosion could travel across the water.

The aerial bombardment continued all day and toward evening the big twelve inch guns of the battleships and the eight inch pieces of the battle cruisers began speaking and dropping their projectiles on the village, while the troop ships moved slowly toward the shore. It was a feint landing and attack. As soon as darkness fell we turned and steamed out to sea again.

For three days these feint attacks continued morning and night until the morning of Sept. 8, when the real attack opened against the rocky cliffs of the promontory on the western corner of Alhucemas bay, a point of land called Cape Moro.

The guns of the combined fleets of Spain and France roared all day long as they hurled tons of hot metal against the African cliffs, the recesses of which hid stubborn Riffian riflemen, snipers, and machine gunners. The troops moved shoreward on board small landing scows, called "beetle boats," on account of their appearance. They carried forward uprights which supported a movable ramp over which the Spanish soldiers ran, to leap waist deep into the shallow water and then make their way to the sandy beach.

I saw some of them fall in the water from the fire that came from the cliff sides. Twenty-three war correspondents, of all nationalities, watched the lines of men advancing in single file across the slanting patch of yellow sand leading up from the water. We saw more of them fall. In some places the line advanced. At others it was held up by crossfires from positions that seemed to have escaped the shell and air bombs.

By nightfall the landing had been completed and the royal standard of Spain was flying from the highest rock on Cape Moro. All this you read in greater detail shortly after it happened in September, but the part you did not know was the manner in which that news was placed on your breakfast table in the columns of THE TRIBUNE. It was in wrestling with my expense account for November that I recalled this story, which seems to have aroused your interest.

Aboard the troopship we correspondents were without means of communication. There was a seal on the wireless. We had "covered the story." We had all the news of the battle. We had written our dispatches, but there was no means to transmit them back to the millions of readers that were waiting.

At 2 o'clock the following morning I went over the side of the troopship on which the correspondents were quartered. From the deck of the "beetle boat," lashed to the side of the troopship, I clambered aboard a large motor boat and succeeded in making arrangements with the man in charge of it.

Twenty minutes later the motor boat, with myself and my dispatches on board, was heading straight northward into the open sea. There was a swell on, but the weather held fine. The roll of the boat was far from pleasant and sickness was inevitable, but shortly after daylight we sighted the shores of Spain.

We had crossed the Mediterranean. At 10 o'clock we pulled up alongside the dock at Malaga, Spain, and I jumped ashore, grabbed an ancient cab, and rattled over the cobblestones to the postoffice, where THE TRIBUNE dispatch of some 2,300 words, containing the first eyewitness news of the battle, was placed on the cable for America.

$23,000,000 Spent for Welfare Work in Year, Report Reveals

Two hundred sixty-three charitable organizations in Chicago, indorsed by the subscriptions investigating committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, spent approximately $23,000,000 for welfare work in this city during the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1925, according to a bulletin issued yesterday by the committee.

Home finding agencies, homes for children and for aged people, day nurseries, reform and civic betterment organizations, relief and benevolent organizations, social settlements, and medical charities such as hospitals, dispensaries, and sanitariums were maintained and operated. The list does not include the work of churches or religious institutions.

The largest sum expended by an individual organization was that paid out by the Y. M. C. A., listed at $3,124,553.

Forbearance Is the Prime Ingredient of Happy Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Mrs. J. lives in a community, in which, she says, it seems to be the smart thing among wives to have flirtations. It is a dull day for some of them if its low descending sun sees no results from vamping done. With this alibi for her own flirtatious better half, Mrs. J. confides he is in the thick of an affair with one of the women. She hates to say it, but she honestly believes he has been unfaithful to her. The character of the woman and the husband's rather guilty actions all point that way.

Always a generous husband, he still continues in the same generous way. Of late, he has been even more considerate of her in a number of things. The children have suffered no less in affection and attention from him. But the guilty knowledge has made a difference between her and him. She has not broached the subject to her husband once. A "friend" who attempted to enlighten her on the gossip going round was checked at once.

Divorce is the last thing the wife would consider because she loves the man and she loves her four children. She asks if it is better to ignore the whole thing, or have it out with her husband.

Ignore it, Mrs. J. Don't let him know you know it. You have no intention of divorcing him, so save your face by keeping still. If you started in discussing it, things would be said on both sides that would be hard to forget when the affair has blown over. It will blow. They always do—with the kind of man your husband is.

It does take awfully good stuff in a woman to see a thing like this through without letting it leave a scar. But you've got it in you Mrs. J., as shown by your checking the kind friend who came bearing news of the philanderings of a weak and foolish mate. I claim a woman is made of the stuff that heroes are made of who can face a situation like this and for the love of her man and children remain silent. More power to you and your kind of wife and mother, Mrs. J!

The less said about it, the easier it will be for him to come back and be taken back. You want him back not only for your own sake, but for the sake of the children and the education and advantage his money provides for them. And men come back from their philanderings much more happily for all concerned if they are not forced to come in a state of humility.

We're not condoning the erring one, at all. But so long as humanity is as weak as it is, man will have his erring moments. Women, too! So you might just as well face this temporary disillusion as philosophically as possible. No matter what our vocation in life, we are reminded every now and then that obstacles are placed in our way to prove our mettle.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Passed Them Up.

"Dear Miss Blake: A girl friend told me the boy I have been going with said he didn't act with me as he did with other girls he had gone with. Should I keep his respect or act like other girls? UNCERTAIN."

He passed the other girls up because they didn't demand the respect you have—which proves your way is the right way, dear.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Fried Corn Meal Mush.

Any well cooked mush can be put into a mold when hot, sliced when cold, and fried, but it is a good plan to make it a little firmer by adding a little wheat flour, or by cooking it long. For instance, if you want to make a small loaf of mush for frying for four people, put one or two tablespoons of flour into a measuring cup and then add cornmeal to make a half cup in all.

Put this into a double boiler with two cups of cold water and a scant teaspoon of salt and cook it for an hour without stirring, or, if you want a compact mush, which will jelly when cold, cook it four hours. There is no need of stirring it at the start, and no need at the end unless it seems watery around the edges, partly because the steam condensing on the cover has fallen back into it. Rinse out a small square tin with cold water—the bread pans of playhouse size and used in cooking schools are of good size—put in the mush, and let it set some hours or over night.

When ready to fry the mush turn it out, cut in slices, and fry gently until both sides of the slices are brown in a little bacon fat. Some bacon can be served with it, or it is often served with maple sirup in place of pancakes. In frying it the fire must not be too hot, for then a crust will form that is both too brown and one that will peel off. A light brown and crisp crust has a delicious flavor which seasons all the slice and makes it something different from freshly cooked mush.

Every precaution must be taken to have the slices nice in every way if a family is to learn to like this form of corn. Sometimes in trying to turn a mold of it out of a tin it is quite necessary to run a knife around the edges of the loaf around the top, but not down to the bottom of the mold in which it has set so evenly. This is because a skin may form over the top as it cools, which will hold it in, and if it is shaken out violently to break this the mold will be broken and nice slices cannot be made.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK, by Jane Eddington, with menus for thirty meals and with chapters making a brief guide to correct eating, is on sale for 10 cents by mail or at the Public Service Bureau, 11 South Dearborn street.

Mrs. F. C. Letts Buys House in Washington for Winter Seasons

BY NANCY R——.

Just at this time o' year there are so many interesting tidbits of news rustling about in the chilly air that a chronicler of the doings of society scarcely knows where to begin. From Palm Beach, from the west, from the east, and from right round the corner come jottings of the activities of fashionable folk.

Mrs. F. C. Letts' Chicago friends will be interested—and disappointed, I'm sure—to learn that she has bought a house in Washington, where she and her mother will pass their winters. A handsome, gay, rich widow, Mrs. Letts is much sought after at the capital, both by her fellow countrymen and by the members of the Washington diplomatic set. We shall miss her here in the town season, as she's an addition to any gathering—but there are always compensations to every loss: she a hospitable hostess, and Chicago friends journeying to Washington will find a warm welcome in the new domicile.

The junior A. B. Dicks are soon leaving their cozy abode on Green Bay road, Lake Forest, to join the senior Dicks on the twenty-third of the month for a fortnight's cruise on that smart little craft, Yacht Chieftain. Not so little, either, as it can sleep twelve persons besides the crew and stewards, who number ten. The Dicks plan to meet in Palm Beach, whither the skipper is taking the boat by slow stages from Miami, through those lovely inland waters that make yachting along the coast of Florida such a delight.

As to the news in our own part of the world, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patterson and their daughter, Miss Elinor Patterson, have sent out cards for a supper dance to be given in the new Palmer house for the Duchess of Rutland, Lady Diana Manners, Miss Iris Tree, and Morris Gest, after the opening performance of the "The Miracle," on the second of February.

Day's News in Society

Tonight comes the Second assembly, and with it the death knell of the winter social season. Society usually remains in Chicago for the assembly, with its select list and its dignified formality, but flits immediately afterward south, north, east, and west for recreation and further gayety. Several large dinner parties are to take place before the ball. The J. Lawrence Houghtelings and the Arthur Farwells are to have one of the largest affairs at the Palmer house, and others are to be given by Mrs. Ralph James at the Drake, one by the John Lewis Cochrans and the Cyrus Hills jointly, and another by the Hale Holdens.

The governors' wives who did not receive at the First assembly were invited to officiate at this. They are Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Howard S. Gillette, Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mrs. George F. Porter, and Mrs. Lester Armour. Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Clive Runnells, and Mrs. Donald Ryerson declined their invitations to receive.

The Junior club, an organization of students of the Chicago Latin School for Boys, announces a black and white party this evening at 9 o'clock at the Surf hotel. The invitations admonish the guests "kindly to adhere to black and white costumes."

The gala opening of "Gas," a post-expressionist play by George Kaiser, is to take place on Jan. 27 at the Goodman theater of the Art institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy are among the founder members of the Bath and Tennis club at Palm Beach, which was organized recently at a meeting in New York City. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. is president and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury is honorary president.

Mrs. Joseph B. Long, who was to depart in a few days for a stay at the Everglades club in Palm Beach, has postponed her journey in order to be present at the Russian ball at the 122d field artillery armory on Jan. 23. She is to have a group of guests at the affair, and will depart on the following day.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Porter have returned from Florida, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock in Palm Beach and Frederic Bartlett at Fort Lauderdale.

Among the Chicagoans who have arrived at Palm Beach for the opening of the season are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Klotz and their daughter, Miss Dorothy Klotz, who is one of Palm Beach's, as well as one of Chicago's, ranking woman golfers. She is wearing attractive sports costumes of sapphire, lacquer red, and vivid blues, and is devoting some of her time to tennis.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock have had Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott of Evanston as their guests at their Palm Beach residence.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell of Lake Forest have returned from a brief sojourn in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius P. Ordway Jr. of Lake Forest have just returned from St. Paul, Minn., where they have been visiting Mr. Ordway's parents. The Ordways are to depart soon for Europe. Mrs. Ordway denies the current rumor that they are to visit the Prince of Wales, saying they plan to go only to France and Italy.

Dinner for Composer.

The Cordon will give a dinner at 6:30 o'clock this evening for Gabriel Grovelez, French composer and conductor of the Paris opera. Jacques Gordon and Mr. Grovelez are to play a sonata composed by Mr. Grovelez, who is now with the Chicago Civic Opera.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman had as guests at dinner and at the opera tonight her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Aimar Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Hilles, McDougall Hawkes and Prince Alexis Obolensky.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leffingwell Smith had W. K. Vanderbilt, and Mr. and Mrs. William John Warburton at dinner tonight at Sherry's.

Mrs. Frederick Cameron Church, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last Saturday at 666 5th avenue, the home of her mother, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II., was much improved today.

MISS JANE STORY.
[Koehne Photo.]

Mr and Mrs. Frank Fuller Story of 225 Long Common road, Riverside, announce the engagment of their daughter, Jane, to Perkins Bull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Follett W. Bull of Oak Park. Miss Story was graduated from "The House in the Pines" at Norton, Mass., in 1924 and spent the last year at Miss Risser's school in Rome. She made her debut last fall, and is one of the first of the season's buds to become engaged. Mr. Bull is a University of Michigan graduate of the class of 1923.

First Performance of 'Louise' Brings Out Many Box Parties

"Louise," given for the first time this season, brought out a brilliant audience, and many of the regular Thursday night hosts had to provide extra seats to accommodate large box parties. The Walter S. Brewsters had eight in their party, including Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schuneman of St. Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henry Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Spaulding were entertaining Miss Gertrude McCarthy, Miss Lucile Kerrigan, Dr. Lee Kerrigan, and Dr. John Lasier. In the Charles H. Morse box were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Reilley.

Mrs. Arthur Hensel, Mrs. Frederick B. MacLean, Harry Burdick, Miss Olga Menn, Paul Menn and D. Bushrod Williams were together.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick was in her box for the third time this season, and had with her Mrs. John Winterbotham, Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Badger, and Edwin Krenn.

Mrs. Hubert Burnham's guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Kellogg, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore. In the Waller Borden box were Dr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Ryerson, Mrs. Mark Skinner Willing, Mrs. Robert H. McCormick, Dr. George Paul Marquis, and Morris L. Johnston.

With Mrs. Robert Cluett were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fall, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Scott. With the John W. Scotts were Mr. and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Pierce.

Mrs. Potter Palmer was entertaining Col. and Mrs. James and Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Howard. In the Charles H. Schweppe box were Mrs. S. O. Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. De Golyer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cleveland, and Roscoe Unland.

Just Try an Ounce of Prevention for Cold Weather Ills

by Antoinette Donnelly

Suffering any of the cold weather nuisances? Red hands? Chapped lips? Goose flesh? Chilblains? Cold sores? And no money to carry you off to Florida to escape 'em?

For the latter we have only sympathy to offer—but real! We'd like to meet you down there providing you didn't try to sell us any real estate.

But if your lips are causing you trouble—that is, troubles belonging to this department, not Doris Blake's—we might be able to make a suggestion or two. If they're sensitive anoint them with a good cold cream or camphor ice before going outdoors. Don't moisten or bite them. If they are broken out in a cold sore, be sure it is a cold sore and not what these things more often are—the result of a digestive disturbance. If one has acidity of the mouth, usual to the digestive cold sore, correct with an alkaline mouth wash, and treat the cold sore with camphor ice or carbolized zinc ointment.

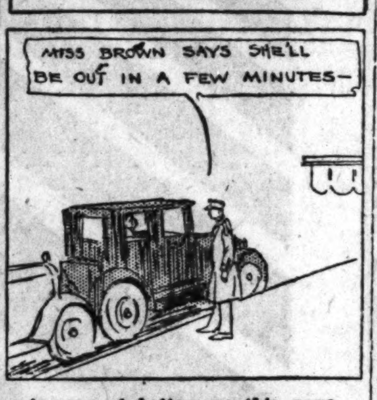
If the hands are highly colored, equal parts of spirits of camphor and glycerin applied several times a day will shortly reduce the too blatant tone and at the same time soften the texture and render them unsusceptible to chapping. If you suffer, as some persons do, from the most painful cracks and fissures in the skin of the hand, we suggest a skin specialist be consulted so that the trouble may not only be remedied now but so that it will be permanently relieved.

Chilblains are prevented by keeping the feet dry and warm. If the footwear has become soaked, rub them briskly with a coarse towel before changing into dry things and then an alcohol rub to restore circulation. Women who go outdoors with hands not thoroughly dry are sometimes afflicted with the same form of chilblains that affect the feet.

After the cleansing process, it is wise for every one to protect the skin of both face and hands against cold weather unpleasantness by greasing with a cream or with glycerin and rose water. Thin skin dries out in cold weather unless precautions are taken.

"Goose flesh" is a sign of sluggish circulation. In winter time we are all too inclined to remain indoors, eat heavier meals and ride instead of walk when we do venture forth. Real outdoor folk are never troubled with the kind of skin known as goose flesh, nor are people who have the cold water shower habit. On the upper arms where this trouble is most obvious you can try the experiment of running cold water over the affected part, follow with a vigorous rubbing, and see the improvement almost immediately.

WHAT'S WRONG HERE?



MISS BROWN SAYS SHE'LL BE OUT IN A FEW MINUTES—

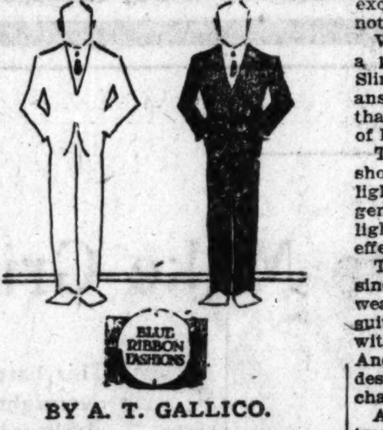
Answer at bottom of this page.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

H. H. H.: DECOMPOSED MATERIAL often collects at the root of the tongue and unless means are used to eliminate it by careful cleaning with a tooth brush foul breath will result. In doing so be careful not to touch the roof of the mouth with the brush. In this way you avoid gagging.

ZITA B.: AN OFFENSIVE BREATH may be caused by catarrhal condition of the nose and throat, the condition of the mouth and teeth may be responsible for it, or there may be a wrong condition of the stomach. It is necessary to find out the cause and eliminate it.

MEN'S FASHIONS



BY A. T. GALLICO.

Lines and Colors.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—You will notice, if you look closely at the two men accompanying today's article, that one looks considerably slimmer than the other. The dark complexioned gent is the sylph, while the young man represented chiefly by white space looks a bit pudgy.

The lesson illustrated by this gentle optical illusion is that if one is short and stocky, one should avoid wearing excessively light clothing if one does not wish to look even stockier.

White or light clothes always make a person look bigger, but not taller. Slim lines are given by black. The answer is simple enough in the fact that a light surface reflects every bit of light, while black absorbs some of it.

This does not mean that if you are short and stocky you must forswear all light clothing. It is only when the general ensemble is in white or some light shade that you get that squat effect.

The fat man has discovered long since that he gains the best lines by wearing dark and absolutely plain suits. He steers clear of the white vest with dinner coat for the same reason. And he doesn't wear large checks or designs that would give the eye a chance to measure his girth.

A short, stocky man can wear white trousers and a blue coat as well as the next person. It is only when he turns to, let us say, a light palm beach suit that he is not doing himself justice.

PILL-SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

A remarkable, convincing tribute is paid Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C. Aminsen of Seattle:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deathly sick of taking pills every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take." F. C. AMINSEN, Kennyhole, Seattle, Washington.

You can get permanent relief from constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN if eaten regularly. Two tablespoonfuls daily—or in chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend it because it is ALL BRAN. It does a job only ALL-BRAN can do. Part-bran product may not do any good at all.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream. Use it in cooking. Try the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Served by the leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by grocers.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Make your treatment continuous

An infected throat

may lead to much more serious troubles. Germs are at work sending their poisons throughout your system. The only way to clear them out is by antiseptic treatment that is kept up continuously as long as the condition lasts.

Sprays and gargles fail because their effect is only momentary, and they can ordinarily be used only night and morning.

To treat sore throat take a tablet every hour or so. To prevent infection, take one about every two hours when exposed to disease, dust or cold. All druggists.

GERM-KILLING THROAT TABLETS

Southern Wear Partial to Plaids and Checks

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Nothing goes against the grosgrain this present season. Both millinery and frocks show toward this trimming an absolute sympathy of spirit, and never seem to tire of their old companion.

Take, for example, the touches of black grosgrain which relieve the pink and white check of today's two-piece model of washable crêpe. Thanks, perhaps, to the fact that they are introduced in an original manner, these bits of black ribbon look like an absolutely fresh inspiration. One band is tied jauntily through smart little upstanding collar to float in streamers, and the other suggests the narrow belt which is so often assumed by the newest jumpers. In this second locality its course is interrupted by two pocket-like patches, each centered with a black button.

This sports model, designed for southern wear, has more important communications to make than those concerning grosgrain. It illustrates once more the popularity of plaids and checks in the creation of southern wardrobes. The design occurs in all manner of ways, but its most notable representation is in the new taffeta combinations which pit a skirt of plaided taffeta with a top of plain material.

"I have a baby carriage that I would be pleased to give. I also have a high chair and some wool first clothes for whoever needs them. J. W. C."

Here is an offer some mother will appreciate. We shall be glad to forward the address of J. W. C.

Asks for Tricycle.

"I am writing to ask if I could get my little girl a tricycle some other child has outgrown. She will be five next Monday and is not big for her age. She was paralyzed at birth and did not begin to walk until she was three years and seven months old. A tricycle would help strengthen her limbs. M. G. W."

If some child who has outgrown his or her tricycle will pass it on to this little girl it will be much appreciated. I shall be glad to give the address of M. G. W.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Just a few days before the new baby's expected arrival Bobby's mother told him he might have a little brother or sister to play with.

"Won't it be fine to have some one to play with your toys and to share your treats?" she asked, hoping to win him to the idea.

He agreed heartily, but when a nurse told him of twin brothers having come he looked distressed and said: "Whew, it will take a lot of dividing now, won't it?" D. F.

2 INJURED AS FIRE TRUCK HITS PACKED TROLLEY

Motorist Is Found Guilty of Manslaughter.

Speeding to answer a fire alarm, a hook and ladder truck collided with a crowded street car at 91st street and Exchange avenue yesterday afternoon. A woman and a fireman were injured.

Only one due to automobile accidents was reported to the coroner in the last two days. The motor death toll for the year is now 32.

The truck, carrying fire company No. 17, was answering an alarm from the South Chicago police station when the collision with the street car occurred. Twenty persons were shaken up and Mrs. Delia Lavin, 46 years old, 8330 Constance avenue, and Fireman John Hoare, 28 years old, 10414 Avenue M, were hurt.

Fatally Injured in Street.

Michael Gavin, 58 years old, 1934 George street, was struck by an automobile in front of 6600 West Grand avenue and fatally injured. He was taken to the Keystone hospital, where he died early this morning. The driver of the automobile was Benjamin Kipowski, 3006 North Harlem avenue, Elmwood Park.

Cook county courts were severe upon motorists yesterday. It took a jury only twenty minutes to decide that Joseph Weibel, 29 years old, 5739 South Green street, was guilty of manslaughter for driving an automobile which struck and killed Edmund Ryan at 74th and Halsted streets. The verdict carries a sentence of from one year to life in the penitentiary.

At the same time, a jury in Judge Jacob Hopkins' court awarded Samuel Kiemel, 16 years old, 1418 South Ashland avenue, $20,000 damages against the Chicago Motor Coach company. The boy was injured in July, 1924.

Edwin E. Udell, 22 years old, son of Bertram B. Udell, Wilmette publisher, was fined $10 and costs in an Evanston court on a charge of speeding.

Drives Into Car Passengers.

Five persons were hurt, three of them seriously, early this morning when Joseph Franzen, 7031 South Park avenue, drove on the wrong side of a street car after colliding with another automobile at 47th street and Cottage Grove avenue, and ran into a crowd of passengers alighting from the car. Franzen had struck the automobile of Police Sergeant Albert Hansen, 750 East 46th street. Turning directly in front of the street car, he went between it and the curb.

The seriously injured were Martin Hennessey, 55 years old, a Boer war veteran, 4421 South Union avenue, a motorman; Felix Nidzliski, 5469 South Dorchester avenue, and Miss Mamie Maces, 4535 South Honoré street. They were taken to the Chicago hospital, where it was said Hennessey's injuries probably would be fatal.

Franzen and four others in the car, including two women, were taken into custody. The women are Mrs. Peggy Miner and Mrs. Helen Ragland, both of 4323 Ellis avenue.

GIRLS FAIL TO PASS SCHOOL TESTS, SO THEY LEAVE HOMES

Despondent because they had failed to pass their examinations two girl students at the Lowell Preparatory school left their homes yesterday. The Austin police are searching for them.

They are Annie Jensen, 13 years old, 1500 North Kedzie avenue, and Grace Bailey, 14 years old, 3230 Pierce street. Annie left a note to her parents, stating that they were unable to stand the disgrace of failure in their studies.

Mother of Lake Forest Woman Dies at Phone

Mrs. Mary L. Chamberlain Clarke, 50 years old, mother of Mrs. John F. Jelke Jr. of Lake Forest, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday at her home, 277 Park avenue, New York. Mrs. Clarke was at a telephone. A switchboard operator, noticing that the connection remained open, sent the superintendent of the apartment building to see what was wrong. He found Mrs. Clarke dead.

'NEW MESSIAH'S PROPHET' TO HAVE FLING IN PARIS

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The Montmartre, where bright lights have a reason for being bright, is looking forward to entertaining the "prophet" of a "coming Messiah."

J. KRISHNAMURTI
[P. & A. Photo.]

The French Theosophical society announced today that J. Krishnamurti, the young Hindu proclaimed as a prophet by Mrs. Annie Besant, 78 year old leader, in a recent Theosophical ceremonial near Madras, India, is expected soon to revisit Paris, which he left last October.

He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

When he visited here before the handsome young Oxfordian, dressed like the Prince of Wales, frequented the Montmartre cafés like any other jolly good fellow, and those who knew him then do not believe he will "high hat" them on his return.

J. Krishnamurti is a pleasant young man, his friends say, and when a student at the Sorbonne and Oxford took much delight in visiting the Parisian theaters—with some exceptions, it is explained—and other manifestations of the capital's life that are brightest at night. Though he does not dance, he entered into the spirit of things without becoming rowdy and on the other hand without excusing his activities as the painful but necessary education of a young man destined to pave the way for the coming Messiah.

Just "an Advanced Soul."

The French Theosophists point out that he does not pretend to be a divinity in any sense of the word, but just "an advanced soul," and that there is no reason why an advanced soul should not kick up his heels now and then.

Dr. Charles H. Bixby, 86, Former Rector Here, Dies

News of the death of the Rev. Charles H. Bixby at Coronado, Cal., on Wednesday was received yesterday in Chicago, where he was for twenty years rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The Rev. Recitals Fill Elmer's Ears with Music

And It Is Good, Too, He Says; Announcer Praised

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

"My notebook is not loaded"—as Floyd Gibbons expressed it in his talk from W-G-N last night, and as he probably might express it again were he writing this review. At that, there are some pages that are filled.

The joint recital by John Griffin, tenor, and Beulah Laden, violinist, WEBH, 7 to 8, furnishes excellent material for an opening paragraph.

Mr. Griffin's voice is familiar to the radio audience; it is also one of the best we have. It is exceedingly pleasing. The enunciation was perfect, and I was going to say that the tones were as clear as a violin, and I believe I will, for Miss Laden's excellently handled violin furnished the necessary comparison. The program was made further effective by excellent announcing.

Undoubtedly there was a great deal of interest in the recital by Tito Ruffo, the operatic tenor, and the concert and operatic soprano, Frances Alda, through KYW from WJZ, New York, 8 to 9. But it was the fame of the artists that furnished the appeal, rather than the incoming tones, due to this being a rebroadcast from KDKA. However, I believe this was the first appearance of Mr. Ruffo before the microphone. His is the large calibered voice, round and rich, that one would expect, and carrying with it much of the atmosphere of the opera.

Mme. Alda's was the same grand voice, the same commanding voice, the same pleasing voice that we heard by direct wire from New York about one year ago during the Victor concerts.

Floyd Gibbons' address, W-G-N, 10:35, on "How It Feels to Be Wounded," continuing his fine series of talks, was a thrilling personal drama without parallel over the air. This was an account of experiences in France in 1918. One of the remarkable features of this talk was that with all its realism, the lurid dangers of war, the extreme danger of the situation which he thrust himself into to get his story, with death on all sides, Mr. Gibbons did not so much as hint that he had any personal fear.

Nor have we ever had an opportunity to hear a personal, psychological analysis such as was here carried out in a marvelous way.

Nor do I know of any situation which could be more intensely dramatic than Mr. Gobbons' story of his close approach to the German lines at Belleau wood in 1918, where he was wounded three times in close succession.

Mr. Gibbons explained that when the bullets hit him "it didn't hurt any more than had some one dropped a lighted cigaret on his hand."

CHICAGOAN IS AGAIN WINNER OF W-G-N PRIZE

Irene Glycart, 6709 Cregier avenue, Chicago, wins today's award of $25 for correctly naming the three "old time favorites" played last Friday evening from W-G-N, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station on the Drake hotel. "Turkey in the Straw," "Maryland, My Maryland," and "Ben Bolt" were the three songs played.

Three old time songs are played each evening from W-G-N. Listeners are asked to name them and to tell in a single sentence which song they liked best and why. Miss Glycart is requested to call or write to "Old Time Favorites," CHICAGO TRIBUNE, for her award. The name of last Saturday's winner, together with the correct titles of the songs played last Saturday evening, will be printed in tomorrow's issue of THE TRIBUNE.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY (Central Standard Time Throughout.)

Uncle Walt announces that he will begin reading the eight pages of comics from The Chicago Sunday Tribune to the children at 10:45 a. m. next Sunday, instead of at 11 o'clock as in the past. Uncle Walt is doing this in order that he will be able to read all of the Tribune comics.

A PROGRAM of varied appeal and interest marks this evening's activities from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Headlining the program will be another concert by The Tribune Philharmonic orchestra, directed by Henry Selinger. The concert starts at 8 o'clock. The soloists will be Olive June Lacey, soprano, and Kathleen Ryan, contralto.

The quaint and humorous gallivantings of "Sam 'n' Henry," W-G-N's new radio "comic strip," start the ten o'clock hour. This evening finds the two forlorn and laughable colored boys from Birmingham still in the heart of the great city.

Floyd Gibbons, THE TRIBUNE'S famous war correspondent, is deep into his series of "Adventures of a Foreign Correspondent." He is scheduled to talk this evening at 10:15.

PREPARED FOR THE PRESCRIPTION OF THE DENTAL PROFESSION

He doesn't want to hurt you

THE PEOPLE who are afraid of the dentist are the people who do not consult him until they have toothache. Your dentist is more interested in protecting your teeth than he is in repairing them. Go to him regularly for examination and you will escape a lot of pain and trouble.

4 out of 5 is grim pyorrhea's count

DENTAL STATISTICS tell this grim story: four people out of every five are destined, through neglect, to contract pyorrhea after they pass the age of forty. Thousands younger also suffer.

If you have pyorrhea or any of its symptoms see your dentist at once and start brushing your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums.

To safeguard yourself against pyorrhea make Forhan's your regular dentifrice. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., and contains his pyorrhea liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea.

If used regularly and used in time it will prevent pyorrhea or check its course. Don't give this insidious disease a chance to start. Start using Forhan's this very day. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

Why a Woman's Age Shows in Her Hands

A noted beauty specialist recently said that she could invariably judge a woman's age by her hands. Worry and hard work often shows in the hands when it does not show in the face, and as a rule women give more attention to their face than to their hands. The hands, however, should not be neglected because pretty, soft, white hands are really the true marks of refinement, and they should be cared for. Any woman can have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands, regardless of the work she has to do, if she will simply spend a minute or two just before retiring, rubbing a little plain Ice-mint on them. In the morning she will be greatly surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does, she should have pretty hands. As the hands, if neglected are bound to show the hard work and worry of our lives. A few applications of Ice-mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

SCHALK SIGNS TO COACH BADGER NINE

PHANTOM FINN OF ICE BREAKS 2 MILE RECORD

Then Falls Back to Third in Race.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

CLAS THUNBERG.

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Clas Thunberg of Finland slid around Tex Rickard's gravy colored ice to a new world's record for two miles tonight, then fell to the rear and finished a despondent third in a three mile international race against Joe Moore of Hell's Kitchen, New York, and Charlie Gorman, the Canadian.

Thunberg, who learned to shuffle his blades on the frozen bosom of the open water back in Finland, may have had speed enough in the lumpy calves of his legs to beat the best in the world on a half mile track, but he was unversed in the slick city ways of the little ash tray rinks on which young Moore, an athletic accident from the murky back yard of Broadway, is thoroughly at home.

Thunberg Coasts In.

Moore won the race after Thunberg had led for thirty-six out of forty-two laps, and Gorman slid under the string second, almost a quarter of a lap behind. Thunberg, the man who won more points for Finland than even [illegible] Nurmi was able to contribute in the last Olympic meet, simply gave up the chase six laps, or slightly less than half a mile, from the end, and loafed to the finish, taking no further interest in the party. But before he quit he had clipped 3 1-5 seconds from the two mile record of 6:17 that Charlie Fisher established a decade ago on an indoor rink in Pittsburgh.

Thunberg, dressed in overall tights of the same pale blue that flashed home in front so many evenings when Nurmi was drumming over the board tracks, made his world's record without letting himself go. From the margin of the rink, while the Metropolitan championships were being decided, he had seen half a dozen reckless youngsters misjudge the turns and go shooting across the ice in unconventional postures to bring up with stunning impact against the concrete walls.

Speed Almost Suicide.

He realized that if he let himself out on the miserable ten yard straightaway he would be unable to check himself at the turns and might hit the wall head on, as one of the junior competitors actually did in a Metropolitan heat a few minutes later.

So Thunberg, the distance racer, was held down to a fancy skating stride, and he went most of the three miles with unnatural, quick bitten strokes of an exhibition skater.

Moore was a minor champion before he ever learned that ice is often grown out-of-doors. He issued from the same evil section over behind Broadway where Joe Lynch, the former bantamweight champion, and Johnny Dundee learned to fight with their knuckles and where Battling Siki was found dead in the gutter a few nights ago, with bullets under his shoulder blades. He learned to skate on the table top floors of the so-called ice palaces along Broadway, and the circular track is as familiar to him as it is grotesque to Clas Thunberg.

Thunberg Sets Pace.

Gorman is an out door skater by training, but he, too, has had long experience indoors and to that extent had the better of Thunberg.

Moore and Gorman let Thunberg pace them almost to the end, and he set them a hasty gait at that, although he seemed to be in no rush, so easily he goes. Moore became the least bit anxious after the morning glory horns of the announcer's amplifier had bawled the news of the Finn's world record, and he came up to challenge Thunberg on the thirtieth lap. There was a brief brush between them and Thunberg almost fell on his face, but came back in his stride and resumed the lead. But up to this time and, in fact, until Moore slid out in front on the thirty-sixth lap, you could have covered the three of them with a yardstick, so well were they bunched.

MINOR LEAGUERS CLOSE MEETING; VISIT CUB PARK

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Inspection of the Chicago Cubs refurbished ball park, closed the convention of the National Association of Professional [minor] Baseball Leagues here today.

The moguls voted to accept certain propositions advanced by the major leagues reducing the option price on major leaguers farmed to various minor loops. The new price will be a minimum of $300 for class AA and A minors and a $100 minimum for smaller leagues.

Things You May Not Know About Sport Celebrities

By Irving Vaughan

Chance made A. A. Stagg a football coach instead of a minister. He was best known as a baseball pitcher, although he was chosen on Walter Camp's first All-American eleven.

WHEN A. A. Stagg cast his lot with the University of Chicago he probably thought he'd have a permanent position. Well, it may yet turn out to be such. He's been at it for only 34 years.

If way back in the eighties the present "Old Man" of the Midway hadn't felt that he had a mission to perform in life, the name of A. A. Stagg might have been written boldly in professional baseball history. The majors of those days besieged him with offers, but the lad who had climbed to fame as a pitcher on the Yale varsity nine spurned them.

Stagg's earliest thought was to take up the ministry. To that end he prepped at Phillips-Exeter. Then six years at Yale, the last year as a divinity student. But the fear that he never would be able to preach a sermon altered his course. So he went to the Springfield (Mass.) Y. M. C. A. college with the idea of becoming a "Y" physical director. Again the unforseen intervened. Came an offer to take charge of athletics at a new school to be known as the University of Chicago. Stagg accepted. That was in 1892. He's still there, both in person and as a coach.

Stagg played football at Yale in 1884, his first year. In 1885 he turned his attention to baseball and for four years was the star hurler of Old Eli. Then the love for football returned and in 1889 (he then was in the divinity school) Stagg rejoined the grid squad and became "end rush." That fall he was selected on the first All-American team ever named by the late Walter Camp.

His first grid season at Chicago started inauspiciously. There were barely enough candidates to make up an eleven and he drew up a schedule only by scurrying around for games at the last moment. There were even times when no subs were available, so Stagg himself played half back. He also officiated occasionally. They weren't so particular about simon pure amateurs in those days.

INDOOR VAULTING RECORD BROKEN

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Sabin W. Carr of Dubuque, Ia., Yale university sophomore, bettered the world's indoor pole vault record here today in the Yale-Willisbrock trials with a mark of 13 feet 1 inch. The record, 13 feet, is held by H. R. Sherrill of the University of Pennsylvania.

RICKARD PLACES MANDELL AT TOP OF LIGHTWEIGHTS

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Two distinct surprises appear in Tex Rickard's ranking of the world's boxers, released tonight by The Ring, a boxing publication. In the lists, composed of the first fifteen boxers in each division and based, as Rickard explains, not upon their reputations in the past but on actual work performed in the ring during 1925. Rickard fails to place two recognized world champions at the head of their respective classes. These are Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, the accepted world's lightweight champion, and Phil Rosenberg of New York, the bantamweight king.

Mandell On Top.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

While not disputing the title claims of either, Rickard rates Kansas as third among the lightweights on their records for the last year, while Rosenberg is placed only fourth among the bantams. Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., in Rickard's opinion, was the foremost lightweight for 1925, while Sid Terris of New York is rated second. Among the bantams, Chick Suggs, colored boxer of New York, wins the No. 1 ranking, with Bushy Graham of Utica second and Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, third above Rosenberg, the champion.

Dempsey Rated First.

Deviating slightly from his plan of ranking the fighters only on work done in 1925, Rickard places Jack Dempsey on top in the heavyweight division, despite the fact that Dempsey failed to defend his title during the year.

Harry Wills gains the runner-up berth to Dempsey as the outstanding challenger the champion will have to face in 1926, while Gene Tunney is ranked third. Dave Shade is ranked No. 2 in the middleweight division to Harry Greb, the champion. Tiger Flowers is placed No. 3. Paul Berlenbach is on top among the light heavyweights and Jack Delaney second.

Champions rated in all divisions are:

WELTERWEIGHTS—Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J.; Tommy Milligan of Scotland, Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh, Joe Dundee of Baltimore, George Ward of Elizabeth, N. J.

LIGHTWEIGHTS—Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill.; Sid Terris of New York, Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, Solly Seeman of New York.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BASKETBALL RULING.

AN unusual play occurred in the Michigan-Northwestern basketball game—one which, so far as we can ascertain, never has been duplicated. Likewise, we find a difference of opinion among officials regarding the proper ruling.

Christman of Northwestern, standing below and slightly behind the Michigan basket, at the out-of-bounds line, passed the ball. Closely guarded, he evidently did not realize he was so close to the basket, for the ball hit the netting below the ring. Its impetus thus arrested, the ball looped upward in its entanglement and entered the Michigan basket from the top.

The referee ruled, "No basket." In the crowd, we could not reach him after the game to determine the basis of his ruling. To many it looked as if the ball had hit the netting, gone up through the ring from below, and then dropped back again. That point is covered by the rules. It is not a basket. When we asked Christman what had occurred, he outlined the play as described above.

Baskets sometimes unintentionally are made for the opposing team in mêlées under the basket, when players are batting the ball up in struggle for its possession, and the basket is allowed. The present case is complicated by the net interference. Majority local opinion thinks it should count as a basket for Michigan.

The Wake has written Oswald Tower, official interpreter of the rules, for an opinion.

FOUR CAGE TILTS ON BIG TEN CARD TOMORROW NIGHT

Purple Meets Purdue; Illini Face Ohio.

Two of the three undefeated Big Ten cage teams will go into action to maintain their records tomorrow night when Illinois meets Ohio State at Columbus and Wisconsin meets Chicago in the Badger camp. Two other tilts, between Indiana and the Hawkeyes at Iowa City, and Northwestern and the Boilermakers at Purdue, are carded for the evening.

Michigan, which has maintained its rating as one of the strongest fives in the pennant race, and Minnesota, which has displayed itself as about the weakest of the entries, will be idle.

Indiana Should Win.

Indiana, which lost to Wisconsin last Monday, after having manhandled the Gophers the preceding Saturday, will meet a test in the Iowans, and the result will disclose whether the Badger beating was an indication of the Hoosiers' true worth or was an upset. Unless the Hawks have improved considerably over the form they showed in winning from Chicago and in losing to Michigan, Indiana should be able to make a fresh start toward the conference title.

Wisconsin has been something of an enigma during the early days of the season. Coach Meanwell has a green team, but one which has plenty of talent in caging its shots. These shooters, including Andrews, Hotchkiss, Behr, Merkel and Powers, make accurate efforts from long range. There is a possibility that when the Badgers leave their home floor, their shooting will be less successful, and unless they develop a stronger defensive game, wins will be less frequent.

Maroons Face Badgers.

Chicago, playing as well on defense as it did against Iowa, should test the offensive play of the Badgers considerably, and may hold the score down.

Though rated high in the pre-season dope, Illinois failed to live up to expectations in winning from Minnesota Monday. It showed some defensive strength, holding the Gophers to 8 points, but the game as a whole was a sorry display of basketball.

In the remaining tilt on Saturday night, that between Purdue and the Purple, there should be a hard tussle, with neither team holding big advantage. Northwestern showed strength in holding Michigan to a slight win, with Baker, White, and Christman showing an eye for the basket. Purdue is well drilled on defense, and Spradling, Neuman, and Cramer are unusually adept in advancing the ball and getting it through the loop.

East Renews Fight to Hold Service Game

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Though Chicago still appears to be the favorite as a location for the next Army-Navy football game, due largely to the aggressive fight Congressman Fred Britten has been waging, it was made clear by Rear Admiral Louis Mc. Nulton, superintendent of the academy, that the claims of other places, notably Baltimore and Philadelphia, are being considered.

Admiral Nulton also denied reports that the matter would be settled by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and that he had been directed to forward an official report of the matter. The decision will be made by the superintendent of the naval academy, according to the terms of the agreement with the military academy.

Both the site of the proposed municipal stadium and Franklin field in Philadelphia have been recently inspected by officials of the academy, and Admiral Nulton has agreed to hear a delegation of Baltimoreans on the question. Baltimore's offer to obtain seating capacity for 112,000 looks attractive. This would be the greatest ever provided for an athletic attraction in this country.

Opal A. A. Enters Strong Team in Silver Skates Derbies

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

ED JACOBSON.

The Opal A. A., which has been a factor in local amateur athletics for many years, will be represented by a strong team in THE TRIBUNE'S tenth annual Silver Skates Derbies to be held in Garfield park Jan. 23 and 24, according to the list of nominations sent in yesterday by President Robert J. Little.

Among the club's stars is Edward Jacobson, who has won six straight races this year. Jacobson will race in the intermediate Derby. Cornie Ewert, Alfon James, and William Minster are among the best in the senior race. James Marti is expected to win the juvenile event, while Anna Simmons should place in the girls' senior event and Alice James in the junior race for girls.

Other Club Teams Strong.

The Northwest Skating club has nominated a full team and numbers among its stars Lois Littlejohn, Judith Olson, and Laura Bishop, who are among the best in the girls' senior race. The team entry was made by Secretary R. Notz.

Gregory Flatow and James (Red) Anderson, widely known as amateur bicycle riders, will represent the Antlers Sportsmen club in the Dedbies. President T. J. Pawlias has made a big entry and expects the squad to finish well up in the point column.

The Chicago Orioles A. C. and Igorrote A. A. have nominated strong teams, as have many other smaller athletic clubs in and near Chicago. Some of the clubs have gathered skaters of great ability, and if other members balance their teams some of these associations should make a strong bid for the trophy.

Entries Close Tomorrow.

Walter Sonnenleiter, one of the most active directors in the playground system, has sent in names of 71 skaters to represent Waters playground. Paul Staff has made a strong entry from the Al J. Horan playground and the same is true of Gustav J. Elste of Emmet.

With only two days remaining before the entry list closes, nominations are being received in large batches. Some team captains and managers intend to wait until tomorrow night before making final entry, as trials will be held tomorrow to determine the best skaters in the clubs.

Judging from the present entry, it will be necessary to hold trials in the juvenile and junior Derbies Jan. 23. Entry in both races is so large that the field must be cut down to insure a completion of the program on the following day.

Entries close tomorrow at midnight and none will be accepted after this date.

SIX TIE WITH 68 IN PRO-AMATEUR GOLF IN TEXAS

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Three professionals and three amateurs divided honors in the best ball event at the opening of the Texas open tournament here today, each taking a 68. The professionals, Phil Hesler of Tulsa, John Golden of Paterson, N. J., and Al Espinosa, Chicago, split the first professional prize at $75 each, while the amateurs, Capt. A. M. Post and F. M. Lewis of San Antonio and Ross Young, right fielder of the New York National baseball club, won medals.

The excellent tee shots of John Rogers of Pittsburgh carried off the first prize of $50 in the driving contest. He gathered 51 points against 48 for William Mehlhorn of Chicago and 40 for Abe Espinosa of San Francisco. Rogers' first drive went 310 yards, his second 300, and his third 295.

SEES THRILL IN TEACHING GAME TO COLLEGIANS

Reports at Madison Tomorrow.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Ray Schalk, de luxe catcher of the White Sox, was engaged last night to teach baseball to the boys at the University of Wisconsin. A long distance phone call from Athletic Director George Little informed the south side star that his terms for imparting diamond knowledge had been accepted by the Badger institution and Ray will leave tomorrow morning to start work with the squad indoors tomorrow afternoon.

Lest a host of south side fans are wailing over this announcement, let it be said at once that "Cracker" is not deserting the White Sox. He intends to be a professor only until about Feb. 20, after which he will leave the Badger baseball boys in the hands of Coach Lowman, while he returns here for a week with his family before going to the Sox training camp at Shreveport.

New Thrill for Schalk.

Schalk was at Madison for three days last week, during which time he not only worked with the baseball squad in the gymnasium but also was presented to and inspected by most of the university officials, from the president down, and they quickly decided that he was the proper kind of man to be in charge of the young diamond prospects at the institution. There never was any doubt that he could explain and demonstrate a lot of baseball stuff that the boys up there do not know. Schalk named his terms for the work, and they were accepted last night by the proper authorities.

While Ray has busied himself for several winters in insurance and real estate, he was delighted last night with the prospects of a new kind of thrill in this college work. He is much interested in college men who have come into professional baseball, though he himself never had the opportunity to attend college and rose to his high place in the game as one of the boys off the sand lots.

Far Behind in Baseball.

"From the few days I spent with those college boys at Madison, I realized how much natural ability they possess and yet how far they are below the standard of the major leagues in baseball knowledge," he said. "It seems rather odd, too, because in football and basketball the college boys are at the top. They set the standard. We take off our hats to them in those games, and I wondered why they could be so far behind in the game of baseball.

"But I guess the schools don't concentrate on baseball as they do in the gridiron game and basketball. The boys have wonderful spirit in all of their athletics. Those young fellows just drink in everything you say to them, and it's a pleasure to work with them. I realized how much more eager they were to learn than are young fellows who come to our training camps after perhaps a season in some small minor league."

"Do you think a college boy entering professional ball has anything to help him along that a sand lotter hasn't?" Ray was asked.

More Determination.

"Undoubtedly he has, providing he has as much natural ability," was the reply. "I don't know what it is unless perhaps, his college education equips him with more spirit and determination in his work. As an example of great ball players of today who are college men, we have Eddie Collins and George Sisler. On the other hand, great players who are not college men are Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker. I think perhaps, Cobb and Speaker might have advanced still further, if such a thing is possible, had they been college men, and perhaps Collins and Sisler wouldn't have gone along so well without that foundation they built up in university life.

"I recall well the entrance of Ted Lyons into professional ball. We found him at Baylor college, in Texas, and he was induced to join the Sox. Ted is a great pitcher because he has wonderful spirit and determination, and along with it was a fine listener. He had strength, speed, and everything but experience. Big Ed Walsh and I worked with him, showing him things and telling him things. In a short time he was doing them correctly. And when he cried in the clubhouse after forcing in the winning run in the ninth inning with a base on balls on opening day in Detroit last year I knew he was going to be great because his heart was in the game. Not many boys from the bushes or sand lots would have had that intense feeling.

"I am sure there are boys like Ted at Wisconsin, boys who may be green at the game but who have the spirit to succeed, and I hope to be able to help them a lot in the short time I shall be with them."

GARDINI MEETS RUSSIAN LION ON MAT TONIGHT

Renato Gardini, the Italian heavyweight, and Jack Linow, known in mat circles as the Russian Lion, will take holds in the main event of the wrestling bouts at the Star and Garter tonight. Gardini wrestled twenty-five minutes to a draw with Whladek Zbyszko at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium Wednesday night, but many thought Renato had the best of the milling. In the other bout, George Vassall will meet Frank Le Mark, while Taro Miyaki will give an exhibition of jiu jitsu grappling with John Kilonis as a wrestling partner.

New Homes Fail to Stop Golf Play at Evergreen Links

BY MORROW KRUM.

That Chicago is the fastest growing city in America is reflected in the golf world. Courses that were "far out" yesterday are on the fringe of the residential districts today and tomorrow will be golf courses no more.

The Evergreen course is located at 87th street and Western avenue. It is a full eighteen hole course with plenty of yardage, natural hazards, and an atmosphere sufficiently rural to satisfy any one. It is a public course.

Although Evergreen used to be far out, "even beyond Beverly Country club," it is fast losing its suburban atmosphere. Property all around the course has been subdivided and houses are springing up at 87th street and Western avenue like mushrooms.

"Will Evergreen still be a golf course next summer?" the writer asked Ahearn.

"Yes. For sometime there was doubt in our mind," he answered. "The property has become so valuable that we doubted the advisability of continuing. The ground is too precious for a golf course. However, we have decided to stick it out one more year."

It may be whispered that the owners of the course were offered $2,000,000 for the property.

I. S. G. A. TO EXPAND

Two amendments to the bylaws were voted at the annual midwinter meeting of the Illinois Senior Golf association at the University club yesterday. It was decided to increase the membership of the organization from 350 to 400 members. The second amendment added another division, to be called class E, or the "fifth division," to the playing lists. The fifth division will include players over 70 years of age.

No decision as to the place for the spring and fall tournaments was made. Representatives of the Country Club of Peoria have asked for the former tournament, while Midlothian wants the seniors in the autumn. President Lewis W. Pitcher announced that the tournament sites and dates would be made public early in the spring.

Robert H. Hunter of Exmoor was again elected chairman of the tournament committee, and Ward W. Willits, another Exmoor member, was given charge of the membership committee.

Art Staff, world's professional ice skating champion, and Francis J. Allen, winner of the international, national, and Canadian amateur championships last season, who recently turned professional, will skate a series of races at the Cermark baseball park rink Sunday night. Both Staff and Allen are internationally famous for skating ability and both have won THE TRIBUNE Senior Silver Skates.

The match between Staff and Allen was clinched yesterday by Otis J. Taylor, who is managing Staff. The contest will be the first time that Staff has skated in a professional match race in Chicago, for although Art has held the pro title for several seasons and has skated several exhibitions here, he never has competed in a match. Allen also will make his debut in Chicago as a pro skater.

Match of Four Races.

Four races will make up the series. The distances will be 220 yards, 440 yards, three-quarters of a mile and one mile, and in between the races a series of figure skating events will be held. Fred Lewis will be in charge of the figure skaters and has invited the leading amateur fancy skaters of the city to compete.

Tomorrow night the Wallace A. C. will hold a series of races and a carnival at Winnemac park, Robey and Argyle street. All of the leading skaters of the city will compete, the speed skating program including events for all classes of racers, girls and boys. The carnival will follow the racing program.

The finals of the Board of Education playground tournament will be held in Lincoln park tomorrow afternoon. Elimination races have been held the last two weeks and the skaters appearing in the finals tomorrow all are winners in sectional meets. The playground meet will be held on the north pond at Lincoln park, while on the south pond at the same time the Lincoln park commissioners will hold their annual tournament.

State Title Meet Sunday.

The Opal A. A. will hold the Illinois state championship meet for class A skaters at Douglas park Sunday. A large field has entered. A race for intermediate boys, under 18 years of age, has been added to the regular program of events. The title series will consist of three events and the meet will be the final tryout for most of the skaters who will compete in THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derbies the following week.

The Henry Playground A. A. will conduct an ice derby and carnival at Humboldt park, Jan. 27 and the Continental and Commercial bank will hold a series of closed races for its employés in conjunction with the playground meet. John Mock, director at Henry Playground, is taking entries for the playgrounds meet while George Sonnenleiter will be in charge of the bank tournament.

Advises Poultry Raisers to Feed Corn to Breeders

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Poultry raisers can kill two birds with one stone this winter by feeding corn to hens in the breeding pens from now until the last eggs are produced for the incubator this spring. If every poultry raiser in the country feeds corn to his hens during the next few months he will not only aid in relieving the farmer of an enormous bushelage of the surplus corn crop, but he will put his hens in excellent condition for laying eggs to be used for incubation purposes.

As a winter poultry feed, corn this season is cheap, and, according to Henderson of the Illinois station, heavy grain feeding is one of the best means of increasing the body weight of hens that are to be used as breeders. He also recommends that mash be kept before them at all times, even though the liberal grain feeding will tend to cut down the amount of mash that will be eaten. This tends to keep the hens gaining in weight and puts them in good condition for the hatching season; but egg production should not be expected before the time of saving eggs in the spring, he says.

Henderson claims that pullets forced for egg production in the winter will not produce as high a percentage of vigorous chicks as old hens that are not forced. He favors late molting hens for breeders, and advises that they be allowed to rest in winter, because this is the time when they are renewing their feathers and rebuilding the fat and flesh which apparently are important in the production of hatching eggs.

Bob Conquers Swordsman in a Wild Race

BY BOB BECKER.

In the Florida Keys, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—In combating the sailfish, that sporty swordsman of the Gulf stream, you not only have to fight him with rod and line, but sometimes it is necessary to race with him—motor boat against his speed of fins and tail. This morning, while chugging around on the foam flecked Atlantic at the edge of the stream, we participated in one of these sailfish races and, due to the guide's quick thinking and a little luck, we won the race.

Joe Spots Him First.

All was quiet when the sailfish with a penchant for racing showed up. I was sitting in my big armchair soaking up the sunshine and just enjoying everything that goes to make up a fishing trip down here. The fragrant flying spray, the majestic wheeling of man o' war birds against a vivid blue sky, hot sun on your shoulders, mackerel darting through the air. Portuguese men of war floating like miniature green dirigibles—all of these factors were being duly appreciated when the champion swordsman and tumbler of the seven seas loomed behind our coaxer bait.

And Away They Chug.

"There he is," said Joe, the guide, in a high pitched, resigned tone as if to imply, "Well, there's a sailfish. It looks as if I had to see them first every time. Guess you fellows sleep most of the morning."

Yes, there he was, a dark shadow behind our lures. By actual timing of the watch it took twelve seconds to tease him into action and to hook him. And then the swordsman raced. What a spurt! One hundred yards, two hundreds yards away he went. The reel was reduced to a thin, weak spindle There was danger of being cleaned out. Joe took one look at the line situation and then fed his engine gas. Away he went across the ocean after that leaping, tumbling sailfish while I reeled in line as fast as I could. We won the race. A few minutes later the swordsman was conquered, but returned to the ocean uninjured.

Chicago Big Five Cagers Trim Lindstroms, 28-23

The Chicago Big Five basketball team of the 131st infantry defeated Lindstrom's All Stars, 28 to 23, at the 131st infantry armory last night. Freddie Dillon and Wickhorst starred for the infantry while Quinn was the outstanding player on the All Stars.

NOTES OF THE CUE ROOMS.

FANS LOOK FOR K. O. IN MATCH AT E. CHICAGO

Welsh, Barrett Both Pack Fistic Dynamite.

BOBBY BARRETT.

Frankie Welsh, west side welterweight, and Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia, will meet in the main event of the boxing show at East Chicago tonight. They will box ten rounds and weigh in at 152 pounds at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

This bout has aroused more local interest than any mill staged by Promoter Jim Mullen in the little auditorium at East Chicago. Both boxers can hit, and many fans will make the trip with the expectation of seeing a knockout.

Barrett Strong Infighter.

Barrett is a two fisted fighter. He likes to get in close and whale away with both hands. He will take a punch to land one and is noted for trading blows in toe to toe fashion. Welsh packs the wallop in his right hand and his west side friends expect him to defeat Barrett.

Jim Savage, the west side light heavyweight, and K. O. Ketchell of Philadelphia will be the principals in the six round semi-windup. Harry Graham of the stockyards and Mickey McLarnin of East Chicago, 140 pounders, will open the show in a six round engagement. Paul Allen, the former University of Illinois student, and Ray Olcott of Roseland, 131 pounders, will mix in the second six round preliminary.

Raynor Meets Adams.

Eddie Raynor and Steve Adams are billed to step six rounds for the lightweight championship of South Chicago, while Shuffle Callahan, under the management of Barney Abel, will take on Teddy Gartin of Denver in the other six rounder. They will scale 148 pounds.

A regular train on the Illinois Central will leave the Randolph street terminal at 6:35 o'clock, while busses will leave 153 North Clark street at 7 o'clock.

Dwindling hog receipts added tone to yesterday's trade and the top and average moved up 15c at $12.65 and $12.00 respectively, being as high as any day since the first week of last Ocotober. Receipts were estimated early at 38,000 and later at 35,000. Quality graded best of the season, with pigs scarcer than usual. Trade ruled weak in mid-session, but finished strong, with most of the 12,000 over held off the market. Average price a week ago was $11.95, a year ago $10.40, and two years ago $7.20.

Quality of cattle rated only fairly good, and with strictly prime and fancy steers absent most sales indicated a further slight recession of the market. Prices in many instances were 10@15c under the previous day and 25@40c below Tuesday. A lower tendency in dressed meat markets added to the weakness. Good 1,400 lb beeves topped at $11.25, with best yearlings available averaging 986 lbs at $10.60. Choice light heifers were scarce and steady, while cows lowered 10@15c further. Calves were generally steady, with best stronger. Bulls were slow and weak. Stockers and feeders sold slowly and a shade lower.

Sheep Receipts Large.

Sheep receipts late yesterday were estimated at 25,000, against 21,000 early in the day, and an advanced estimate of 18,000. Lamb prices broke 25@50c under stress of this unexpected increase in supplies, with only a few fancy light weights to shippers and city butchers as high as $16.00. Top to packers rested at $15, with bulk of better grades at $15@15.50, hay fed Montana lambs being the inside figure. Yearlings declined mostly 25c, with best handy weights at $13.65. Two year old wethers at $11.50, and old wethers, $11.00. Feeding lambs were steady to weak.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 4,000 cattle, 28,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep, against 5,136 cattle, 72,565 hogs, and 12,801 sheep the corresponding Friday a year ago.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Divergence of speculative opinions as to the future course of stock prices was illustrated by the confused movements in today's curb market. Chief speculative interested again centered in the public utilities, several of which attained record high prices on unconfirmed rumors of mergers, special dividend distributions, and stock split ups.

United Gas and Improvement was one of the outstanding features, soaring more than 4 points to a new top at 134⅝ and then easing to 132⅛. American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction, American Power and Light, and Midwest Utilities closed 2¾ points higher. A few issues, such as Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, United Gas and Electric, and United Light and Power, fell back a point or two on profit taking.

Electric refrigeration issues held firm. Rubber shares developed increased activity in reflection of the widespread interest being taken in measures to foster American production of the crude product. Gov. Pinchot's proposal to regulate the anthracite industry brought fresh selling into the coal shares, Glen Alden showing a net loss of 3½ points. Nickel Plate [new stock] advanced more than 2 points.

Oils failed to maintain their early gains, although American Maracaibo crossed 14 and Gibson sold above 6, both at new high records. Standard Oil of Kentucky and Humble each sagged a point, but most of the other active issues showed only fractional changes.

Bond prices registered further improvement in moderately active trading. Renewed accumulation of Mexican government securities followed the formal announcement that a fresh start had been made toward carrying out the Mexican debt agreement in its modified form. With distributions of interest to the bondholders in prospect within the next six months, all the assented issues listed on the New York Stock exchange were in demand, scoring gains of 1 to more than 2 points. Some of the French bonds also were firmer, on indications that another effort would be made soon to settle the debt to the United States.

Strength of public utility stocks created a wider interest in the bonds of these companies, although price movements lacked uniformity. Buying of Third Avenue Railway issues contrasted with selling of the Interborough issues. Utah Power 5s and North American Edison 6s were other strong features.

The demand for railroad liens embraced Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, Peoria and Eastern income 4s, Great Northern 5s, Lehigh Valley 6s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s, and Seaboard refunding 4s. Chesapeake and Ohio and Delaware and Hudson convertible issues were heavy.

Strength of sterling exchange cables touching $4.86, the highest price since last May, featured the foreign exchange market. French francs were again heavy. Other European rates were firm. Japanese yen advanced 44 cents to the highest rate in nearly three years.

SHORTS START TO COVER AND FIND WHEAT OVERSOLD

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An oversold condition was disclosed in the wheat market here and in Liverpool when shorts started to cover, and May here advanced to $1.76⅝, or 2⅛c over the finish of the previous day and 4⅝c above the inside figure of that day. The close was within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 1⅝@2⅜c, with May $1.76@ to $1.76½; July, $1.52⅞ to $1.52⅝, and September $1.45. Liverpool gained 1⅝@2¼d, while Buenos Aires was up 1⅛@2c. Winnipeg advanced 2⅜@2⅝c.

Liquidation of a line of long corn credited to a local trader gave that market a heavy undertone throughout the day, with May selling down to 86¾c, or ⅝c under Wednesday's close, and the finish was ½@⅝c lower, with May 87⅛@87c, July 89⅛c, and September 90⅝c. Oats were ⅛@¼c higher, with May 45⅞@45⅝c, and July 46⅛c. Rye closed 2@2⅛c higher, with May $1.11⅛@1.11⅜, and July $1.09⅝.

Offers Help Wheat Trade.

Strength in the domestic cash position, with premiums at Kansas City 1@2c higher and Omaha up 1c, with reports of a better flour trade, had considerable effect on the local wheat market. Many of the pit element were short and started to cover when commission house buying appeared, and there was further support from some of the leading operators who have turned bullish again in the last few days. Selling against offers was a factor in checking the bulge for a time, and at the last the sellers of offers had to protect themselves.

A summary of the wheat situation by J. E. Carney, with Bartlett-Frazier company, called attention to the fact that supplies of bread wheat east of the Rockies this season were only 501,000,000 bu, compared with 587,000,000 bu in 1908-09, the Patten year, when a pronounced scarcity of cash wheat developed and the price advanced to $1.60, an almost unheard of figure at that time.

Conflicting reports as to export business were received from the seaboard, with estimates ranging from 300,000 to 800,000 bu. A private cable estimated the Australian exportable surplus at 72,000,000 bu, compared with the general run of figures of late of around 60,000,000 bu. Argentine clearances for the week are expected to be 629,000 bu, against 4,199,000 bu last year, and rain is delaying the movement in that country.

Slight Rally in Corn.

Buying against bids checked the decline in corn, and a fractional rally from the inside figure came at the last in sympathy with wheat. A private cable from England quoted Argentine corn offered there at equal to 80c, New York, or 8@9c under what was asked for the domestic article f. o. b. Country offerings to arrive were small, and the spot basis ½c higher to 1c lower. Oats were dull, and held within a range of ⅛c. Firmness in wheat and the purchase of 40,000 bu rye by Norway caused the advance in the latter grain.

HOGS AND PRODUCT HIGHER; TRADE IS MORE ACTIVE

A larger trade, a stronger market for hogs and product and a good advance in prices featured the market for hog products. Net gains on lard were 12½c to 27½c, the latter on July. Short ribs advanced 17½c net, and bellies after a good gain reacted and closed 15c higher. Cash trade in lard and meats was good, with hams advanced ¼c to ½c. Exports of lard from the seaboard on Wednesday were 1,709,000 lbs, and of bacon, 74,000 lbs. Prices follow:

C. & N. W. Plans Outlay of $20,000,000 in 1926

The Chicago and Northwestern railway will spend $20,000,000 for equipment and improvements during 1926, according to an announcement made last night by Fred W. Sargent, president. The expenditures will include $2,000,000 for equipment, $2,000,000 for extension of lines, $5,000,000 for rail and track material, and $5,000,000 for improvements not yet completely outlined. The improvements will cover 1,000 miles of track transversing nine states, and will bring employment of thousands of men.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Conflicting reports as to export sales of wheat were received from the seaboard, with estimates ranging from 300,000 to 800,000 bu. Japan was said to be taking wheat on the Pacific coast according to messages from there. A private cable said Germany would have to import 75,000,000 bu wheat before the end of the season. China continues to buy low grade American and Canadian flour. One Minneapolis mill sold 10,000 brls second clears to exporters in the last few days and another sold 2,500 brls. Norway took 40,000 bu rye for March shipment.

Chicago cash handlers sold 44,000 bu wheat, including 15,000 bu No. 2 northern in store at May price, 36,000 bu corn, and 46,000 bu oats to the domestic trade. At St. Louis there were sales of around 40,000 bu wheat to mills, while a Kansas City house sold 10,000 bu No. 2 hard at 8c over and 10,000 bu No. 2 red at 9c over May to mills. Minneapolis reported shipping sales of 47,000 bu wheat, with about 50,000 bu taken out of lake storage by eastern mills. Deliveries on January contracts here were 25,000 bu corn.

Premiums on hard winter wheat at Kansas City advanced 1@2c and at Omaha 1c, but no change was made here, with No. 2 red 12@14c and No. 2 hard 7@7½c over May.

Cash corn was in moderate demand, with the basis ½c higher to 1c lower. No. 3 grades brought 7@8½c; No. 4 grades, 9@11½c; No. 5 grades, 12@14½c, and No. 6 grades, 15@16c under May. Outside markets were ½c higher to 1c lower.

History and Business: White Sewing Machine Corporation has been organized under Delaware laws to acquire the business and assets of White Sewing Machine Company (herein called the Company) an Ohio corporation. The business of the Company, the manufacture of sewing machines, was started in 1866, under the name of White Manufacturing Company, and was incorporated in 1876, under the name of White Sewing Machine Company. Since the latter date the Company has grown until today it is the second largest manufacturer of this product in the United States. The Company has been a leader in the development of the electrically driven machine. In 1919 7% and in 1925 62½% of its business consisted of these machines.

The Company's plant, containing about 800.000 square feet of floor space, is well located on 4.35 acres of land in Cleveland, Ohio, on both the Baltimore & Ohio and Erie Railroads.

New Properties: At the close of 1923 White Sewing Machine Company acquired full ownership of the stock of Theo. Kundtz Co., and in 1924 it contracted with Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the business and all the assets of Domestic Sewing Machine Co., as well as certain assets of King Sewing Machine Co. In January, 1925, the said assets and business of the aforementioned companies were consolidated with White Sewing Machine Company. The Theo. Kundtz Co. was one of the oldest and largest woodworking companies in the country and manufactured, among other products, sewing machine cabinets of all kinds. This business is being continued as a department of White Sewing Machine Corporation. The purchase of the Domestic Sewing Machine Co. resulted in an advantageous contract with Sears, Roebuck & Co. which runs to 1935. Under this contract the Company supplies Sears, Roebuck & Co. with its needs in the sewing machine line. As a result of the acquisition of these new properties the Company has been able to increase its business from approximately 70,000 machines in 1923 to approximately 125,000 machines in 1925, and at the same time substantially reduce its costs.

Management: The management of the Corporation remains in the hands of men who of late years have been responsible for the success of the business. At the head of the organization are Mr. A. S. Rodgers, the President, who has been with the Company for eleven years, Mr. Oscar Grothe, Vice-President in charge of manufacturing, who has been with the Company for twenty-six years and Mr. F. M. Payne, Vice-President in charge of sales, who has been with the Company for over twenty years.

Assets: After giving effect to this financing, the net tangible assets behind this Preference Stock as shown by the Balance Sheet, as of October 31st, 1925, amount to $7,031,631.77 or $70.31 for each share of Preference Stock.

Earnings: From the date of the incorporation of the Company in 1876 until the general industrial depression of 1921, the Company operated at a profit in every year except 1893 and 1894, in which years comparatively small losses were shown. Earnings after depreciation, but before interest and Federal taxes, as shown by an audit by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., to October 31, 1925, and after including estimates for November and December, 1925, at the rate of earnings for the previous ten months, are as follows:

1924	$ 905,737.52

THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK, Trustee.

SACHSISCHE BANK ZU DRESDEN, Co-Trustee.

Beginning June 1, 1926, a Cumulative Sinking Fund will operate semi-annually to retire the bonds of this issue by purchase at not exceeding 100 and interest, or by redemption by lot at 100. At least one-half of the bonds retired in each half-year will be redeemed by lot.

The following is summarized from letters of the Finance Minister of the Free State of Saxony, and the managing directors of the Saxon State Mortgage Institution, copies of which may be had on application to the undersigned:

In addition to the unconditional guarantee of the Free State of Saxony, which is one of the most important states of the German Reich, these bonds are secured by the pledge of an equivalent amount of mortgages (or cash in lieu thereof) constituting first liens on industrial properties, in amount not exceeding 30% of the conservatively appraised value of such properties, subject only to any charges created by the law of industrial charges or the law for the collection of industrial charges, and to possible minor charges not of a capital nature.

The Saxon State Mortgage Institution is under the same managing and auditing supervision as the Saxon State Bank, which has had a successful career since its establishment in 1862. A conservative loan policy is assured through the provisions of the charter law and by-laws, which establish general rules limiting the amount of individual loans and requiring under certain conditions the approval of regional credit committees, the state commissioner, the governing board and the ministry of finance.

The Saxon State Mortgage Institution is not required to issue industrial debentures under the so-called "Dawes Plan," but it will be required to make certain payments under the law for the collection of industrial charges, estimated not to exceed $2,500 per annum. It is believed that the adoption of the Dawes Plan has rendered extremely remote any attempt to enforce the first charge (under Article 248 of the Versailles Treaty) against the revenues and assets of the German states for reparation payments, and no jurisdiction has been given the transfer committee over transfers of the character required for the service of this loan.

Price 93½ and Interest, Yielding Over 7.63%

We offer these bonds if, as and when issued and received by us, subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Shearman and Sterling, New York City, and Dr. Ernst Wolff, Berlin. Delivery in temporary form is expected on or about February 1, 1926.

SYNDICATE BUYS VAN BUREN BLOCK --PAYS $400,000

BY AL CHASE.

The Chicago Title and Trust Co., as trustee for a syndicate, has taken title to the block of south frontage on Van Buren street, extending from Clinton to Canal, for a reported $400,-000, or at the rate of about $13.45 a square foot. It was bought for investment and no skyscraper is contemplated.

The sellers were John A. Weeks and John L. Lyttle, as trustees of the Estate of Arthur Bronson. The property fronts 320 feet on Van Buren street, extending back ninety-three feet to the "L." It has improvements which are considered of no value in the present purchase.

Held Since 1843.

The property had belonged to Arthur Bronson and his estate since 1843. The records reveal that Gourdon S. Hubbard bought the block bounded by Jackson, Van Buren, Canal, and Clinton from the school commissioner of Cook county in 1833 for $160.

Mr. Hubbard made a mortgage to Robert A. Kinzie dated Feb. 19, 1838, which mortgage was assigned in the following year by Kinzie to Arthur Bronson. This mortgage was afterward foreclosed and certificate of sale dated Oct. 31, 1843, was issued by the sheriff of Cook county to Mr. Bronson.

Daughter Now 93.

Arthur Bronson died in 1844 and, under his will the property went in trust for life to his daughter, who is now Mrs. Catherine R. Townsend, living in New York. She is ninety-three years old, and has outlived all her children.

William D. Kerfoot & Co. were brokers for the seller, and Alex Friend & Co. for the buyer. Mason Bros. and Defrees, Buckingham & Eaton were attorneys.

The price paid by the Neptune Meter company for the property at 130 North Jefferson and 615 West Randolph was $195,000, according to Alex Friend & Co., brokers, and not $250,000, as reported to THE TRIBUNE.

STOCK PURCHASE PRIVILEGE

The holder of each $1,000 Bond will be entitled to purchase at any time prior to November 1, 1930 a unit of 15 shares of the common stock at the rate of $5 per share. Holders of $500 Bonds will have proportionate stock purchase privileges.

Mr. William L. Moody, III., Vice-President of the Company, summarizes his letter to us as follows:

BUSINESS: The Houston Gulf Gas Company has contracted to supply with natural gas the entire gas requirements of the Houston Gas and Fuel Company. The latter Company has served the City of Houston with manufactured gas for domestic and industrial purposes since 1912. In addition, the Houston Gulf Gas Company will furnish a large part of the fuel requirements of the Houston Lighting and Power Company, which serves Houston with electric light and power. It will also serve certain suburbs of Houston. After meeting the requirements of these contracts the Houston Gulf Gas Company will be in a position to supply the demands of important industrial users.

TERRITORY SERVED: Houston is the second largest city in Texas. The total population to be supplied with natural gas purchased from the Houston Gulf Gas Company is estimated to be approximately 240,000. The community is industrially prominent due to the great natural resources of the surrounding territory and because of the exceptional water and rail transportation facilities that are available. Numerous industries that can use natural gas in large volume to advantage are located in or near Houston.

PROPERTIES: The Houston Gulf Gas Company owns, or controls through lease or contracts, approximately 100,000 acres of gas lands in south central Texas. Independent engineers have reported favorably on the available supply and reserves of natural gas. The pipe line that is now being constructed by the Company will extend 184 miles from the gas fields to Houston, and will have a capacity of approximately 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

SECURITY: These Bonds will, in the opinion of counsel, be secured by a closed first mortgage on all fixed assets of the Company, subject only to the usual farm mortgages on leased lands

The properties of the Company are conservatively estimated by independent engineers to have a value of $12,000,000 upon completion of the pipe line and when in full operation, as compared with a total funded debt of $5,700,000.

EARNINGS: The total annual net earnings of the Company available for bond interest and sinking fund requirements are conservatively estimated to be $1,501,750, as compared with maximum annual bond interest charges of $370,500. Under contracts already closed with the Houston Gas and Fuel Company, the Houston Lighting and Power Company and the municipality of Magnolia Park, the average annual net earnings of the Company for the first four years of operation derived from these sources alone have been estimated by Messrs. Sanderson & Porter, Engineers, to be in excess of $1,000,000.

MANAGEMENT: The General Manager of the Company is Mr. E. C. Connor, who is also chief consulting engineer for the Lone Star Gas Company, which serves Dallas, Fort Worth and other North Texas cities with natural gas. The Board of Directors consists of men with extensive experience in the natural gas industry and in financial affairs.

SINKING FUND: A minimum sinking fund of $50,000 per month will begin to operate May 1, 1926. This will be supplemented by an additional sinking fund and a special reserve based upon earnings. In addition, all cash received by the Company through the exercise of the above mentioned stock purchase privilege shall be applied to the retirement of these Bonds. It is estimated that this entire issue of First Mortgage Bonds will be retired prior to maturity.

Engineers reports have been made for the Bankers by the following independent engineers: Messrs. Brokaw, Dixon, Garner and McKee, New York, have reported on the gas supply and available reserves; H. A. Quay, Esq., Pittsburgh, Pa., has reported on the engineering features and the enterprise in its entirety. Ralph E. Davis, Pittsburgh, Pa., has made a report on the available gas and reserves and has prepared an estimate of earnings and of valuation. Messrs. Sanderson and Porter, New York, have made a survey of the market for natural gas in Houston and vicinity and have prepared a schedule of earnings based upon contracts already closed.

Legal matters in connection with the issuance of these Bonds will be passed upon by Messrs. Chapman, Cutler and Parker, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Vinson, Elkins, Sweeton and Weems, for the Company.

We offer these Bonds for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us, subject to the approval of all legal proceedings by counsel.

The Beginning of the End?

The collapse of the 1919 bull market followed the raising of the New York Federal Reserve bank rates. Within ten days stocks were down from 20 to 60 points. Not for five years was the market again as high as the day the rates were raised. Will the bank's recent action mark "the beginning of the end" of this great bull market?

LEECH DISCOVERS INQUIRY "TRADE" GROWS HERETIC

BY HARPER LEECH.

As scheduled in this column some time ago the usual congressional investigation boom is on. Some of it is routine stuff, but the business is taking on new aspects.

It is perfectly understandable why politicians should investigate aluminum, and should want to investigate electricity. Every year we increase at a breath-taking rate our output of both.

Efficiency, foresight, and the fruits thereof are so foreign to the psychology of politics that one cannot really blame the politician for his reactions of fear in such cases.

But why investigate rubber—that's lack, not abundance—oversight, not foresight? Surely there's nothing very peculiar about that from the political point of view.

Yes, the investigation business is changing, and one of the recent changes explains why the federal trade commission has become such an "enfant terrible." The very reformers, who raised the brat, now demand that it be thrown out on the ash heap.

It has violated the fundamental canon of the political investigation business—a business which it was supposed to make continuous and perpetual, to institutionalize, in fact.

Investigation has been the almost exclusive prerogative of the children of light and reform. It was not supposed to be for the legionaries of sin. Theirs was the rôle of being investigated.

Charged by the senate with the solemn duty of investigating the tobacco trust—or two corporations which are called a part of a trust, by those who still think historically of present day corporate ownership and control—the federal trade commission went to work. It probed the charges that the tobacco companies were discriminating against a growers' coöperative by refusing to buy coöperative tobacco.

The commission investigated and exonerated—that is, if you are "pro trust," "whitewashed"—if you are agin' it.

Nothing very unusual about that, but mark what followed. The commission also investigated the coöperative and its complaining officials.

It found that may of these officials, while drawing salaries from the coöperative, were also personally interested in tobacco re-drying plants.

That a large per cent of the coöperative tobacco had been redried in these plants, to the personal profit of some of the officials, and also that efforts of buyers to purchase tobacco in the green state had been hampered or even turned down flat by officials of the coöperative.

A table showing the interest of officials in these plants was incorporated in the report. More than once during the progress of the investigation effort was made to prevent the commission from including this part of its investigation in its report.

But it investigated the complainant—that's heresy of the blackest sort.

What is to become of the investigation industry if this shall be recorded as a precedent?

"Buying" Success with a CHECKING-SAVINGS ACCOUNT

WITH a "Republic" Checking-Savings Account you can "buy" success with as much certainty as you buy goods at a store. This is due to the fact that your saving becomes automatic. Consequently, unless you yourself decree otherwise, you cannot help but forge ahead. Under the Checking-Savings Plan, originated and copyrighted by this bank, you maintain but one account. Against this account you are privileged to draw checks. Then, once a month, the funds to your credit not required for checking purposes are automatically transferred to your Savings Fund, where they begin at once to earn 3% Compound Interest. A Checking-Savings Account offers thirty distinct advantages. These have been incorporated in a little folder, which we shall be glad to give you. A few outstanding advantages are listed below:

Bargains in Interest

This is bargain day at the "Republic" because interest is allowed from January first on all savings deposits made in Savings or Checking-Savings Accounts opened today. Why not secure this extra interest by opening your account now?

An Easy Way to Buy a Bond

Under our Bond Savings Plan you can now buy bonds on the Partial Payment Plan. On a $100 bond you make an initial payment of $10 and semi-monthly payments of $5, and in the meantime you receive 5% interest on your payments.

Your banking is placed on a strict systematic basis, because your Checking Fund becomes a practical expense budget and your saving becomes automatic.

Prestige—

Earning Power—

Your surplus earns 3% Compound Interest, because the amount not required for spending, is automatically transferred into your Savings Fund by the bank.

WORLD TRADE OF U. S. BREAKS FORMER RECORD

BY O. A. MATHER.

The United States sold and bought more goods in international trade last year anh in any previous year in its history. Our world commerce was a large factor in establishing prosperity at home, while at the same time it aided the economic recovery of other countries.

While the monetary value of our foreign commerce was exceeded in the postwar boom of 1919 and 1920, that was the result of inflated prices and the volume of commodities exchanged was less.

While our exports last year expanded measurably, compared with 1924, our imports made a greater increase. This reflects an approach to a more nearly normal balance, with improving conditions abroad. We were able to meet foreign competition in the world markets, while at the same time we absorbed a vast amount of foreign goods without harm to our own industries.

Big Increase Over 1924.

The total value of our international trade last year was $9,132,969,221, an increase of $932,022,797 over 1924. Our exports last year were $4,908,743,259, a gain of $317,759,414, while our imports were $4,224,225,962, an increase of $614,263,383. Therefore, although our favorable balance of trade last year was the comfortable amount of $684,517,297, this fell considerably below the favorable balance of $981,021,266 incurred in 1924.

"The figures demonstrate complete recovery of the trade of the United States from the war depression and the advancement of its trade to levels far above those of prewar years," Secretary Hoover explained. "None of the other great combatant trading countries has been able to do so well. They have a trade volume that in monetary value may equal prewar, but because of the higher price level now prevailing their trade volume is smaller in quantity than during prewar years."

Demand for Credit Lessens.

Sharp contraction in the demand for credit following the year end settlements and disbursements is shown in the weekly report of the federal reserve system. As a result, the position of the system shows further strengthening. Within the last week aggregate loans dropped $87,706,000, and open market bills declined $17,381,000. Note circulation fell $44,344,000 and deposits declined $4,228,000.

As a result of these changes the system's ratio of reserves to liabilities rose to 72.7 from 70.2 per cent in the preceding week. Gold and total reserves increased $55,013,000 and $67,813,000 respectively. At New York loans declined $9,648,000 and reserves increased $26,515,000.

The reserve ratio rose to 81.1 from 80.1 per cent. At Chicago loans dropped $49,473,000 and reserves increased $31,097,000. The reserve ratio rose to 71.5 from 63.3 per cent.

20 Per Cent Stock Dividend.

Directors of the Commercial Credit company of Baltimore yesterday declared a 20 per cent stock dividend on the common stock. The stockholders authorized a new issue of 120,000 shares of 6½ per cent first preferred stock, $100 par, and an increase in common stock from 480,000 to 856,000 shares, no par value. The first preferred will be on a parity as to assets and payments of dividends, with the $4,000,000 seven per cent preferred stock outstanding. Public offering of $8,000,000 of the new preferred will be made next week by a banking group.

The J. G. Brill company, one of the largest concerns in the construction of street railway equipment, will be merged with the American Car and Foundry company. The merger involves companies having total assets of $150,000,000 and outstanding stock issues of nearly $75,000,000. A new concern will be organized in Delaware to take over a majority of the outstanding stocks of the Brill company and the American Car and Foundry Motors company. The American Car and Foundry company will own a majority of th voting stock of the new corporation.

Southwestern Light and Power.

E. A. R., Davenport, Ia.: The Southwestern Light and Power company supplies electric light and power, directly or through subsidiaries, to 29 communities in southwestern Oklahoma and the adjoining region in Texas. It also owns artificial ice plants in six cities and distributes natural gas in Lawton, Temple, and Altus, Okla. The communities served have a total population estimated at over 63,000. The company is issuing $1,000,000 first mortgage and collateral lien 6 per cent bonds, series "A," making a total of $3,100,000 of these bonds now outstanding of an authorized issue of $5,000,000. These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on all the electric and ice properties owned or controlled by the company in Oklahoma, and are further collaterally secured by pledge of all the bonds and stocks of the Quanah Light and Ice company (Tex.) and the Southwestern Gas and Fuel company. The reproduction cost of the property is appraised at substantially more than the total funded debt. The electric properties alone are valued at considerably more than the total bonds outstanding. Net earnings available for bond interest for the twelve months ended Nov. 30, 1925, were $387,429, or over twice the annual interest requirements of $186,000 on the total funded debt presently to be outstanding. These bonds are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Prices advanced along with crude oil and lard, light stocks and continued absence of tender. January was bid up to 11.50c by nervous shorts. New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—An unexpected outbreak of selling turned the course of prices reactionary towards the close of today's stock market after an earlier period of irregularity, which was featured by the spirited demand for the public utilities and a temporary outburst of strength in the motors. The general list continued to fluctuate within a relatively narrow trading area.

Motor shares were in supply soon after the opening on the Studebaker price cut. The selling originated with bear traders, who rushed to cover when strong buying support developed during the early afternoon. Hudson rose from 112 to 118½, and then sagged to 115⅝, up 1⅞ on the day. General Motors closed nearly a point lower at 119⅞ after selling as high as 122. Mack Trucks showed a net loss of ⅝ at 148¼ after having touched 150⅞.

Melon Rumors Revive Interest.

Revival of speculative interest in the public utilities was associated with rumors of higher dividends, capital splitups, and new combinations. North American, Philadelphia, Montana Power, and Standard Gas and Electric all showed net gains of a point or two, but early advances in a number of others were substantially reduced in the late wave of selling.

U. S. Steel common was heavily sold in the final hour, showing a net loss of more than a point at 134½ after having sold above 136 during the morning. American Can broke 4½ points to 285, and General Electric, Sears-Roebuck, American Safety Razor, California Packing, General Asphalt, May Department Stores, Nash Motors, Remington Typewriter, Sloss-Sheffield Steel, and Woolworth closed 2@5 points net lower.

Insurance Stocks Buoyant.

Insurance company stocks were buoyant on publication of exceptionally good earnings statements. Fidelity Phoenix jumped 5 points to 195, and Continental was run up 5½ to 143¼ and then fell back to 141. Local tractions also displayed a strong undertone.

Rails lacked effective support and yielded readily to selling pressure. Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, and Chesapeake and Ohio each broke about 3 points, and Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway, Chicago and Northwestern, and several others fell back a point or more. Some of the liquidation probably was influenced by the fact that freight car loadings in the first week of January were below the corresponding week last year.

Middle West Utilities featured trading in Chicago stocks yesterday, moving up another 5½ points to 132½. The advance is attributed to pool action. Reports had it that earnings for 1925 will show about $15 a share compared with $14.40 in 1924 on fewer shares then outstanding. It was rumored that the dividend rate is soon to be raised to $8 annually along with preferred stocks. Great Lakes Dredge dropped to a low of 158½, off 7½, as a result of Chairman Wild's letter to stockholders showing earnings of $5.76 a share less for 1925 than in 1924. The stock closed at 163¼ on a 10 share sale, off 2¾ on the day.

Pines Winterfront and Omnibus each advanced ⅝ and Union Carbide was up ⅝. United Biscuit was ¼ higher. Stewart-Warner declined 1⅞ to 87⅝. Bendix eased ⅞, Armour B was off ¼, and Yates Machine closed ⅛ lower. On small sales, gains were: Middle West Utilities prior lien and Public Service no par, 2 points each; Public Service 7 per cent preferred, 3 points and Middle West Utilities preferred and Hart, Schaffner & Marx, a point each. United Light & Power A common declined 1½ and Diamond Match and Auburn Automobile each were off a point.

C. S. Ellis was elected a new director of the Consumers company after which the board declared a dividend of $7 a share on the preferred, thereby paying up all arrears, and a semi-annual dividend of $3.50. Net profits after charges for 1925 were $654,879. The Wrigley company announced the purchase of a tract of land in London on which will be erected a plant to cost more than $500,000.

Purpose of Issue: These bonds are issued to provide funds for the acquisition of well-established properties with a substantial record of earnings.

Properties: The Companies, directly or through their subsidiaries, own 27 plants in 13 States and Canada, located either on land owned in fee or on railroad property under leases, none of which expires prior to 1936 and in all except four cases extending beyond the maturity of the bonds.

The depreciated reproduction value of the fixed properties of the issuing corporations and subsidiaries of which the entire capital stock is pledged as security for the bond issue, in accordance with recent independent appraisal is $10,897,247, in addition to which the Companies and their subsidiaries have net current and other assets in excess of $1,750,000.

Earnings: Net earnings of the Companies and present subsidiaries available for interest (without including earnings of the properties acquired through this financing) after depreciation of $1,338,000 for the period, as verified by independent audit, have been as follows for years ended December 31:

Including net earnings as reported for the acquired properties, net earnings for 1925 were equivalent to over 9 times maximum annual interest, and over 5 times average annual interest and principal charges upon these Series A bonds.

Security: The bonds are the joint and several obligations of the issuing corporations and secured by pledge of the entire capital stock of all existing subsidiaries and those acquired as an entirety through the proceeds of the bond issue. The bond issue will constitute the entire indebtedness other than ordinary current liabilities of the issuing corporations and pledged subsidiaries. Under the trust indenture neither issuing corporations nor pledged subsidiaries can create a mortgage upon any of their properties nor any indebtedness for longer than one year.

Guaranty: The entire capital stock of the issuing corporations is owned by, and the bonds are unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by The City Ice & Fuel Company, founded in 1894, and now the second largest corporation in its line of business in the United States. The consolidated statement of the guarantor and subsidiaries shows total assets in excess of $34,000,000, with gross revenues for 1925 of over $12,000,000. The guarantor corporation has outstanding 892,000 shares of common capital stock, upon which dividends are paid at the rate of $2.00 per annum, and which in accordance with existing quotations have a market value of over $20,000,000.

Offered when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to approval of counsel. Delivery in the form of temporary bonds is anticipated on or about January 25, 1926.

Motor Discount Incorporated

6% Collateral Trust Serial Gold Notes

Dated December 1, 1925 Due Serially December 1, 1926 to 1930 incl.

Coupon notes in interchangeable denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Interest payable June 1 and December 1 without deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax not in excess of 2%. The Company agrees to make payment of Principal and Interest in Chicago, New York and Citizens Trust and Savings Bank, South Bend, Trustee at the option of the holder. Redeemable as a whole or in part on thirty days' notice at 100½, plus ¼ of 1% for each six months' period or fraction thereof, of unexpired time prior to maturity.

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: The business of the Company is a specialized form of commercial banking consisting principally of the discounting of installment notes arising from the sale of the better known standard makes of automobiles.

In each year since its inception in 1920 the Company has reported a profit larger than the preceding year, and has been offered obligations meeting its stringent requirements in a volume beyond its capacity to handle. The Company now has offices in South Bend, Indiana, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Jackson and Grand Rapids, Michigan and Toledo, Ohio. The principal volume of business arises from Northern Indiana and Illinois, Southern Michigan and Northwestern Ohio.

The soundness of the Company's business is shown by the fact that total credit losses not covered by indemnity bonds or insurance since the inception of its business have amounted to less than 1/20 of 1%.

SECURITY: The Motor Discount Incorporated will pledge as security for these Notes secured installment or motor lien obligations in an amount equivalent at all times to 115%, or cash equivalent to 105%, of the total aggregate amount of Notes outstanding under this agreement. The Company covenants to limit its aggregate liability upon all loans and obligations whatsoever to a maximum of five times its then cash capital, surplus, and profits as substantiated quarterly by a certified financial statement filed with the Trustee.

These Notes and any short term Collateral Trust Notes issued by the Company are direct obligations of the Company, all Notes being secured exactly alike, ratably and without preference, by similar, revolving, self liquidating receivables deposited with, and assigned to the Trustee at the rate of $115 of secured obligations for each $100 of notes then outstanding.

The capital, surplus, and profits of the Company as of November 30, 1925 amounted to $1,250,000.

EARNINGS AND OPERATING STATISTICS: The net earnings available for interest and discount for the two years and eleven months ending November 30, 1925 are reported from the audit of Touche Niven & Co., as follows:

Year	Gross Receivables Purchased	Net Earnings Before Taxes	Interest and Discount Charges	Times Earned
1924	2,108,633.00	126,151.69	49,807.02	2.53
1925 (11 Mos.)	5,106,099.00	259,623.61	95,228.17	2.72

The Company reports the amount of loss on notes purchased in 1923, $337.37; in 1924, $726.81; in eleven months of 1925, $1,800.32. These figures represent respectively 22/1000 of 1%, 35/1000 of 1%, and 35/1000 of 1% of gross receivables purchased.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The purpose of this issue is to fund in part current loans which will reduce interest and discount charges, and to increase working capital for expansion of the business, which should proportionately increase net earnings.

GENERAL: At the present time 70% of our automobile contracts are on Ford cars and the balance mainly on Chevrolet, Dodge, Buick, Nash, Hudson, Essex, Chrysler and Overland cars. The average note on new automobiles is about $400, and on used automobiles $182.

The Company's assets are quick and its receivables are self-liquidating secured notes widely distributed as to risk among thousands of original car purchasers. An analysis of operations indicates that by discontinuing purchases all notes could be paid within four and one-half months out of cash on hand and current collections. It is calculated that the lowest ratio of security to face amount of installment notes purchased is 135.70% whereas this ratio at the present time is about 150%.

The Company has paid uninterrupted dividends upon its Preferred and Common Stocks since the inception of the business, 12% having been paid continuously upon the Common Stock.

Application will be made to list these notes on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

Legal proceedings—Messrs. Chapman, Cutler & Parker, of Chicago, for the Bankers; Messrs. Hubbard & Pettengill, of South Bend, for the Company. Auditors—Touche Niven & Co., Chicago.

We offer these notes when, as and if issued and received by us subject to the approval of counsel. Pending the issuance of definitive notes by the company, there may be issued Interim Receipts or Temporary certificates exchangeable for definitive notes when issued.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR BIG THINGS IN 1926.

Do you ever wonder what it is all about?

Do you envy your friend or neighbor who is really getting ahead?

Does your wife have more worries and fewer pleasures than some wives you know?

Will your children have the opportunities that you and your wife planned for them?

Do you owe money? Do you own your own home? Have you a car?

This is the time of year to sort of take stock—get your bearings—plan your future and get out of the rut.

But—planning alone will not help you. You must act—you must carry out your plan. Let me help you.

I am 34 years old—full of energy and willing to use it. Ten years ago I was a small town worker in a grocery store. I was young and thought of little besides pleasure.

I got married—that meant I had to have more money. My wife expected big things from me. I got a job as traveling salesman and made good, but I was away from home for weeks at a time. My wife kicked, but what could I do? I couldn't stand an inside job again with its small pay.

My wife said: "Let's move to Chicago and get into a city salesman's job—good money and home every day." We came.

Today I am Vice President and Sales Director of this firm. One of the biggest in its field in Chicago. I own my own home. I carry $75,000 Life Insurance, and have just bought a Cadillac Sedan. I own several pieces of Real Estate. I own stocks and bonds and I am a club member. All this because I started something.

My boyhood chum is still behind the grocery counter.

During 1925 several of these men earned $300 per week. Many others averaged $150 per week and upward.

I want several new men—experience means nothing if you are a willing worker. This ad appeared a week ago. Several of the applicants are already working and their earnings have run from $100 to $275 for their first week.

If you will co-operate with me I will make 1926 a big year for you. Call at 10 a. m. today.

Prof. Lewis has been engaged by some of the large corporations in the United States. Many people owe their success to him. His marvelous and wonderful delineations in public and private place him in a class by himself. Consult him absolutely free from 10 o'clock to 3 and from 7 to 8. Those selected by Prof. Lewis will be given positions by large Chicago corporation.

HEALTH,
CONTENTMENT.

Greater power, more money, self-mastery are yours through a simplified system of applied psychology to be conducted for a limited number of women who can qualify for this training.

This course is of greater dynamic potency than those for which you would pay $100 to $200 and is free to those who are sincere in wanting to make 1926 a banner year of their lives.

In addition to being trained in self-mastery, confidence, and faith, you will also be taught how to immediately cash in on these subjects and will be given vocational guidance through character analysis.

Free lectures, 4th floor London Guarantee Bldg., 360 N. Michigan-av., start Friday, Jan. 15, 8 p. m.

THEODORE WALLISER,
Psychologist, Character Analyst.
